U. S. Tanks Rout Nazis; Russians 20 Miles from Warsaw

GUNS, PLANES BLAST FLEEING FOE IN FRANCE

Yanks in Outskirts of Coutances.

U. S. 1ST ARMY HDQ. IN NORMANDY, July 28.—Troops of Germany's 7th army were struggling tonight to get thru a 10 mile escape corridor along the coast 8 miles below Coutances as spearheads of Lt. Gen. Omar N. Bradley's smashing tank offensive carried into the outskirts of Coutances itself.

On the east of this escape corridor, now being narrowed by other powerful columns pounding in a wide swing southeast of Coutances toward the Atlantic ocean, American artillery is shelling every road down which the Germans are fleeing to the south.

American fighter bombers and medium bombers blasted the Nazi columns late in the day as a heavy overcast, which earlier prevented close aerial support for the fast driving Yank forces, began to lift. Fighter planes also flew low to blast tank concentrations and troops hiding in the hedges.

Veteran pilots flying over the area said the German retreat was more disorderly than the rout in Africa and that the enemy had paid a heavy price to extricate the bulk of the seven battered divisions above Coutances.

Six Columns Drive On.

Small groups of Germans pocketed behind the lines, as the Yanks surged forward, fought all day to break out but these attempts were frustrated as mop-up squads moved in to consolidate the areas.

Six American tank columns were pushing ahead steadily over 200 square miles of territory under the impetus of Gen. Bradley's order to keep the enemy under constant attacks. These armored forces captured Tessy on the west bank of the Vire river, 10 miles south of St. Lo; drove to within less than a mile of Percy; were within 18 miles of Avranches at the base of the Breton peninsula, and made these other gains:

Captured St. Samson de Bon Fosse, five miles south of St. Lo and drove on toward the Vire river. Last German holdouts on the western and southern edges of St. Lo were liquidated and valuable high ground to the south was seized.

In a one mile advance east of St. Lo, a 12 mile stretch of the road to Caumont was cleared; Vidouville and La Barre de Semilly were captured in a push toward the east bank of the Vire.

Cut Lateral Road.

Tanks fanning out six miles southeast of Marigny seized the Bois de Soulles and cut a lateral road two and a half miles south of Le Mesnil-Herman.

Notre Dame de Cenilly was captured in a three mile advance south of Cerisy La Salle.

BREAK WITH TURKS IS SEEN AS IMMINENT BY GERMAN ENVOYS

ANKARA, Turkey, July 28 (AP).—Franz von Papen, Germany's ambassador to Turkey, took a plane from Istanbul to Ankara, the Turkish capital, today in the midst of seething rumors that Turkey was plunging swiftly toward a break with the axis and perhaps into war.

There was the likelihood that many of the reports were exaggerated, but nevertheless diplomatic circles buzzed with the import of things to come.

German envoys were said to be admitting that a break in economic relations with Turkey was imminent and that might be followed by a diplomatic break.

Bulgaria also was said to be negotiating to get out of the war.

[The German radio said Turkey and Russia were working on an agreement with representatives conferring at Moscow after drafting had begun at Ankara.]

Narrow Nazis' Escape Route Out of Baltic

War 30 Years Ago

World War I started in Europe 30 years ago yesterday. On July 28, 1914, Austria-Hungary declared war on the Balkan country of Serbia, the Austrian archduke, Francis Ferdinand, having been assassinated a month earlier at Sarajevo. Serbia appealed to her ally and protector, Russia. Moscow ordered a partial mobilization on July 29, the day the German imperial council decided on war against Russia and France. On Aug. 2 Germany invaded France, and Russia invaded Germany.

LONDON, July 29 [Saturday]—(AP).—Russian troops swept to within 20 miles of the Polish capital of Warsaw yesterday, Moscow announced today. It added that three German divisions, perhaps 30,000 men, had been trapped near the Bug river stronghold of Brest Litovsk, which fell yesterday, and were under heavy fire.

In the north soviet units of Gen. Ivan C. Bagramian's 1st Baltic army plunged to within 50 miles of Riga, taking Joniskis and closing on the German Baltic army of possibly 300,000 men imperiled in Estonia and Latvia now that the main axis rail route to German East Prussia has been snapped. The Russians were only 30 miles from Jelgava, whence a single track railway extends to East Prussia. This line is the Germans' last railway escape route.

Far to the south the German strongholds of Jaroslaw and Przemysl fell to Russian Ukraine forces striking westward toward Krakow on the main trunk railway to Germany. Red army troops also began ascending the Carpathian mountain roads toward nearby Czechoslovakia, only a few miles distant.

Battle for City at Hands.

With the battle of Warsaw likely to begin in the next 24 hours, a Moscow bulletin said at midnight that everywhere "a battered and beaten enemy is rolling westward" with Red armies in pursuit.

German units were being hurled back into Praga, eastern suburb of Warsaw, which is across the Vistula river on the west bank, Moscow dispatches said. The Russians were racing toward the city along a broad highway, and during yesterday's operations they seized Kolbiel, 20 miles southeast of Warsaw.

Polish underground warriors were fighting the Germans inside Warsaw, dispatches said.

The Russians now hold about an 80 mile stretch of the east bank of the Vistula southeast of Warsaw and Marshal Rokossovsky's troops are expected shortly to cross the river in a flanking movement on the city. Dispatches said there was still no sign of a German fixed line of defense in the Warsaw area.

960 Towns Seized.

The Moscow bulletin said 7,000 Germans were killed yesterday, 3,000 at Brest Litovsk, and 960 towns captured.

One German broadcast said that Kaunas, former Lithuanian capital, 45 miles from German East Prussia, had been abandoned, but later Berlin reports failed to mention the city and suggested that it still was being bitterly defended.

GERMAN WAR REPORT.

The broadcast German war bulletin yesterday said:

"On the eastern front a great defense battle between the Carpathian mountains and the Gulf of Finland further increased in intensity.

"Since the enemy had succeeded in various sectors in breaking into our front, at some places deeply, German forces were withdrawn from front salients in some sectors to concentrate troops. To straighten the front, Lwow, Brest Litovsk and Daugavpils were evacuated after destruction of all important military installations.

"In Galicia, German troops detached themselves from the enemy and withdrew to new positions in the forefield of the Carpathian mountains.

"In the sector of Bialystok and Kaunas local soviet attacks were foiled. North of Kaunas violent fighting against enemy tank and reconnaissance forces is in progress."

THE GLEANERS

World Bright Again for Hero Blinded in Raid

Phoenixville, Pa., July 28 (AP).—Blind Sgt. Forrest L. Vosler, 20, of Livonia, N. Y., holder of the congressional medal of honor, opened his eye the other morning at Valley Forge General hospital.

"Gosh, they're bright," he said, "just like a technicolor movie. Much brighter than I remember when I could see last December."

A cataract that blurred his left eye was removed at Deshon General hospital near Pittsburgh, but all he could see was a flickering light. Then he was brought to Valley Forge hospital on June 2 to have his wounded right eye removed in the hope that the vision in the other would become clear. That hope was fulfilled.

Co-ed Offers Eye.

A California co-ed who heard of his blindness had offered to give him one of her eyes to restore his sight. He expressed his gratitude, but refused the offer.

His plane, shot down by German fighters, plunged into the North sea and Vosler, wounded and blinded by gunfire, crawled out on the wing, followed by a wounded tail gunner. Suddenly, Vosler, hearing a noise behind him, sensed what had happened. The tail gunner, weak from wounds, had slipped into the water.

Saves Companion.

Without hesitation, Vosler plunged into the water, groped and found his companion and then held him afloat until both were pulled to safety. It was this heroic act that won him the award.

"God sure was good to me," Vosler said. "I guess I won't see any more fighting and I wish the war was ended. I don't like being toted around as a hero, but if it helps the war, I guess it's the only thing left that I can do."

And the courthouse bell tolled 29 times to tell the community that the July 29 club, upholder of the tradition that it always—well, nearly always—rains in Waynesburg on its name day, was right again.

A drizzle began at a minute before midnight and continued about four minutes to end a vigil by Atty. John Daily, "chief rainmaker," and other club members, who said that Waynesburg has had only three dry July 29ths in the last 67 years.

PHONE COMPANY MOVES TO END USE OF SLUGS

The Illinois Bell Telephone company disclosed last night that it is taking steps to eliminate use in public telephones of slugs which, it was acknowledged, has been "an annoyance to the public and has hurt the city's reputation."

Everett C. Friganza, the company's news service director, disclosed that new contracts have been signed with numerous large and small operators of drug and cigar stores, department stores and hotels to eliminate the use of slugs. Under the new contracts, the telephone company assumes losses thru use of illegitimate coins and reduces the commission paid to the store owner from 22½ to 20 per cent.

"It is obvious Chicagoans dislike slugs, and we are going to help get rid of them," Friganza said.

Democrat Boss in N.Y. Indicted as Fund Thief

Albany, N. Y., July 28 [Special].—Gov. Dewey's fight against the Democratic "O'Connell machine" of Albany county today resulted in a grand jury indictment of 29 counts charging John J. Murphy, Albany Democratic leader, with misappropriating $45,000 of Democratic campaign funds.

The money was not reported in the O'Connell machine's official list of contributions and expenditures, as required by New York state law.

The indictment charged that Murphy's alleged misappropriations occurred in the annual Sept. 1 to Nov. 20 campaign periods from 1939 to 1943.

Arraigned before Supreme Court Justice Parton Swift, Murphy pleaded not guilty to 13 counts charging grand larceny in the first degree, six counts charging grand larceny in the second degree, and 10 misdemeanor counts. He furnished $15,000 bail.

Holds No Official Post.

The indictment described Murphy as "the bailee, servant, attorney, agent, clerk, and trustee" of the Albany county Democratic committee, altho he holds no official position and occasionally has been a delegate to state and national Democratic conventions. He is secretary of the Hudson river regulating commission, a state agency.

The indictment charged in some counts that Murphy misappropriated money belonging to the county committee and in other counts that he appropriated for his own use money turned over to him by individuals.

Special Prosecutor George P. Monaghan, an independent Democrat named by Gov. Dewey last December to investigate the O'Connell machine, said "proof is available showing well over $100,000 in a five year period taken by Mr. Murphy." He did not explain the difference between the $45,000 named in the indictment and the $100,000.

Dewey Warning in 1942.

If convicted, Murphy faces a maximum prison term of 10 years for each first degree larceny count, five years for each second degree count, and one year for each misdemeanor charge.

While campaigning for the governorship in 1942, Dewey asserted that if elected he would take action against the O'Connell machine for "crime and corruption."

The machine, which blossomed into power while Franklin D. Roosevelt was New York governor, was said to thrive on income received for favors to gambling joints, vice resorts, a beer monopoly, and political assessments on real estate and oil station permits.

DEWEY-BRICKER CAMPAIGN WILL COVER NATION

Starts Sept. 1, Says Ohio Governor.

Columbus, O., July 28 (AP).—Dewey and Bricker, the Republican national standard bearers, will "cover the whole country" in an intensive campaign starting about Sept. 1, Gov. John W. Bricker, the Vice Presidential candidate, said today.

Bricker announced the general campaign plans after a two day conference in the east with Gov. Dewey, the Presidential nominee; G. O. P. Chairman Brownell, and other national leaders.

Will Cover All United States.

"We're going to cover the whole country," he said at a press conference. "There will be no halfway campaign. It will be complete, thoro and aggressive all the way."

The governor said no definite plans had yet been made to attempt to win Texas and other "solid south" states where disaffection cropped out at the Democratic national convention. "That will be determined as the campaign progresses," he said.

Ohio May Hear Dewey.

The governor said his campaign tours would be conducted by train, possibly in two special cars attached to regular trains.

Bricker said Dewey would "likely come into Ohio" for one or more speeches, adding "I would like for him to come very much."

DEWEY OPPOSES FISH

Albany, N. Y., July 28 (AP).—Gov. Dewey, Republican candidate for President, today publicly rejected the support of Rep. Hamilton Fish, Republican, who is running in New York's 29th congressional district, charging that Fish's injection of a racial or religious issue into a political campaign was "a disgraceful, un-American act."

Dewey's statement, which brought prompt retorts from Fish and Republican leaders backing his drive for reelection, was released by James C. Hagerty, executive assistant to the governor, who said it was prompted by an interview with Fish published yesterday in the New York Post.

In the interview, Hagerty said, Fish was quoted as asserting "the Jews are more or less for the New Deal, unfortunately."

Reiterates Opposition.

"Two years ago I publicly opposed the nomination and election of Congressman Fish," Dewey's statement said. "Statements attributed to him confirm my judgment expressed at that time.

"Any one who injects a racial or religious issue into a political campaign is guilty of a disgraceful, un-American act.

"I have always fought that kind of thing all my life and always will, regardless of partisan consideration. I have never accepted the support of any such individual and I never shall."

Hagerty read a telegram which said the New York paper had attributed the following to Fish:

"If you want more on that, they

Raid Japanese War Plants in Mukden Area

Washington, D. C., July 29 [Saturday]—(AP).—Super Fortresses of the 20th bomber command made a daylight attack today on Japanese industrial targets in the Mukden area in Manchuria, the war department announced early today.

A war bulletin announcing this said that no further details were immediately available.

Third Super Fort Raid.

This was the third air attack by the Super Fortress fleet against the Japanese. The first was on June 15 on steel mills at Yawata on Kyushu Island, at the southern end of the Japanese home island chain. On July 7, the 20th bomber command paid a return visit to the area, again bombing Yawata targets and attacking ship building facilities at near-by Sasebo.

In this area are concentrated heavy industries, including steel, synthetic oil, and ordnance. It is assumed that the bomber fleet took off from western China bases from which the two previous attacks were launched.

The attack on the Mukden region is a continuation of the pattern of strategic bombing set in the first raid on Yawata.

Factories Moved North.

The Japanese are known to have been moving many of their heavy industries and other war producing factories to Manchuria to remove them from the menaced home islands.

The bulletin announcing the latest attack was issued at the war department by Gen. H. H. Arnold, commanding general of the 20th air force as well as commander of all army air forces.

In the first initial attack on Yawata, the 20th command lost four of the giant planes, one over a target, one listed as missing, and two as the result of accidents.

PROMISE STEEL TO MAKE 1,750,000 BRITISH CORSETS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 28.—The British iron and steel control department has released enough hard strip steel to manufacture stiffenings for 1,750,000 corsets, the board of trade disclosed today. The new corsets are not likely to be seen in the shops before September.

The type of steel used for corset stiffenings since the outbreak of the war has aroused bitter complaints. Some doctors condemned the war time "utility" models as failing to provide the proper support.

The new models will increase in price as well as quality. The best quality corsets will go up from $2.50 to approximately $3.25. Corselets, including brassieres, will increase in price from $2.85 to $3.60.

REPORT LIQUOR AGAIN MAY BE PRODUCED IN '45

Washington, D. C., July 28 [Special].—A possibility that the liquor industry might be permitted to manufacture potable spirits in the first three months of 1945 was reported among representatives of the liquor industry today. There was no confirmation of the report from the war production board, which must give its approval. Liquor industry spokesmen said the industry next month will turn out nearly 40 million gallons of spirits. The August production of liquor was authorized recently by the WPB. In September the distilleries must resume the manufacture of industrial alcohol for war uses.

Ideal Beach Loses Ideals Over a Sign of Praise!

Ideal Beach, N. J., July 28 (AP).—This community erected a huge sign saying, "Not once have the police been called, nor has any disturbance occurred in Ideal Beach thus far in 1944. Peace—it's wonderful!" Police were called out within 24 hours to subdue a gang which had torn down the sign and used pieces of it for weapons in a free-for-all.

71 IN U.S. JOBS LINKED TO CIO'S POLITICAL DRIVE

Dies Traces Calls to White House.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 28.—The names of 71 government officials, including two cabinet members and five White House staff employes, were made public today by Chairman Dies [D., Tex.] of the house committee on un-American activities in a report alleging that the Communist-dominated CIO political action committee is "the political arm of the New Deal administration" in the fourth term campaign.

A 39 page list of long distance telephone calls covering the six month period between December, 1943, and May, 1944, and eight pages of photostats of telegrams accompanied the report.

These communications between CIO-PAC headquarters in New York City and federal employes were declared by Chief Investigator Robert E. Stripling to be evidence indicating political activity by the government pay rollers in violation of the Hatch act's prohibition against campaigning by government employes.

Hillman Makes Most Calls.

A majority of the calls to high ranking government officials were made by Sidney Hillman, chairman of the PAC, and his chief assistant, C. B. Baldwin, who resigned his $10,000 job as administrator of the farm security administration on April 11 to accept the CIO job.

In a letter to the seven committee members, Dies recommended that the "tremendously important" evidence be submitted to Atty. Gen. Biddle for an inquiry into possible violations of the Hatch act. He said he would abide by the committee's decision if open hearings or some other form of procedure were advocated by the majority.

Biddle's name was listed in the report as one of those receiving telephone calls from Hillman. Secretary of Labor Perkins was the other member of the cabinet who was similarly called.

Mrs. Roosevelt on List.

Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, the President's wife, who holds no official position in the government, was also listed. She was telephoned at the White House on April 5 by Hillman, who talked four minutes, and on Feb. 2 by Baldwin, the conversation lasting eight minutes.

A total of 23 telephone calls to the White House from PAC headquarters in New York were listed. On the receiving end were David K. Niles, Jonathan Daniels, and Lowell Mellett [recently resigned], three of the President's $10,000 a year assistants; Judge Samuel Rosenman, legal counsel to Mr. Roosevelt; and a "Miss Dutchess."

There was conjecture concerning one call to the White House which telephone company records carried as "name not given" in regard to both caller and recipient.

Elmer Davis Included.

Elmer Davis, director, office of war information, $10,000.

Oscar Chapman, assistant secretary of interior, $9,000.

Joseph Keenan, vice chairman, labor production, war production board, $8,000.

Bruce Catton, director, office of information, WPB, $8,000.

Charles Brannan, assistant administrator, farm security administration, $8,500.

R. W. Hudgens, associate administrator, FSA, $9,000.

Catherine Lenroot, chief, children's bureau, department of labor, $9,000.

Paul Appleby, assistant director, bureau of budget, $10,000.

Howard Tolley, chief, bureau of agricultural economics, department of agriculture, $10,000.

ser, secretary of agriculture, $8,250.

Stanley Lovell, director, research and development, office of strategic services, $8,000.

Edward Ingle, chief, information service, WMC, $8,000.

David Vaughan, chief, office of administration management, foreign economic administration, $8,000.

Robert Montgomery, economic advisor, FEA, $8,000.

Call State Dept. Aid.

Orville E. Olson, director, recruitment and manning division, war shipping administration, $6,500.

E. Wilder Spaulding, chief, division of research and publications, state department, $6,750.

Dallas Dort, adviser on Mediterranean areas, state department, $8,250.

Maury Maverick, chairman, Smaller War Plants corporation, $10,000.

C. W. Fowler, special assistant to Maverick, $8,000.

Philip Houser, assistant director, census bureau, $7,500.

Herbert Little, chief information policy adviser, OWI, $8,000.

Collaboration Indicated.

While some of the long distance telephone calls may have constituted legitimate requests for information by the PAC, the whole pattern indicated constant political collaboration between the Communist dominated CIO group and the government officials listed, Dies said.

The telegrams made public by Dies were offered as further substantiation of this contention. The first instance cited in the report was that involving C. A. McPeak, Texas representative of the CIO-PAC, who quit his $5,600 job as Dallas labor representative of the WPB on April 22. He was taking telegraphic orders from Hillman while still on the government pay roll, according to the evidence.

Stripling said the evidence indicated not only that McPeak had violated the Hatch act but that he had used government funds to assist him in his political activity, charging to government expense an airplane trip made to visit Hillman in the east.

FSA Is Involved.

The evidence also showed use of the farm security administration for political purposes, Stripling reported. C. B. Baldwin, former administrator of the FSA, now assistant chairman of the PAC, was "in a position to command considerable coöperation and assistance from various officials and employes of FSA who had served under him," the report stated.

"Baldwin called Jack Bryan, principal informational adviser for the FSA at $5,600 a year, on eleven different occasions and in three cases Bryan called the PAC in New York collect," Stripling noted. "Baldwin called E. S. Morgan, regional director of the FSA for Alabama at $7,250 per annum, on six different occasions, talking from 10 to 19 minutes. It is significant to note that these calls were made at the height of the Democratic primary campaign in Alabama at which time Rep. Starnes, vice chairman of this committee, was defeated for reëlection."

A telegram from Baldwin to P. G. Beck, FSA official at Indianapolis, Ind., was one of the exhibits in the report. It ordered Ralph Picard, senior information specialist, FSA, $4,800, to check on the qualifications of a man considered for employment by the PAC as a publicity man.

Called Basis for Probe.

"This telegram in itself, in my opinion, is sufficient basis for a sweeping investigation of the FSA either by the department of justice or some agency of congress," Stripling reported to Dies.

Another telegram submitted was sent by Miss Verda Barnes, formerly of the national youth administration, and now director of the women's division of the PAC, to J. L. Hood, Pocatello, Idaho, active in political circles in Idaho, advising that she was "working on possibility of getting Winchell, Pearson, and others" to help in the campaign to defeat Sen. Clark [D., Ida.], condemned by the PAC as an "isolationist."

Successive telegrams to Miss Barnes by Ralph J. Davis, Idaho politician, contained pleas for money from the PAC in behalf of Sen. Clark's opponent and on May 15, Davis wired peremptorily: "Where is the dough?"

Sen. Clark was defeated by less than 200 votes for the Democratic nomination. The expenditures of money indicated in the Davis telegrams should be investigated by the senate campaign expenditures committee, Stripling advised Chairman Dies.

New Deal 'Political Arm'

"From examining the personnel of the PAC and considering the constant communication existing between the PAC and certain government officials, I am of the opinion that the CIO political action committee is in reality, not so much a labor political committee, as it is the political arm of the New Deal administration," the investigator's report to Dies concluded.

"While it is true the top officials of the PAC are identified with labor, yet the people who are actually running the organization seem to have no background with labor but are fresh out of the government. For example, Baldwin, assistant chairman, was formerly with the government at $10,000 a year; the director of the PAC for New York is Charlotte Carr, who recently resigned from a $6,500 position with the war man power commission.

"The director for Texas, McPeak, recently resigned from the WPB at $5,600. The director for Virginia and eight other southern states is George S. Mitchell, until recently assistant administrator, FSA. Amer Lehman, director of Colorado, Wyoming, New Mexico, Utah, and Arizona, was until recently chief of the Denver office, at $4,600, of the FSA; Raymond S. McKeough, director for Indiana, Illinois, and Wisconsin, was formerly a member of congress from Illinois. Miss Alesa Bronson resigned from the library of congress on May 31 to work in the Los Angeles office of the PAC."

More Phone Calls Listed.

Additional government employes listed in the report as receiving PAC long distance phone calls and telegrams included:

Miss Muriel Ferris, senior industrial relations analyst, WPB, $4,600; Joseph Kovner, principal attorney, WPB, $5,600; Alvin D. Stewart, regional director, FSA, $7,250; Miss Estevah Webb, chief personnel section, FSA, $3,800; Ed Banfield, regional informational specialist, San Francisco, FSA, $4,600.

James H. Wood, regional director, FSA, $7,250; Robert G. Craig, administrative officer, $3,800; Hilda Abrams, assistant economist, department of labor, $2,600; Boris Stern, chief labor information service, department of labor, $5,800; Benjamin Sherwood, chief, division of publications and supplies, labor department, $4,000; Edward Brecker, special analyst, FCC, $5,600; secretary to Louis Bean, chief fiscal analyst, budget bureau, $7,000; Frederick Sevier, senior administrative officer, federal works agency, $4,800.

Handcuffed in a line with seven other prisoners, Lawrence J. O'Connell, 1333 Pratt blvd., Democratic politician who formerly was chief securities examiner for the Illinois industrial commission, was removed from the county jail to Joliet penitentiary yesterday to begin serving a sentence of one to 15 years for embezzlement.

O'Connell was taken into custody at his home Thursday by deputy bailiffs after he had managed to keep out of jail since May 15 when the state Supreme court upheld his conviction and sentence. O'Connell was indicted in 1942 after an alleged shortage of $54,000 was found by the Republican administration when it took over the industrial commission. He was convicted on a specific charge of embezzling $5,000 deposited with the commission by the Sanitary Rag company.

13 MEN INDICTED IN OHIO GASOLINE COUPON FRAUD

2 Ex-Ration Officials Named in Group.

Cleveland, O., July 28 [Special].—The vast gasoline fraud scandal that has been simmering here for three months was climaxed today with 12 indictments returned by a federal grand jury against 13 men, including two former officials of New Deal rationing agencies.

District Atty. Don C. Miller announced the investigation of the far reaching irregularities in gasoline coupons was far from finished and again urged that the federal bureau of investigation enter the case.

"All the evidence turned over to me has been exhausted but the situation has not been cleaned up by a long shot," he said. "The district attorney's office would like to see more reports and more evidence from the office of price administration and the Cleveland police department. We would like to clean up this mess one way or another."

Six Indictments Secret.

Six of today's indictments were secret but the others named seven men. Leading these were C. Richard Allen, former district manager for the office of defense transportation here, and Robert Dissauer, former chief clerk for OPA board No. 6, focal point of the fraud conspiracy.

The others named were Michael Raimondo, 31; Charles P. Cohn, 33; Mark Durschlag, 40; Al Levy, 41, and Walter Burghard Sr., operators of automobile service stations.

The indictments were the second returned against Allen and Dissauer. They were named in true bills returned early in June which charged them with the theft of 5,000 T coupons on March 28.

Charge False Statements.

The new indictments allege they made fraudulent representations to board No. 6 to obtain 355,000 gallons of gasoline for two trucking firms. One of these charges concerned allegedly false statements which entitled Illinois Greyhound, Inc., to 65,000 T coupons calling for 330,000 gallons of gasoline.

Under the earlier indictments Allen faces terms of five years and and Dissauer one. They face 10 years imprisonment and $10,000 fines on each of two counts returned against them today. The other defendants face maximum sentences of one year and $10,000 fines.

OFFICIAL BALLOT COUNT GIVES NYE VICTORY IN N. D.

Bismarck, N. D., July 28 [Special].—North Dakota's state canvassing board announced officially today that Sen. Gerald P. Nye, whom New Deal internationalists had threatened to purge because of his consistent nationalism, had won the Republican nomination for United States senator in a close race in the June 27 primary.

The official report showed Nye defeated Lynn U. Stambaugh, Fargo attorney and former national commander of the American Legion, by 972 votes. Nye received 38,191 votes to 37,219 for Stambaugh. Rep. Usher L. Burdick polled 35,687, and A. C. Townley, 1,300.

DEWEY-BRICKER CAMPAIGN WILL COVER COUNTRY

Drive Starts Sept. 1, Says Ohio Governor.

[Jewish people] are for Roosevelt and the New Deal. I think it would be much better for them if they split their vote between the two major parties. I don't think a single group should go all out one way or the other and I note from the votes of the Jewish districts in New York that the big majority of the Jews are for the New Deal."

Hagerty said that Fish, asked to comment on a previously published statement that he would carry every town in his district except Fallsburgh, "because it is 90 per cent a certain people," told the Post reporter:

"Any one who knows Fallsburgh knows what Fallsburgh is. I didn't think that needs amplification."

Fish Opposed by Bennet.

Fish, veteran of 24 years in congress and seeking reëlection in a district embracing Delaware, Rockland, Orange, and Sullivan counties, is opposed in the Aug. 1 Republican primary by Augustus W. Bennet, Newburgh lawyer.

Informed in New York City of Dewey's statement, Fish commented that "evidently Mr. Dewey misunderstood what I said and must have been badly misinformed."

"When I referred to the fact that the people of Jewish origin are largely in favor of the New Deal, I stated a fact that everybody knows," Fish said. "I made no attack whatsoever and never have on the Jewish people. I have never been antisemitic. What I stated was just the plain truth—that the Jewish voters are largely for the New Deal and President Roosevelt.

Predicts Renomination.

"The people in my district will choose their own candidate in the primary on Aug. 1 regardless of outside interference from Mr. Dewey or anybody else. I am for the election of the Dewey-Bricker ticket and will support it loyally as a Republican, but, nevertheless, the Republicans in my district will renominate me for congress by a very large majority next Tuesday.

"The fact that Mr. Dewey has given out this statement will tend to increase my majority as the people of my district resent any outside political interference and are thoroly competent to choose their own candidates."

Deplores Dewey Statement.

Comments of regret over Dewey's statement came from Mrs. George B. St. George of Tuxedo Park, Orange county Republican chairman, and Martin Nugent, Rockland county Republican chairman. The party organizations in both counties are supporting Fish.

Asserting "I deplore the governor's action," Mrs. St. George, a Dewey supporter, said "I think it will do him a great deal of harm in Orange county."

Nugent said the statement would "cost Mr. Dewey many votes in this district."

Sen. Bilbo at Rochester for Mayo Examination

Rochester, Minn., July 28 (AP).—Sen. Bilbo [D., Miss.] arrived in Rochester today and was taken immediately to St. Mary's hospital to await an examination by Mayo clinic physicians. On leaving Jackson, Miss., the senator's physician said Sen. Bilbo was a "mighty sick man."

JURY QUESTIONS KEEBLER; SLUSH CHARGES DENIED

Gilbert Keebler.

Gilbert E. Keebler, former state administrative auditor, went before the county grand jury late yesterday to deny charges intended to involve him and White Consolidated, Inc., a paving company, in a political slush fund scandal. Keebler, who had held himself in readiness for two days to testify, was reported to have denied all charges.

The grand jury adjourned until Monday at 11 a. m. and instructed Keebler to reappear at that time. It was expected that several subpenas would be served during the weekend, one of them on Donald C. White, an acquaintance of Keebler's and an official of the paving company.

Bookkeeper Is Questioned.

Keebler was called yesterday after C. Vernon Thompson, assistant state's attorney, had spent most of the day questioning Philip Kelly, bookkeeper for the White company, in an effort to show the company had dealt widely in state paving under subcontracts.

Kelly said afterward that in addition to deals made public in Springfield Thursday the White company has taken only one state project on a subcontract basis. This was for $140,000 in 1943 with the Geneva Construction company, which found itself unable to complete a project it had bid on alone.

Springfield records showed also that the total business awarded the White company since Jan. 1, 1941, is far less than the $649,247 Keebler is accused of having received as a 5 per cent slush fund cut for the Republican organization.

Thompson's grand jury room efforts represented renewed interest in the inquiry by State's Atty. Courtney, who earlier in the day had received a telegram from Atty. Gen. George F. Barrett of Illinois, disowning the investigation and threatening to launch one into Chicago paving deals. Courtney, who had placed responsibility for the proceeding upon Barrett, countered that the attorney general was injecting politics.

The charge against Keebler was made by Atty. Charles Short Jr. on Wednesday during grand jury testimony in connection with an alleged insurance fraud affecting the Michael White estate.

Short, representing Mrs. Mary Angela Dunphy of Milwaukee, granddaughter of the paving company's founder, mentioned the $649,247 figure as possibly being a part of 6 million dollars Mrs. Dunphy charges has been diverted from the estate.

Courtney's Interest Aroused.

With Short's mention of Keebler, Courtney took an immediate interest and ordered Asst. State's Atty. Thompson to take an active role in the investigation instead of merely aiding Asst. Atty. Gen. William C. Wines, who had been assigned by Barrett on the strength of the insurance angle in the charges against Smith.

Courtney used Wines' presence as the basis for his statement placing responsibility for the inquiry upon Barrett. The attorney general, Republican nominee for reëlection, is vacationing in Colorado. From there he addressed a reply to Courtney, asking whether the state's attorney wanted him to return and take over the grand jury for a real paving quiz.

Barrett's telegram was relayed to Courtney in Decatur, where he is conducting his gubernatorial campaign, by First Asst. State's Atty. Wilbert F. Crowley. To Crowley, Courtney said a telegraphic reply to Barrett was not necessary. He dictated a verbal reply to Barrett.

"Cut out the bunk and political telegrams," it ran. "You run your office and I'll run mine."

Shun Jury Room Introductions.

Outside the grand jury room, Keebler waited with Atty. Morris Alexander, also under subpena. Present, too, were Paul Ludmann, secretary-treasurer of the Drake hotel and treasurer of White Consolidated, and F. Donald Bird, White's son-in-law, who testified briefly yesterday, asserting Short's charges were ridiculous.

Ludmann, who was told to appear again Monday, and Bird obviously were unacquainted with Keebler, who sat near them on another bench. Eventually they asked who he was. A visitor replied:

"Don't you know him? He's the man you are supposed to have given all that money to. That's Keebler. Want me to introduce you?"

"Heavens no! Not now!" exclaimed Ludmann and Bird.

A little later Keebler expressed curiosity as to their identity. The same visitor told him.

RAPS NEW DEAL MISHANDLING OF ARMY VOTE LAW

Washington, D. C., July 28 (AP).—Rep. Towe [R., N. J.] said today that "the effort of the New Deal politicians to mislead service men and their families by asserting that the soldier vote bill is not workable is further proof of the insincerity of the administration."

"There is no question," Towe asserted in a statement, "that if the army, navy, and the postoffice department coöperate with the several states, all members of the armed forces, both inside and outside continental limits, can receive and return state ballots by election time.

"The fact that the administration leadership wanted men and women in this country to use the so-called blank ballot should be sufficient proof to any one that their attitude on the soldier vote question is plain political maneuver."

MY DUTY ON WLB IS TO CIO UNION, SAYS UAW HEAD

New York, July 28 [Special].—R. J. Thomas, international president of the United Automobile Workers [CIO], said today he considered it his "specific duty to nominate only CIO members" to serve on panels of the war labor board, of which he is a member.

Testifying as a defense witness in the trial of Thomas De Lorenzo, president of the UAW Brewster aircraft local, Thomas said, "I am here to represent labor," adding that he did not consider his war labor board membership as "federal service" or "as working for the government."

The government charges De Lorenzo filed a false statement with the federal civil service commission when appointed to a WLB regional panel. It is charged De Lorenzo said he had never been arrested except for traffic violations altho records show he had been arrested on charges of homicide, inciting a riot, and disorderly conduct.

WALLACE BALKS AT TRYING FOR SEAT IN SENATE

Des Moines, Ia., July 28 [Special].—Vice President Wallace has vetoed a proposal by his friends, it was learned today, to substitute him as a candidate for United States senator from Iowa in the place of Sen. Guy Gillette in the fall election.

Rumors that Gillette would drop out of the race and Wallace take his place popped up here as delegates began to arrive for the Democratic state convention opening Saturday.

Altho both State Chairman Jake More and Gillette denied there was any substance to the rumors, it was learned that a group of Wallace's friends called on him and offered their support to carry out the reported switch. But Wallace, it was said, informed them he was not intested in making a campaign for the senate.

New York, July 28 (AP).—President and Mrs. Roosevelt, accompanied by their son, Col. James Roosevelt, visited Lt. Col. Evans F. Carlson of the marines in a San Diego, Cal., hospital, it was disclosed today. Col. Carlson had just returned from the front line of Saipan, where he was wounded in the arm and leg.

DEWEY-BRICKER CLUBS PROPOSED TO OFFSET CIO

BY GEORGE TAGGE.

Development of the Dewey-Bricker club plan in Illinois will be submitted to Herbert Brownell, Republican national chairman, at his conference here Aug. 5 with downstate and Chicago G. O. P. workers.

This was decided yesterday at a meeting of the committee on Cook county candidates, a group constituted before the April 11 primary which is expected to continue its existence as a special campaign committee.

In the welcome the Dewey-Bricker club idea has received from state candidates, political observers thought they saw evidence that the Illinois ticket headed by Gov. Green is confident of its own success.

23,000 Members Sought.

It was reported that in yesterday's closed meeting John T. Dempsey, nominee for state's attorney, urged that at least 23,000 Chicagoans carry "active membership" cards in the Dewey-Bricker clubs. Whether the clubs would be directly connected with the regular party organization or would have a semi-autonomous status to provide greater appeal to independent voters will be one of the questions submitted to National Chairman Brownell.

Members of the Dewey-Bricker clubs would be expected to offset the aid to the Democrats of the CIO political action committee. The CIO group, said by the Dies committee to be dominated by Communist leadership, is planning to fight for the fourth term by means of drudgery in the details of practical politics—getting citizens registered and to the polls.

Dewey-Bricker legions would help the G. O. P. regular organization by doing similar work.

Three Groups Suggested.

John F. Tyrrell, Republican state chairman, has asked each of the 101 downstate county chairmen to gather names for a minimum D-B club of 30 in his county. He suggested that one-third be anti-Roosevelt Democrats, that one-third be so-called independent Republicans, and that the remainder be regular G. O. P. supporters.

Some credit the Dewey-Bricker club idea to Kankakee county, where pledge cards already are in circulation. These cards request the signer to indicate which of seven kinds of work he will do. Included are driving a car to get voters to the polls, canvassing a block to get additional voters on the registration lists, ascertaining present addresses of service men so that they may be sent ballot applications, and distributing literature.

It is a modernization of the old voter's pledge card scheme, which was considered effective until it became a practice for precinct captains to sign nearly all of the cards themselves with the aid of a telephone book.

G. O. P. OFFERED DEMOCRAT AID, SAYS COLEMAN

New York, July 28 (AP).—Thomas Coleman, Wisconsin state Republican chairman, said tonight that since the Democratic national convention the G. O. P. forces in Wisconsin had received "many offers of help from Democrats to help elect the Republican ticket."

FARMER LOSES FENCING DUEL WITH DEMON RUM

Oscar Jackson, a farmer, went to jail and back yesterday, but he would not take down the barbed wire fence he had put around a piece of rural road to keep the customers out of a tavern in Virgil township, Kane county.

Oscar Jackson.

"That piece of road is mine," he told the sheriff, the state's attorney, and everybody else who tried to budge him, "and I'll keep my ground!"

Fence Put Up Tuesday.

Jackson put up the fence Tuesday in the St. Charles-Sycamore Plank rd. [now gravel] in front of George Brazeal's tavern, which is a few hundred feet up the road from the Jackson farmstead. The tavern is on land purchased from Jackson's father in 1886.

"My father provided that liquor never should be sold on that land when he deeded it away," Jackson told State's Atty. Charles G. Seidel. "He didn't like taverns. I don't like taverns either, and I hate tavern music. Understand, I don't dislike music; I don't like the noise they call music in saloons."

Jackson also contended that the old plank road was built on land his pioneer father owned, with an agreement that the right of way should revert to the family if the road ever were abandoned as a public highway. Public funds have not been spent on it in years, he said, and it has been superseded by U. S. highway 64.

Taken to Jail.

State's Atty. Seidel had an official talk with Jackson on the technicalities of the case yesterday in Elgin. Seidel said the fence on Brazeal's property line is a civil matter, but that the fence on the road must come down. Jackson was sent home, and Deputy Sheriff Wilbur Seidel, the state's attorney's brother, went with him to see that he took down the fence. Jackson did not take it down. He looked at some newspaper photographers waiting to take his picture.

"I'll not take it down," he told Seidel. "I'd rather go to jail."

Deputy Seidel took him to the county jail in Geneva on a charge of disorderly conduct. Officials talked the matter over with him again, and Chief Deputy Sheriff Cecil Reilly and Deputy Seidel went back with him to Virgil again.

Tavern Business Good.

Quite a crowd was waiting. Farmers and their friends had gathered there from surrounding townships to look at the fence and discuss the strange situation. Brazeal, the tavern keeper, said business never had been better.

"It's funny, what attracts a crowd," he told newspapermen.

Chief Deputy Reilly stepped up to the barbed wire and said:

"Not me, I'm not," said Jackson.

Exchange Barbed Looks.

Reilly and Deputy Seidel looked blankly at each other, like two men on a fence, with barbs.

"Has somebody got some snippers?" asked Reilly.

Two pairs were provided, and Reilly and Seidel snipped. Brazeal borrowed a pair, and snipped the wire in front of his place.

YANK AND NAZI BIG GUNS OPEN BATTLE FOR PISA

Vatican Paper's Plea for City Unanswered.

ROME, Italy, July 28 (AP).—American and German artillery dueled across the Arno river tonight in the opening stage of the battle for Pisa, and the fate of the historic city and its cultural monuments hung in the balance.

[The German radio asserted early today that Gen. Harold Alexander had launched a great new offensive in Italy. There was no immediate allied confirmation.]

There had been no official reply from either side to a plea by the Vatican City newspaper Osservatore Romano that the belligerents "reflect seriously upon the moral consequences of deliberate destruction of Pisan monuments." Nazi artillery observers were reported using Pisa's famous leaning tower.

Florence, art center whose lights were within sight of British forces fighting thru the hills seven miles away, appeared safe from destruction. The Germans have declared it an open city and are expected to withdraw once its defenses are breached.

Famed Bridges Inside City.

There was no immediate indication whether the Nazis would destroy six famous bridges which span the Arno river inside Florence in an attempt to impede the allies progress.

The Osservatore Romano said that the moment seemed near "when allied artillery will make another Monte Cassino of Pisa," adding that "it is our duty to underline the immense moral value of the Pisan monuments for Christianity."

New Zealand, South African, and British troops closed relentlessly on Florence, leaving hills south of the city strewn with German dead and equipment. New Zealanders pushing up a main highway from Poggibonsi captured San Casciano without a fight. Other British forces punched to within four miles of Empoli, on the Arno, 16 miles west of Florence.

Poles in Street Battle.

Polish troops were reported to have sent patrols across the Misa river 17 miles northwest of Ancona, Adriatic port, and to be fighting thru the streets of Senigallia at the river's mouth.

A German parachute trooper captured south of Florence bore an order from his commanding officer warning him and his comrades to shun the "mad criminals" among the officer corps who attempted last week to kill Adolf Hitler.

[Germany's broadcast war bulletin said: "The enemy probed our whole front by numerous local attacks. The center of gravity of enemy reconnaissance thrusts was in the sector south of Florence and on the Adriatic coast. All attacks were repulsed. Early in the morning the enemy launched a large scale attack on a wide front south of Florence. Fierce fighting is going on."]

THIS SERGEANT'S GLAD IF HE CAN MAKE 'EM LAUGH

BY ROBERT CROMIE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ON THE ROAD TO PERIERS, Normandy, July 27.—He was wearing a funny felt hat and German leggings and carrying a helmet in one hand and a harmless booby trap in the other when we saw him. He had removed the booby trap from a house he wanted to use as an aid station and also had helped rescue a man whose foot was blown off by a booby trap in another house. He is Sgt. Edward D. Abdella of Worcester, Mass.

"We saw some fellows running out of this house," he said. "We thought a mine had exploded, so we ran to help. This poor guy was under the wreckage with a foot off, but he began to laugh when he saw my hat and said, 'What! You gonna wear that when you march down 5th avenue?' Then he said, 'I'm supporting three at home. That's what's worrying me.'"

Abdella said then, "When I find a funny hat that makes a wounded man laugh I wear it. You should have seen me the other day when I wore a torn white collar and carried an umbrella. We were making an attack that day, but every one laughed."

You meet a lot of incredible characters in Normandy, a lot of wonderful, incredible, lovable guys.

VISAS TO ASSIST HUNGARIAN JEWS ASKED OF BRITISH

Washington, D. C., July 28 [Special].—Peter H. Bergson, chairman of the Hebrew Committee of National Liberation, today announced an "end of the road" appeal to the British government on behalf of Hungarian Jews.

His appeal, in a cable to Prime Minister Churchill, asked the British to grant visas to Jews in Hungary so that they can be transferred to Palestine until their definite status is decided after the war.

Bergson said the International Red Cross in Geneva had notified the committee and the allied nations that the deportations of Hungarian Jews to Poland had ceased and that those Jews who can obtain visas to go outside axis territory would be allowed to leave.

Death Penalty Dropped in Italian Penal Code

ROME, July 28 (AP).—The Italian cabinet today abolished the death penalty in the penal code which the Fascists reëstablished in 1926. The death penalty is retained in the military code and in law for punishment of Fascist criminals. The cabinet also set up a high court for trial of Fascist crimes. The court will consist of eight members chosen from among high court magistrates and prominent lawyers.

Yesterday's reported developments in Italy.

Report He Cut Wrist, Fearing Capture.

ROME, July 28 (AP).—Benito Mussolini slashed a wrist with a razor blade in a half-hearted attempt at suicide only a few hours before German parachutists freed him from the Hotel Campo Imperatore atop the bleak Gran Sasso last September, a reliable informant said today.

This informant, who requested anonymity, said the fallen Italian dictator's "suicide scene" took place as follows:

"On Sept. 12, about 3 a. m., carabinieri who were at Mussolini's disposal and occupied an adjoining room hurried to the superior officer and told him that Il Duce was almost hysterical. The officer ran to Mussolini's room and found him standing up. One wrist was cut and blood had stained a pajama sleeve. Mussolini held a razor blade in the other hand.

Feared Surrender to Allies.

"'I am tired of living,' Mussolini said. He handed the officer a letter in which he had written that he wished to end his life. The officer treated the cut, calmed the Duce and, without much difficulty, persuaded him to return to bed."

Mussolini was said to have expressed fear that he would be turned over to the allies.

The same informant also shed new light on the manner in which the Germans rescued Mussolini. On Sept. 10, the day after the Germans occupied Rome and Marshal Badoglio and King Vittorio Emanuele escaped, carabinieri on Gran Sasso were informed, he said, that the "government's orders" to hold Mussolini with their lives had been modified and that they should be very prudent.

Ordered Fire Withheld.

Consequently, when Nazi SS troops dropped on Gran Sasso about 2 p. m., Sept. 12, he added, the carabinieri held their fire. Gen. Fernando Soleti, commander of the Rome police who was well known among the carabinieri, was said to have landed with the Germans and shouted to the guards not to shoot.

CAPT. NEVILLE GIVEN CONTROL OF ARMY PAPER

ROME, July 28 (AP).—The name of Capt. Robert Neville, 39, New York newspaper man and foreign correspondent, appeared at the masthead of the Mediterranean editions of the Stars and Stripes today as the new publications officer succeeding Col. Egbert White, who was removed a fortnight ago.

It was announced the paper had been transferred from the auspices of the services of supply to the public relations office of the army. Some staff members were inclined to regard public relations control as a possible opening to transform Stars and Stripes from a G. I. newspaper to strictly an army organ.

But both Neville and White have plugged for more freedom to report controversial issues on the home front, including politics.

Hawaii to Begin Rationing of Second Hand Autos

HONOLULU, T. H., July 28 (AP).—Rationing of used models of 1939, 1940 and 1941 passenger autos will start in Hawaii Aug. 1, Melvin C. Robbins, OPA territorial director, announced today. All sellers of rationed cars must obtain a ration certificate from the buyer, who has proved an essential purpose and inability to get other transportation.

V. F. W. Commander Goes to Italy to Visit Troops

ROME, July 28 (AP).—Carl J. Schoeniger of Detroit, commander in chief of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, arrived in Italy today to tour the battlefield and rear areas. He will seek troop views on post-war needs. He said he made the trip on invitation of President Roosevelt.

GREEKS SAY NAZIS RAZE TOWN, KILL 250 WOMEN AND CHILDREN

LONDON, July 28 (AP).—The Greek government in London today announced the Germans had added the village of Kleisoura in the Kastoria district to the list of more than 1,000 Greek communities in which slaughter and destruction had been visited upon the civilian population.

The announcement said that after a clash between guerrillas and a German patrol in which two Germans were killed, the Nazis put the torch to the village. A few days later the charred bodies of 250 women and children were recovered from the ruins, the report added. The men of the village escaped to the mountains.

During the first week of July the Germans burned out 25 Greek villages and the toll of Greeks executed by the Nazis since they occupied the country now exceeds 24,000, the Greek government said. Of that total, 4,000 died in the last three months.

AID OF DR. GRAU DEFENDS U. S. ENVOY TO CUBA

HAVANA, Cuba, July 28 (AP).—Sen.-elect Eduard Chibas, usually a spokesman for Dr. Grau San Martin, president-elect, said today that the conduct of Spurille Braden, United States ambassador, "is so respectful of our sovereignty that he deserves applause and gratitude of the Cuban people."

Hector Pages, congressman, this week offered a resolution seeking investigation of a charge that Braden sought to interfere with the right of Cuban newspapers to defend the sugar interests.

Sen. Eduardo Suarez Rivas supported the newspaper Diario de la Marina in its charge that Braden, by suggesting the newspaper was anti-United States, had interfered with Diario's right to fight for higher sugar prices. The senator suggested that Braden be declared persona non grata.

Ex-Actress Fined

Frances Farmer in hitch hiking costume, as she was arrested in California yesterday.

Antioch, Cal., July 28 (AP).—A young woman, identified by Police Chief Al Leroy as Frances Farmer, former film actress, awaited her father here tonight after pleading guilty to a vagrancy charge.

Wearing blue jeans and a man's work shirt, she appeared before Justice of the Peace Tom Milan, who fined her $10, and then suspended the fine.

Leroy said E. M. Farmer, seattle attorney, was en route from Reno, Nev., to rejoin his daughter. Harry D. Fletcher, Reno police chief, said Farmer reported his daughter missing since July 14.

Farmer had taken his daughter to Reno for treatments after her dismissal from the Western State hospital at Stellacoom, Wash., where she had been pronounced "completely cured" of a mental illness.

FLAMING PLANE SINKS SUB; DEAD PILOT HONORED

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Ottawa, Ont., July 28.—Posthumous award of the Victoria Cross, highest military honor in the British empire, to Flight Lt. David Hornell of Mimico, Ont., near Toronto, was announced today by C. G. Power, minister of defense for air.

The feat which brought the flyer death and distinction was the sinking of an enemy submarine on the rim of the Arctic circle on June 24. He died, with two of his crew members, when his plane was shot down by the U-boat in its death battle. Five others, who survived, were awarded lesser honors.

With his right wing in flames, Hornell flew over the submarine at 50 feet. He dropped a stick of depth charges which straddled the enemy. The submarine lifted out of the water and reconnaissance craft later saw German bodies and large section of deck planking on the sea.

RACINE SOLDIER HELPS GERMAN PINNED IN DEBRIS

BY JOHN THOMPSON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

U. S. 1ST ARMY HDQ. IN NORMANDY, July 28.—As a bulldozer started to fill up a German dugout which had been shattered by a direct hit from an American gun, one of the machine's crew heard a faint voice in German filtering thru the wreckage.

Pvt. 1st Class Gilbert Stretcher of Racine, Wis., who speaks German, leaned down near a hole in the debris and shouted into it. He learned a wounded German was buried there with the crushed bodies of several comrades. "Tell him we'll try to get him out as soon as possible," said Maj. John W. Craig of Charlotte, N. C.

Prisoners from a labor battalion were brought up and started digging. As they dug, the rubble settled down more firmly. Stretcher called encouragement to the trapped German. However, as I left Stretcher had been unable to get an answer from the wounded man but the digging continued.

STUTTGART AND HAMBURG HIT IN R.A.F. NIGHT RAID

LONDON, July 29 [Saturday] (AP).—At least 1,000 R. A. F. bombers ranged over Germany during the night, concentrating heavy attacks upon Hamburg and Stuttgart while other formations blasted targets in northern France, the British announced today.

It was the fourth raid in a week on Stuttgart, where parts for the Germans' flying bombs are constructed.

The overnight operations followed a day of intense aerial activity during which some 1,500 American bombers from Britain and Italy hit two Nazi oil centers—Ploesti and Merseburg.

Around 1,000 Flying Fortresses bombed the Leuna synthetic oil plants at Merseburg for the third time this month. They also hit other central German targets.

500 Bombers Pound Ploesti.

In a coördinated strike from Italy more than 500 Liberators, with probably an equal escort, bombed the Ploesti oil center, 35 miles north of Bucharest, for the 12th time.

On the eastern front the Russians said they again bombed the east Prussian rail center of Tilsit, destroying five military trains and setting "dozens of fires." The Russians said they destroyed 42 German planes.

The Fortresses were guided to Germany by Pathfinders who found Merseburg covered by thick clouds. They used the overcast bombing technique. Seven bombers and two fighters were lost. Five German planes were shot down.

Bomb Thru Smoke Screen.

At Ploesti the Germans attempted to make their own clouds by creating a dense smoke screen, but the Liberators rained their bombs on the target, causing explosions and fires. Several enemy fighters were destroyed, adding to the toll of more than 200 shot down by the Italy based air forces from Monday thru Thursday. Flak was intense. The Germans said Bucharest also was bombed during the night.

Needless to say, such measures as may be found to be necessary will be taken to rectify or correct any deficiencies found to exist."

6 TANK COLUMNS BATTER FLEEING NAZIS IN FRANCE

Yanks Reach Coutances; Planes Rip Enemy.

nearing St. Sauveur-Lendelin. They also had forced the Taute river barrier to the east. South of Lessay, Marguerin and Corbuchon were seized in a four mile advance. Along the coastal route one column in a nine mile drive from Periers met tanks which spurted from Marigny.

The speed and power of the American offensive appeared to have shattered any German hopes of organizing a new line within the area bounded by the Vire river on the east and the Sienne river on the south. Our columns were fighting down too many roads, slashing into rear communication zones and even overrunning motor parks and ammunition dumps in true blitzkreig fashion.

Take Road Town.

One group of American tanks this afternoon entered St. Denis le Gast, a small village just above the Sienne river on an important lateral highway running from Tessy sur Vire west to Brehal and Granville.

There was hard fighting all day in the race between the onrushing Americans and the elements of seven German divisions trying to escape Bradley's trap. The American army commander committed more and more armor, sending his tanks and self-propelled guns deeper and deeper into the German lines.

Since the start of the offensive Tuesday the Americans have captured nearly 5,000 Germans. Today alone one strong force of tanks and armored doughboys alone counted large numbers, including 50 officers and an entire medical company from the 17th SS elite division.

Prisoner of war enclosures were turning up all types of German soldiers. They ranged from well trained young fanatics in SS and panzer divisions to anti-aircraft gunners fighting as foot soldiers and even cooks and supply clerks thrown in in one case to serve as a rearguard while the fighting troops decamped.

But it appeared that large numbers of Germans had managed to escape south thru Coutances before Bradley could pull the string on the upper section of the bag. Counterattacks Tuesday and Wednesday by the Das Reich SS division and part of the 5th paratroop division, apparently held the eastern door open long enough to permit the withdrawal of the major forces north of the St. Lo-Coutances road.

BRITISH FRONT QUIET

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SUPREME HDQ. ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, July 28.—Artillery and planes broke up an attempted German counter-attack near Verriers, south of Caen, today in the only action reported from that otherwise quiet British-Canadian front on the eastern end of the Normandy bridgehead.

The military correspondent of the London Times disagrees with the theory that the British tactics on the stationary Caen front were calculated to facilitate the American advance.

"There is no evidence," he says, "where the tentative suggestion now being heard that the British offensive south and southeast of Caen is designed to afford opportunities to Gen. Bradley's American forces. The British attack stood on its own and should not be considered as a holding action. It has been admitted that the result was disappointing.

Aided Yanks, However.

"It seems clear, nonetheless, that the concentration of German armor in the Caen area has been of value to the Americans. The Germans fixed their attention upon Caen, which is the more important of the two wings and is in itself the most important on the front. They seemed to have been surprised by the weight and speed of the American offensive. This has been conducted with great spirit, particularly most we admire the way in which the reserves swept into the breach and exploited their success before the enemy could recover.

"Nor should it be imagined that the American front was void of German armor. Three panzer divisions are reported to have been engaged at that point, and there may be others in reserve, but the American armor came thru with fine impetus and has swept into the enemy's array."

GERMAN WAR REPORT.

Following is the German Friday war bulletin as broadcast by Berlin and recorded by the Associated Press:

"In fighting in the area on both sides of St. Lo the Americans continued their large-scale attack all day long. While east of St. Lo they made inconsiderable dents only, our troops southwest of the town were pushed back farther south and southwestward in bitter fighting costly to both sides. Counter-attacks to close the front which has been torn up at several places are in progress. Seventy-five tanks were destroyed. In the Caen sector the enemy made unsuccessful attacks on a minor scale.

"Fighter and battleplane formations downed ten enemy machines in aerial combats. Torpedo-carrying planes sank a 4,000 ton tanker in the Seine bay the night preceding July 27 and heavily damaged four transport ships totaling 25,000 tons and one destroyer. In the eastern part of the Seine bay a coastal battery of the German army scored several hits on an enemy battleship. Escort vessels of a German convoy shot down six out of eight attacking fighter-bombers off the Loire estuary."

FIRST YANKS IN PERIERS FIND IT A SORRY WRECK

Tribune Man Tells of Trip in Ruins.

BY ROBERT CROMIE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH THE AMERICAN FORCES IN NORMANDY, July 27 [Delayed].—Periers, crossroads town for which a bitter battle had raged for many days, was abandoned this morning by the Nazis and was entered this afternoon by patrols and correspondents.

The Germans left many mines and booby traps and some of our men were killed or injured by them. There was little sign in this area that the German retreat was other than orderly. Periers itself is battered as badly as any town we have seen yet.

We went into Periers with Capt. James McNamara, a press relations officer, whose parents live in Minneapolis. In a jeep we went down roads that only this morning were held by the Germans, past an American tank overturned with its crew burned inside, then past litter bearers putting a body on a stretcher. We halted the jeep and pulled off the road to permit a hospital jeep carrying two wounded men to go past. Then on again past a German tank knocked out at a crossroads and past a German body over which a tank had passed.

Warning: Booby Traps.

Soldiers began warning us against booby traps. As we left the jeep beside the road and began to walk we learned why. Two men had been injured in less than 15 minutes in booby trap incidents and two others had been killed by a mine.

We walked down the road toward Periers with a platoon led by Staff Sgt. Fred Rozzo, 32, of Union City, N. Y., a former racehorse trainer, but soon got into another jeep.

The driver, Pvt. Bobby Hiser of Morgantown, W. Va., and Pvt. William Stewart of Bellwood, Pa., a mortar and rifleman, said there was no American infantry yet in Periers and that as far as they knew the road on which we were driving had not been cleared of mines.

We paused frequently so that a small advance party on foot could keep us informed. One halt was directly in front of a farmhouse. Two old women and a white dog came out and one of the women asked, "American?" I said "Oui" and she clasped my hand and wept.

The boys loaded them down with K rations which they grabbed with polite eagerness and we went on past a German dugout. At last we were close to Periers, but foot members of the party came back with the news that mines were in the ditches ahead. We left the vehicles in the field and behind five men with tommy guns walked into Periers, the first men in.

Not Even a Dog in Streets.

There was not even a dog in the streets. All windows were broken, with curtains flapping idly in the wind; shop doors were open, bottles shattered, merchandise on the shelves, and German posters hanging on the walls.

We reached the main street and the tommygunners dropped to their knees and pointed their guns to our left. But it was only a second reconnaissance platoon entering the town 10 minutes behind us from another direction, and soon a third platoon came in.

The heart of Periers was battered so viciously that many buildings were unidentifiable as to type, height or size. Some of the streets were lined the full length with walls between which there were only piles of plaster, rubble, and broken glass. The wreckage was so complete that it was unreal.

Five Pounds of Candy a Gift.

A girl and a woman came up and the G. Is piled their arms full of rations. A boy from Brooklyn brought out a five pound box of hard candy and insisted they take it all. The girl said her two sisters had been killed during the shelling.

Among midwesterners reaching Periers while we were there were 2d Lt. Carl Bergman, Manistique, Mich.; Corp. Harold D. Dyer, Knoxville, Ia.; Corp. Andrew Frustacci, Canton, O.; Pvt. Harold L. Bauer, Winthrop, Minn.; Pvt. Vern McManimie, 42, Modale, Ia.; Pvt. John Webb, Joliet, Ill.; Pvt. Clarence Krueger, Minneapolis; Corp. Theodore G. Urban, Minneapolis; Pvt. Kenneth Whiteside, Clarksville, Ia.; Pvt. Daniel Bethard, Rock Falls, Ill., and Corp. Clayton Cunningham, Onida, S. D.

PATTON LEADS TANK DRIVE IN NORMANDY, LONDON BELIEVES

LONDON, July 28 (AP).—There has been considerable public speculation here that Lt. Gen. George S. Patton Jr., former commander of the United States 7th army in Italy, may be leading American tank forces which have cracked the German lines in Normandy.

Nothing has been said officially about the whereabouts of Patton, who arrived in Britain some time before the invasion, but the Germans have reported him in France.

He is generally recognized as an outstanding leader of armored forces.

2 JAP MERCHANT SHIPS SUNK BY ALLIED RAIDERS

ADVANCED ALLIED HDQ., New Guinea, July 29 [Saturday] (AP).—Allied planes have sunk two Japanese merchantmen and set fire to a third, Gen. MacArthur's headquarters announced today in reporting new aerial strikes.

A medium sized merchantman was sunk off Ceram Island, 310 miles southwest of American held Noemfoor Island. Other planes sank a coastal vessel and set fire to a 1,000 ton craft off Dutch New Guinea.

War planes attacked 17 major objectives across the western hump of Dutch New Guinea and adjacent islands on Thursday. Several small vessels were destroyed off Sorong and Manokwari, Dutch New Guinea. Liberators raided Woleai in the central Carolines, Timor, Ceram, and the Sarmi area of Dutch New Guinea.

On the Aitape battle front in British New Guinea activity was limited to patroling forays.

POPE PRAISES POLAND, BACKS ITS JUST CLAIMS

VATICAN CITY, July 28 (AP).—Pope Piux XII, received a Polish delegation today and expressed a hope that all nations would recognize Poland's just claims. He said:

"Altho your national soil today may be red with blood, your rights are so certain we nourish a firm hope that all nations will be conscious of their debt to Poland, too often the theater of their conflicts, and that any one with a spark of truly human and Christian sentiment in his heart will claim for Poland the place which is her due, according to the principles of justice and true peace."

Premier Reaches Cairo.

LONDON, July 28 (AP).—Premier Stanislaw Mikolajczyk of the Polish government in London arrived in Cairo, Egypt, today en route to Moscow to see Premier Stalin.

The government of Mikolajczyk was accused by Edward Osubka-Morawski, chairman of the Polish council of liberation, of trying to provoke war between the Anglo-Saxons and the Russians. His accusation was made in a joint broadcast from Moscow with Gen. Rola-Zymierski whom the soviet sponsored committee appointed commander in chief of the united Polish army.

GUAM A CHEERY SIGHT TO YANKS; IT'S LIKE HOME

BY HAROLD SMITH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

GUAM ISLAND, July 24 [Delayed].—Guam's atmosphere is definitely American, a welcome change to our troops who thus far have taken mainly foreign soil. Here the roads are wide and well surfaced, unlike the Japs' rough one lane trails. Buildings wrecked by the naval bombardment show familiar architecture and carpentry and contain furniture like that of an average domicile back home.

A marine digging a foxhole near the beach unearthed half a marine corps dinner plate bearing the date 1910.

Much Material Captured.

Troops today recaptured a fresh water still which had been seized by the Japs in their three day conquest of the island in December, 1941, when a vastly superior force overthrew the tiny garrison of 255 marines and a smattering of naval personnel.

In a Jap storage area between Tepungan and Piti we found much enemy material practically undamaged. Included were three caterpillar tractors, the equivalent to our lightest combat type, five smaller ones, including two built in the United States, a large reel of new fire hose made in San Francisco, many crates of horse drawn plows and flimsy revolving harrows, three huge new searchlights in crates, and many garden tools.

Three well perforated bayonet dummies showed the Nips had practiced for our coming.

Navy Yard Wrecked.

Piti navy yard and harbor are a shambles of smashed buildings and sunken craft give proof of the terrific pasting the defenders took in our 17 day preparatory bombardment. Nothing remained but ashes and tangled girders after our amphibious vanguard worked over the place.

Snipers secreted in caves above a headquarters area at the base of a high ridge, continue to give trouble. Last night heavy rifle and automatic weapon fire disturbed our rest, so today a platoon of war dogs went baying thru the thickets and flushed out four enemy riflemen and machine gunners near the bivouac of the 3d marine division commander, Maj. Gen. Allen H. Turnage. One sniper killed a dog handler and shot another before being liquidated by grenades and flame throwers.

Supplies Pour in.

New life mingles with death in this land of bald hills, semi-jungle and eternal prickly heat. A part Brahman cow, found tethered amid some bomb ruins near the beach, was in labor when marines neared Piti. A dozen self-appointed male midwives helped deliver the calf.

Supplies previously held up by the difficulty of negotiating a coral shelf, now are pouring in steadily. The usual acute drinking water shortage has been relieved by the arrival of stills and purifiers which make shell hole seepage potable. All over camp, long idle shaving kits went into action this afternoon, the wide varieties of hirsute decorations getting much needed touching up.

The enemy still commands the highest ridges overlooking our landing beach. By daylight he usually keeps his artillery and mortar positions silent, but after dark he unleashes punishment on the beach and in every glade and gully suitable for a bivouac.

Meets Fellow Tribunite.

After the night of heavy Jap mortar and shellfire, the writer was rewarded by a reunion with a fellow member of The Tribune staff, Sgt. Ward Walker, a marine combat correspondent, whom I had not seen since Walker joined the corps on Dec. 15, 1942. Walker had spent the fiery night in a near-by ravine and we agreed Guam's hospitality wasn't reassuring.

Walker has been a Tribunite since 1939. His wife, Beatrice, works in The Tribune public service office. The sergeant saw previous action at Cape Gloucester, New Britain, where he met Tribune Correspondent Arthur Veysey.

JAPAN DENIES IT SLEW YANKS ON SUPER FORT RAID

LONDON, July 28 (AP).—The Japanese today formally denied they had executed American airmen from Super Fortresses which raided Japan. They said an "erroneous interpretation" had been placed on a broadcast by their Singapore propaganda station July 15.

The Singapore broadcast said some B-29 flyers "bailed out to meet with the same fate which was meted out to the raiders of Tokyo some two years ago."

Some of the Tokyo raiders were executed, and the American state department made inquiries thru Switzerland to learn whether the B-29 airmen similarly had been put to death. In reply, the Japanese foreign office sent a memorandum thru the Swiss which "flatly denied" that the flyers had been executed.

U. S. PRODUCING NEW LAND MINE TO OUTWIT FOES

Syracuse, N. Y., July 28 (AP).—A ceramic, high-explosive land mine, which, being non-metallic, cannot be located by the enemy's electrical mine detectors, is being produced by the hundreds of thousands in the Rochester ordnance district.

Both mine and fuse were developed by the Onondaga Pottery company, Syracuse, in coöperation with the research and development service of the Rochester ordnance district, Col. Frank J. Atwood, ordnance district chief, disclosed today.

GUNMAN ROBS TWO IN OFFICE.

A Negro gunman who entered the office of the Becker Equipment and Supply company, 1647 Fulton st., robbed Earl Becker, 7058 Olcott av., the owner, of $5; Frank Twohig, an employe, of $20, and took $1 from a drawer, police were informed yesterday.

KILL 2,000 JAPS IN BIG ADVANCES ON GUAM, TINIAN

Invaders of Marianas Beat Off Attack.

Flag Returns to Guam

U. S. PACIFIC FLEET HDQ., Pearl Harbor, July 28 (AP).—The Stars and Stripes fly again over Guam, first bit of American territory lost to Japan. Adm. Chester W. Nimitz announced today that the flag had been formally raised over the headquarters of Maj. Gen. Roy S. Geiger, commanding the 3d amphibious corps on the island, overrun by the Japanese Dec. 10, 1941.

U. S. PACIFIC FLEET HDQ., Pearl Harbor, T. H., July 28 (AP).—American forces on Guam, after nearly doubling Jap losses by slaughtering 2,000 counter-attacking troops, have advanced 800 yards to two miles along the entire beachhead and on Tinian have turned their invasion into a rout, capturing eight more square miles and an air field.

The victories were announced tonight by Adm. Chester W. Nimitz in two war bulletins.

Dispatches from Tinian said the Jap garrison on that island, nearest to conquered Saipan, is fleeing in disorder and that Tinian is likely to prove the biggest American prize in the entire Marianas campaign.

Push Near Guam's Capital.

On Guam the 3d division marines on Thursday drove to within one-third of a mile of Agana, Guam's capital, in the sector where a Jap counter-attack was broken up.

The greatest gains were made in the central sector opposite Orote peninsula, where 77th army division troops and the 1st provisional marine brigade pushed as much as two miles inland. They captured Mount Chachao, Alutam, and Tenjo.

In the southern sector units of these forces pushed east for more than a mile.

5,000 Wounded Yanks Recover.

Nimitz reported 21,036 Jap dead have been buried on Saipan, first Marianas island to be wrested from the enemy. These were added to 4,700 known to have been killed to date on Guam and more than 2,000 slain on Tinian—a total of more than 27,000 since June 14.

Nimitz said 5,434 wounded Yanks have returned to action, many of them on Tinian.

On Orote peninsula of Guam the Yanks fought forward 500 yards against 2,000 Japs trapped there while defending an air field and naval base.

Yank Lines Hold Firm.

The 2,000 Japs slain in the counter-attack on Guam were cut down as they pushed into the American lines before dawn Tuesday. Altho they dented the Yank positions, they subsequently were slaughtered, 12 Jap tanks were destroyed, and the American lines held firm.

The Tinian advance was the biggest single day's gain. Marines swept across 8,000 yards in a fanning movement thru the center of the island and now control 45 per cent of the island.

A war correspondent on a warship at Tinian said the onrushing marines had even lost contact in some sectors, so fast were the Japs fleeing. He reported the town of Tinian already is under a terrific bombardment.

JAPS FLEEING IN INDIA SO FAST CONTACT IS LOST

SOUTHEAST ASIA COMMAND HDQ., Kandy, Ceylon, July 28 (AP).—The Japanese in flight from northeast India are retreating so rapidly south of Imphal toward Tiddim in Burma that the allies have lost contact some 35 miles below Imphal and 25 miles from the Burma border on this route, headquarters announced today.

To the north allied columns in a seven mile advance in the last 24 hours reached a point 15 miles east of Palel on the road to Tamu, enemy rear base just across the Burma frontier.

Under the lash of allied war planes the enemy was blowing up dumps as well as abandoning equipment. In the last 48 hours the Japanese have lost three strongpoints and more than 200 dead on the road to Tamu.

Headquarters said street fighting was in progress in the enemy's stubbornly defended North Burma base of Myitkyina. Medium and heavy bombers raided the Mandalay railway yards.

INVESTIGATE LOOP BOMB SCARE.

Members of the police bomb squad investigating an "explosion" in a parking lot at 112 N. La Salle st. last night, found gaudy bits of red and yellow cardboard—all that remained of a giant firecracker which had been exploded in the lot.

HENGYANG FIGHT SPREADS; TANKS GO INTO ACTION

CHUNGKING, China, July 28 (AP).—Both sides are rushing up tanks and infantry in the spreading battles of Hunan province, whose key rail city of Hengyang remains firmly in Chinese hands despite more than a month of unrelenting Japanese assault, a Chinese army spokesman said tonight.

As the battle for Hengyang and its strategic outposts to the north and south spilled over into Kiangsi province on the east, Chinese and American warplanes swarmed to the support of ground forces by raking enemy transport and positions.

Maj. Gen. C. C. Tseng, the army spokesman, said both sides were bringing up reinforcements for the decisive battle. Bloody fighting still raged about the city.

A bulletin from Lt. Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell's headquarters said Warhawks had smashed at power barges in Tungting lake, below Yochow, destroyed many small supply boats on the Siang and hammered enemy concentrations.

10 Auto Tires Are Taken by Vatican City Thieves

VATICAN CITY, July 28 (AP).—Thieves who broke into Vatican City stole 10 automobile tires, papal police said today. Tires are worth almost their weight in silver in Rome.

GRASS REMAINS BROWN AS PARKS HELP WIN WAR

Green lawns in the parks are not necessary to win the war. Therefore the grass will stay brown, unless more rain comes, and Chicago war plants working shifts around the clock will continue to get the water that used to go to the park grass.

This was the explanation of the brown grass in Lincoln and other parks given yesterday by George Ehmann, landscape maintenance supervisor of the Chicago park district. He was answering critics who have complained against lack of grass care.

Brown grass isn't dead grass, Ehmann said. A couple of good rains will restore its color, he said, and rains this week should bring results next week.

Shortage of labor also is a factor in making the grass brown, Ehmann said. About midnight, it might be possible to water the grass, because the drain on city water mains is lowest at that time. But school boys make up three-fourths of the landscape staff of 700 and 60 per cent of them are 14 and 15 years old. They cannot be called to duty at midnight, Ehmann said.

NAZI RADIO SAYS MILLIONS MUST GO ON WAR JOBS

LONDON, July 28 (AP).—Transocean, Nazi propaganda agency, broadcast from Berlin tonight that the latest Nazi "all out" war effort ordered by Reichs Minister Joseph Goebbels would involve shifting "not hundreds of thousands, but millions" of men and women in non-essential work to replace men needed to bolster the fighting forces.

Goebbels and his staff want speedily to mobilize Germany's reserves, Transocean said, adding:

"The speed of action will depend on how quickly the barracks can be emptied. As troops now in the home country's barracks go to the front, able bodied men from industry and commerce will be drafted. Their places . . . will be taken by men and women from enterprises and offices which are not war important."

Women 50 May Work.

Extension of the working woman's age limit from 45 to 50 appeared among the first measures expected, said the broadcast, declaring that in England the age was 55. It added that "real employment" for women was contemplated, noting that up to now women, "altho legally obliged to work, did only nominal work by registering with relatives."

Goebbels in his new role as reich plenipotentiary for total war today instituted a great hunt for soldiers and workers, threatening slackers with "ruthless measures."

A Goebbels decree commanded all Germans not employed in vital war work to register with draft offices for war jobs by Aug. 15 or "be regarded as outside the German fighting community and face ruthless methods."

Hitler Broadcast Expected.

Reports from Switzerland said Hitler planned a broadcast next Thursday, anniversary of the founding of the SA [storm troopers], and would attempt to justify his policy. London papers said Hitler was expected to announce that he was giving Heinrich Himmler, now in command of the German home army, the rank of field marshal, a status equivalent to that of Herman Goering.

The United States office of war information reported that an article in the Swiss Journal de Geneve said Hitler's address might prove to be "more revolutionary than would be agreeable to some," probably following the line taken recently by Robert Ley, labor front leader.

The journal said:

"The declaration of war that Dr. Ley, chief of the labor front, made against the German bourgeois world and especially against conservatives of all shades may constitute a precise indication of the course events are to take."

PLANE CARRYING WOUNDED YANKS CRASHES; 22 DIE

LONDON, July 28 (AP).—An evacuation plane carrying wounded American soldiers to Scotland for transfer to the United States, crashed last night against a Scottish cliff, killing 22 persons, the 9th United States air force announced today. A fire followed the crash and many bodies were today beyond recognition.

An American nurse and an R. A. F. flier riding as passengers were killed. The others were crew members and wounded soldiers.

The plane was one of three in a sky train bound for Prestwick, Scotland, where the wounded men were to have started home for convalescence. It was the first fatal accident in the troop carrier command's air evacuation which has brought thousands of wounded men from front lines to hospitals.

GERMAN MORALE.

Some of the Germans captured in the last few days in Normandy say that they know their country has lost the war and they're glad to be out of the fighting. Others still are filled with military ardor and loyalty to Hitler. Men of both types were interviewed by John Thompson of this newspaper.

Readers who may be disappointed to learn that all the prisoners have not given up hope of victory should not lose sight of this fact: there is not a single American civilian or soldier among 130,000,000 of us who has the slightest doubt that we shall win this war, win it fairly soon, and win it by a complete victory over all our enemies. The same unanimity is to be found among the British and the Russians.

That is to say, after nearly five years of fighting, Germany's war spirit is wavering while confidence on our side is absolute. Despair is gnawing at the German army in all ranks. Generals and privates alike are giving way to despondency. An army in which any considerable number of men is persuaded that defeat is inevitable cannot long hold against armies filled with confidence, as ours are.

That would be true if the strength on the two sides were equal. In fact, we have bigger and, in the main, better equipped armies and we have command of the air and the sea. We have not experienced a serious setback in two years and the Germans have known nothing else. On every front they are still in retreat and the pace of late has been quickening.

Perhaps if Hitler had been able a year or so ago to exploit his robot bombs and any other secret weapons he may have in preparation he might have been able to hold out, but in all probability his improvisations have come too late to change the outcome. The allies are marching to victory and they know it. The Germans are marching to defeat and so many of them know it that the end cannot be long delayed.

The experts in psychological warfare are taking some of the credit for the crumbling of German morale. It is reported, for example, that leaflets dropped by our planes were found in the pockets of prisoners and this fact is regarded as significant. The truth, of course, is that all the leaflets in the world wouldn't have unhinged the Germans when they were winning. Their fighting spirit has been weakened on the battlefields. The principal influence in bringing about the reversal of their fortunes was the weight of men and arms which America threw into the balance.

WHO GOES TO COLLEGE?

A committee of British educators organized under government auspices has reported a plan for the reorganization of England's so-called public schools, such as Eton and Harrow. We would call them private schools, tho many of them receive money from taxes, in addition to the income from endowments and fees. The proposed reorganization is intended to open these institutions more widely than they have been in the past to the sons of the poor and the humble. Presumably the state will pay all or part of the costs of educating such boys who have given evidence of unusual talents.

This will appeal to Americans as a step in the right direction, even tho the numbers involved cannot be large, because the total enrollment of all the public schools, for girls as well as boys, is only about 40,000. If the plan is adopted the son of a county family will still have a much better chance of getting the best education available in his country than will the boy of equal ability who happens to be the son of a dock laborer. Evidently the time has not yet come when England is prepared to make educational opportunity the reward of talent and nothing else.

Americans may feel that in this respect we have done better. No doubt we have, but the difference is in degree rather than in kind. It is true in this country, as it is in England, that the sons of the wealthy have the advantage in educational opportunity. This is not to forget that tens of thousands of poor boys have worked their way thru college, but the fact remains that a good many youngsters faced with the duty of helping support their families have been deprived of higher education by this circumstance. To the credit of our colleges and universities, only the fewest of them have ever refused to enroll a boy because he was poor, but if we believe, as we do, in equality of educational opportunity, that is not enough.

We do not know how this problem can best be met, but we have a suggestion that may be helpful. Many boys are not coming back from this war, boys whose parents were sending them to college or intended to do so. Almost any school principal can name a promising youngster who needs financial help if he is to go to college, or perhaps even to high school. We can think of no better memorial to a son killed in the war than the education of another boy. Parents who are not themselves in need of the war risk insurance left by their sons may feel disposed to devote the money to this purpose. It can be done easily and directly without any burocratic interference.

THE HANNEGAN BOYS AND STATE RIGHTS.

The police picked them up and the delegate from St. Louis, William J. Roche, who had been a county payroller and doorbell pusher in the 21st when Hannegan was the ward committeeman, immediately started to holler for his old pal Bob, who by that time had moved on to more expansive fields and was oiling up the Truman steamroller in Washington. All this came out Tuesday in the Criminal court, where Roche and three confederates were on trial for robbery.

Chairman Hannegan is a brash and enterprising young man, but he and his boys apparently need to be reminded that we are still living under a federal system, not a centralized government. Just because Hannegan is the boss of the national Democratic machine, he can't be stepping into Chicago to front for his boys who get into trouble. Our local Democrats are strong believers in state rights, in this respect at least. If Hannegan's boys can't make their arrangements with our own ward committeemen they'd better pull their stickups in St. Louis.

ILLINOIS SOLDIERS WILL VOTE.

Arrangements are already well under way for handling the hundreds of thousands of absentee ballots that will be cast by Illinois soldiers and sailors in the November election. Altho tomorrow is legally the first day for applying for absentee ballots, more than 25,000 such applications have already been received in Cook county alone.

The Communist cry that soldiers are prevented from voting by the refusal of Illinois to authorize the fraudulent federal ballot is based on the contention that the use of the state absentee ballot is so cumbersome as to discourage its use. The lie is refuted by a moment's consideration of the absentee voting process.

To get an absentee ballot a soldier has to apply for it. The application is a postcard affidavit that he is of voting age and was a resident of Illinois before he entered the service for a sufficient time [a year in the state, 90 days in the county, and 30 days in the precinct] to qualify as a voter under state law.

County Clerk Flynn has printed half a million of these affidavits for use in Cook county alone. They are being distributed to any responsible political or civic organization that asks for them. Both Republican and Democratic ward organizations are canvassing every home that has a man in service, asking his family to forward a ballot application in their next letter. The American Legion and other organizations are doing the same.

If a soldier doesn't get an application from home he can get one from his commanding officer. The federal service voting act provides for the distribution of such affidavits by the army, navy, and merchant marine. They are accepted by Illinois authorities. The soldier can execute the affidavit before any of his superiors from the rank of sergeant on up.

The application comes back to Chicago postage free. The soldier gets a ballot back by return mail. He marks it, seals it in an unmarked envelope, and puts that inside another envelope, bearing his name and Illinois voting address. The ballot also comes back to Chicago postage free. The address on the outer envelope enables the county clerk or Chicago election board to distribute it to the precinct in which the soldier's voting address lies. The polls board opens these outer envelopes and places the unmarked inner envelope in the ballot box with civilian ballots, to be counted at the end of the day. The secrecy of the soldier's ballot is thus fully protected.

The machinery of handling some hundreds of thousands of absentee ballots, a procedure never before attempted in an Illinois election, is necessarily complicated. The complications do not fall on the soldier voter, but on the election officials. All the soldier has to do is to apply for a ballot, receive it, mark it, and return it. He is actually put to less trouble to vote than are members of his family here in Chicago. They have to register. He does not. They have to go to the polls. His ballot is sent to him.

Soldier voting has been made so easy under the Illinois act, in fact, that many of the usual precautions against election frauds cannot be applied to the soldier ballots. The only real protection against such frauds is the good citizenship of the soldiers themselves.

Cross-indexes are being set up in the county clerk's office to see that no soldier gets two or more ballots, either at the same or different addresses. But there is no practicable method of verifying the absentee voter's claim that he is a legal resident of Illinois for voting purposes. The precinct polling boards are the judges of the validity of such ballots, but it is manifestly impossible for their members to know with certainty whether a soldier actually was a resident of the precinct at some time several years ago. In such instances they will undoubtedly count the suspected ballot rather than risk disfranchising a man who is fighting for his country.

Undoubtedly there will be many Illinois soldiers who fail to vote in the election this fall, just as there will be many civilians who fail to vote. All of them, soldiers and civilians alike, will not vote only because they are not sufficiently interested to do so. That is lamentable, but it can't be charged against the voting system.

The Communist led outcry against the state ballot isn't inspired by any real desire to see soldiers vote. It is an attempt to impose the crooked, nameless federal ballot on Illinois in violation of the statutes of this state and the Constitution of the United States. These bobtailed ballots will be gathered by a so-called election commission composed of three New Deal jobholders.

If permitted, they would gather thousands of their bobtailed ballots and send them to Illinois with the order, "Count these." Illinois authorities would have no way of determining whether the ballots had been marked by Illinois soldiers in the field or by some of the New Deal heroes in the foxholes of Washington. The possibilities for fraud are unlimited. Gov. Green wisely and properly refused to open the way to such frauds.

Reg. U. S. Pat. Office

MR. PEPYS ON FURLOUGH.

29th July—Think it is about time for me to take a vacation, which I forgot to do last summer, and so after fixing up a column for Monday shall slide off my throne and disappear for a few weeks. Have appointed Delos Avery, alias the Commodore, who sits at an adjacent desk, as Linemaster pro tem., and given him full instruction about the tricks of the trade. So if you see the initials D. A. at the bottom of the column for a while, don't think I have fallen into the hands of the district attorney. [This is the oldest joke in Mr. Avery's life, and I am springing it now to keep it out of the contributions he will receive.]

Have spent so much time of late traveling over Europe in imagination with the army, and over the Pacific ocean with the navy, that I shall content myself with short trips on my furlough. Whenever I observe the seething of the masses at the railroad stations I feel it might be wise to do my seething on the subway. For healthful exercise I could pack two suitcases heavy as lead, my usual custom, and stagger with them three times around the block, every day. As for tan, I could get it in a vacant lot, watching the war gardeners yank up their vegetables.

And so thru a spell of the dog days, beginning Aug. 1, my address will be "the lake isle of Innisfree," which can't be found on maps of the United States. All worrying in this corner of the office will be conscientiously handled by the Commodore.

AFTER GREAT MUSIC.

A cosmic irony, superb in scorn
Of whom it flays, I suddenly understood,
Hearing tonight Tschaikowsky grandly played,
And Wagner once again immortal made—
Each in his sphere a titan; each the born
Bringer to men of music's matchless good.

There was no Russian in those paeans plundered
From paradise . . . no German in those chords
That, from the stuff of silence, wove such glory
Of sound it seemed the gods' own repertory,
Where thunder piled on thunder, and a hundred
Heroes of legend strode, melodic lords.

The whole satiric vision saw I then;
An exquisite, sad truth that shames the heart,
Whereby these masters, rapt beyond all strife
Of alien flags and alien races rife
With enmity, remind the sons of men

Old Silver in the Attic.

You are thinking of the days when we used casters to hold our condiment cruets, bottles and jugs of mustard, catsup, salt and pepper, vinegar or salad dressing, set in holes in a circular plane of silver supported by a stand.

You think of the great table, covered with a white tablecloth, many plates, and much silverware, and the napkins ensnared in napkin rings. About the table were seated the mother, father, children, aunts, uncles, and guests. There was much conversation and laughter, which went around and around the table, in the middle of which stood the round caster, supporting the seasonings.

The trouble with the caster was its inaccessibility. It was useful only to those who sat near it, and in those days of huge tables and large families, those at the ends must needs ask to have the salt or pepper "passed" to them. So the caster ended in the attic with the other relics of days gone by.

But it was nice to go up into the attic on a sunshiny day, take the caster downstairs, polish it, and take it back to its resting place. There was a small south window in our attic, and the sun poured thru in a blaze of midsummer brilliance. The caster was turned rapidly until it shone resplendent in the sunshine, which broke into millions of pieces upon the shining glassware and silver. Around and around it went until it blended into a shining circle, like a halo.

You feel warm and good as you think of it, but you feel also lonesome, as if something is gone which never should have gone. You turn the caster once more, stand up to leave, look back, and see the shiny halo.

You think of the hands that touched it in the past, which now are folded, and you see a halo of rainbow color.

THE FOUR WINDS.

The wind from the north is chill and rife,
And the cold gray dawn of a lonely life.

The breeze from the south is a fragrant sigh,
Bringing the warmth of a southern sky
And the memory of our last good-by.

The eastern wind is soft and wet,
Laden with scents I shall not forget
And heavy with tears that are flowing yet.

But the west wind's message I long to learn

Friend of the Yanks

[This department answers questions about draft, military, and veterans' problems, here and by mail, if a self-addressed envelope is sent.]

C. S. L. writes: "We have not heard from our son since the invasion of Normandy and fear he may be a casualty. Is there any department we could write to find out about him? Would we surely be notified in case he was wounded or killed?"

When men enter service, they are requested to give an "emergency addressee"—some one to be notified by the government if the service man is injured or killed. Many times the Yank gives the name and address of a friend rather than his wife, parents, or nearest of kin, and the friend is supposed to be the bearer of tidings. The government states it sometimes has to exhaust every means to locate the "emergency addressee" and urges those having the most direct interest in casualty notices to keep the government informed of their correct addresses. We suggest you write the Adjutant General's office, Washington, D. C., giving your son's complete military identification; or for the Coast Guard, write Commandant, United States Coast Guard; for the navy, Bureau of Personnel, Navy Department, and for the Marines, Bureau of Personnel, Marine Corps Headquarters, Washington.

BABY'S SKIN IS TENDER.

DURING warm days, babies may become fretful, lose sleep, and even fail to gain weight. Skin irritation may be a causative factor. Prickly heat is common in the first few weeks of life. The remedy is cleanliness plus the liberal use of dusting powder. Fortunately, few symptoms accompany this eruption.

When it comes to napkin rash, the tot may suffer severely, if the material is harsh or improperly laundered. A marked dermatitis may be observed wherever the fabric strikes. In severe cases, raw areas of true ulceration may be encountered. This condition is made worse if acid stools are allowed to remain in contact with the cuticle for any length of time.

After good hygiene has been instituted, treatment must be directed to the diet. Overrich mixtures will result in discharges which will exert a blistering effect upon the epidermis. Not only will diapers need to be changed frequently, but they may require rinsing in a saturated solution of boracic acid.

A type of blemish may appear between folds where chafing occurs. After a time the inflamed regions will exude a gummy fluid which more often than not will be infected. This emphasizes the importance of periodic bathing with water and a bland soap, as well as thoro drying. If improvement fails to come, an excellent plan is to paint the region lightly with a mild solution of gentian violet. After it dries, dust with talcum.

The outer covering of all young infants is extremely tender. Neglect, rough handling, or an abrasion may plant bacteria. Thus, moisture is soaked up by patting rather than rubbing. But we must not cover up dirt and nests of organisms with cosmetics. Talcum can be used after the surface has been cleansed.

Every now and then babies will develop boils because the back of the head has been in contact with a soiled pillow. Here treatment is the same as for adults, altho strong remedies cannot be employed. Care must be taken not to spread the causative organisms, otherwise a crop of furuncles may be in evidence.

Another nuisance is infection around the finger nails. Small tags may open the doorway to staphylococci. Thus, the nail fold may become swollen and red. Extremely dilute antiseptic dressings will be needed as disorders of this sort travel rapidly. A weak solution of gentian violet may be used or a one per cent ammoniated mercury ointment may be applied several times daily to the affected parts. Caution will be required to prevent the little one from placing the doctored fingers in the mouth.

We must not forget allergies. If woolen vests or bands produce redness, cotton should be substituted. This may not be a true sensitivity, but merely a mechanical reaction. If typical wheals are noted, we have reason to suspect urticaria [hives], the result of some substance with which the child has been in contact. Search then can be made for the "starter." An article of diet may be the offender. A few of our youngsters will be unable to assimilate cow's milk.

BABY CARE.

Mrs. B. writes: I have a month old baby who sleeps most of the day. My mother says not to wake her for feeding because she will grow as she sleeps. My mother had four children and she claims she raised three in this way. The one who was on a schedule turned out the worst. What do you think is best?

REPLY.

Many of us are like Topsy, who "just growed." Gain in weight is the best answer. Don't change your schedule unless your physician agrees.

NOT POISONOUS.

S. W. writes: I read recently that rhubarb contains a poison and that eating it causes gallstones. Could this be?

REPLY.

No danger. You probably refer to the fact that oxalic acid is present in small amounts. Only the stalks should be used, of course.

CROOKED TOE.

B. H. writes: What is a hammertoe? Can it be remedied?

REPLY.

Contraction of the tendon which flexes the digit. The tip bends downward at a right angle and cannot be straightened. Surgery may be required to restore function.

We may be quite wrong about it, but we have an idea that the end of the war will show an unusual crop of stomach ulcers on the part of the civilian population. It is not just the wildly imaginative dishes that amateur and dreamy cooks dish out at home. It is not merely the extraordinary substitutes, such as creamed asparagus root, a tasteless substance disguised in cheese, that you desperately order in restaurants. It is not just the burning pangs sustained by standing in line for hours in order to ask a waiter, "What do you have left today?" It is not just the terrible speed at which you eat [1] to make way for the three hungrier persons who lean over your shoulder and mentally taste every bite you swallow or [2] so that the waiter, who doesn't like you anyway and directs poisonous looks at you every time your eyes meet his, can go home. It is all of that. It is not universal, of course, but it is frequent. As a result, those who perforce are diners-out because of their occupations, skulk meekly into restaurants, are intimidated into over-tipping, bolt their food, and never dare comment on its merits or lack of merits or, more particularly, whether they are eating what they or the fat man at the next table ordered.

It was in such a thoroly beaten down and dispirited mood that we took some guests into a Michigan avenue restaurant for lunch the other day. It is one of the few restaurants around town that seem to be abiding by OPA regulations. The food still is excellent, not too expensive, and the servings ample. Moreover, the service still is dignified to the point where it is courtly. So courtly is it that you do not dare infringe on it.

It was just a little thing that prompted this whole dissertation. It was a pursuit-of-health mood that caused us to order milk. The waiter brought coffee. Now who, in these times, would dare complain? Not this hungry department. The coffee was drunk.

Just as the last sip was swallowed, the waiter came back to the table. He gazed at the empty coffee cup. "O," he cried in consternation, "you ordered milk! Here," snatching for the coffee cup, "I'll go get it."

No, no, no, no, he was assured. The coffee was perfectly all right. Yes, yes, yes, yes, he came right back. For a minute it was a monosyllabic battle. The noes won, but the waiter drew himself to his full height and said, in the tones in which one reproves a wicked child: "You were very foolish to drink that coffee. You should have complained. You know," his face severe as he waltzed away, "the wheel that does not squeak never gets greased!"

Inscription.

Word has just come this way of a man named Harry who went into the navy. His wife's name is Caroline, and their friends call them Harry and Carrie. Harry's orders directed him to the Pacific, and he asked his wife to get him a hunting knife. She did, and a beautiful thing it was. On it she had inscribed the words: For Hari from Kari.

Cosmetics at War.

A lady we know who likes to make her own cold creams by her grandmother's recipe went to her druggist this week and laid in a stock of necessary ingredients—lanolin, beeswax, spermaceti, glycerin, olive oil, borax, rose water, and witch hazel. The druggist packed them carefully and then turned a cautious eye on her. "With the addition of a little more," he said sternly, "you would have a high explosive." The lady says he watched her all the way down the street. She expects to find the FBI in her apartment any day now.

The Home Front.

All really is confusion. A young Chicago woman drove her husband to work one day. Later in the day the washing machine broke down, so she telephoned him to complain. "Sorry," his secretary said, "but he's been out of town all week."

Footnote to the News.

So far, a very dull week. Not a single letter from President Roosevelt.

WHO WAS WATCHING THE STORE?

Wheeling, Ill., July 21.—In reading the various accounts of the so-called Democratic convention just concluded at the Stadium, I made a tabulation of the names of government officials and other dignitaries attending the conclave. This list included, among others, the Vice President, who was very actively engaged in his fight for renomination, Mr. Byrnes, the "assistant president," Mr. Biddle, attorney general, who was a delegate, Sen. Barkley, and the President himself, who was not at the convention, but was traveling over the country to a Pacific naval base from which to make his speech of acceptance of his nomination for a fourth term. I wondered that since all these officials were absent from Washington at the same time, who could have been left there in charge of the business of the government. Could it be that Ex-Convict Browder was given this assignment?

JOHN G. LITTLE.

THINKS THEY'D RATHER HAVE A PIN-UP GIRL.

Chicago, July 26.—I see that Mr. Dewey's picture has been denied a place on the wall of the service men's center. It seems, then, that this center is run solely for the Democrats, by the Democrats, and of the Democrats.

I have been collecting donations in an area of five blocks in my community, and I think as long as the Republicans are willing and happy to do their share, they also have a right to be represented.

MRS. GEO. KAESBERG.

"WHITE LILY."

Fort Wayne, Ind., July 26.—At the recent Democrat convention, one of our more prominent reporters on the air, referred directly to Mr. Truman as the white lily that grew out of the mud, i. e.—out of the mud of the Pendergast scandal. Mr. Truman's response was not audible, but he seemed to assent. I would like to suggest, therefore, that the Democrats use the reference in their campaign: "White Lily Truman." Or could I have been mistaken? Could it have been that the reporter may have said, "Whited Lily," or possibly, "White-washed Lily?"

E. S. HANSEN.

VACATION ADVICE.

Chicago, July 19.—I suggest that all who can possibly do so, arrange their vacations for after Sept. 21, when the new "A" gasoline coupons become valid. That being about six weeks before election, the New Dealers may suddenly discover we have a much larger stock of oil and gas than the present indicates and also that our production has been stepped up as some of the headlines now presage; but watch out if they are not defeated on Nov. 7. That stock will disappear like a snowball at the equator.

POLITICAL AMMUNITION?

Chicago, July 26.—I did not know that the cookies and cakes my wife baked for the service men's center were going to Democratic headquarters.

MAN WORSHIP AT THE STADIUM.

New York, July 21.—Listening by radio to the speeches at the Democratic national convention in your city and noting the fortissimo of praise for "the one man who can save America," my religious sensibilities were roused. The comic situation seemed to be superseded by a demonstration of real worship which lifted the convention out of the realm of mere politics into that of religion. The use of superlatives in an ever ascending scale to a grand crescendo really placed the candidate out of this world and among the heavenly beings—possibly close to the archangel himself. As a minister of religion I was a little worried that the enthusiastic politicians might try to place their candidate even above the angelic hosts. Adolf Hitler in his palmiest days could not have been more completely applauded, lauded, and adored by his most fanatical Nazis than was the Democratic candidate in the sessions of Thursday, July 20.

I am not facetious when I warn that there is a dangerous spirit being manifest in America today, concocted largely by alien sentiments which never before have found root on American soil.

Solemnly I would warn genuine Americans that this man worship which is being propagated in high places is, from a religious standpoint and ignoring the political implications, a very dangerous procedure, denoting both a departure from the sanity of oldtime Americanism and a willingness to accept European philosophies which have for many centuries produced totalitarianism and created the wars and the sufferings of the nations.

GOV. DEWEY'S PICTURE.

Chicago, July 23.—The very fine picture of Thomas E. Dewey in this morning's paper was hung in my window at 10:30, where it will stay until his election in November. Thus I am the first in this block and precinct, and, I think, in the entire neighborhood, to give my Democratic friends a glimpse of their next President.

FRANK L. WOOD.

SAGAS OF THE PALE HOSE.

Logansport, Ind., July 15.—If a person's morale needs a lift nowadays, I would suggest reading Ed Burns' classic [I think] stories about Jimmie Dykes' White Sox. They are always good for a chuckle and it makes one appreciate THE TRIBUNE all the more.

NO RECORD, NO CERTIFICATE.

Chicago, July 26.—You advised me to write to the Indiana state board of health to arrange for a delayed birth registration for my daughter, but I have received a reply stating that the board has no record of her birth and a certificate cannot be supplied. Is there not some way for her to obtain this much needed document? C. O.

Recent Indiana legislation authorizing delayed registration of births has been ruled unconstitutional by the attorney general. This means that if you cannot find a record you will have to get along without the certificate.

SHAPE ILLINOIS POST-WAR PLANS AS URGENT NEED

Commission Warned That Time Is Precious.

BY WILLIAM SHINNICK.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Decatur, Ill., July 28.—A vast state-wide program of post-war improvement was roughly shaped here today at a meeting of the Illinois post-war planning commission.

With Gov. Green present, the commission pledged itself to complete coöperation with all the state's counties and cities in planning for the post-war era. It also heard without dissent warning that time is precious and that no definite plans are ready to care for veterans and reconversion of industry if there should be an early end to the war in Europe.

These problems are high on the agenda of the post-war body. So is the ever present transportation question embracing steam and local transport systems, waterways, airplane fields, and highways. Into all these facilities the commission staff has been digging deeply.

100 Million Fund Ready.

Its whole program includes the spending of the 100 million dollar fund which has been laid aside by the state to help bridge the anticipated difficulties immediately after the war. However, it goes far beyond that in money and in time. In outline it envisages years of planning.

George B. McKibbin, state finance director and chairman of a committee on public works, reported that projects contemplated for state buildings and highways had reached a total of about 500 millions and 99 counties were thinking about spending 113 millions more. These plans are to be winnowed to find the most necessary improvements.

Altho it made no formal report, the commission committee on veterans' care, headed by Sen. Arnold P. Benson [R., Batavia] disclosed that 6,000 Illinois military men are being discharged each month and that the total released would exceed 100,000 in January.

Program Not Sectional.

Anderson Pace, Illinois Central railroad executive and chairman of the commission, read a letter he recently sent to Gov. Green stating that authorities in Chicago had showed a fine spirit of coöperation and had outlined projects in which they believed state assistance would be valuable. The governor stressed the point that the program was not sectional and that assistance would be rendered to communities in proportion to their needs.

What Pace referred to as a "sales manual for Illinois" was presented to the commission by Dr. M. M. Leighton, chief of the state geological survey. Not yet completed, it is an atlas of Illinois resources on a scale never attempted before. Much of the work on it is being done by the University of Illinois.

It was agreed by the commission members that there should be collaboration with federal agencies in planning post-war industrial conversion and with the surrounding states on many contingent matters.

ARMY LIFTS VEIL OF SECRECY ON ITS SNOW JEEP

Camp McCoy, Wis., July 28 [Special].—The first "Weasel," the army's "snow jeep" which runs on caterpillar tracks, is at Camp McCoy, Col. George M. MacMullin, post commander, revealed today as the war department lifted the veil of secrecy which for two years had concealed the facts on the vehicle.

During this time, Camp McCoy has been one of the army's major overhauling stations for M-28 and M-29 cargo carriers, as the original and improved models of the vehicle are known, Maj. Robert E. Sawyer, chief of the McCoy combined maintenance shops, announced. Hundreds of "Weasels" have been processed in post maintenance shops this spring and summer, he said.

The Weasel, powered by a standard six cylinder Studebaker Champion engine, will travel 35 miles an hour, and the 20 inch wide tracks of the M-29 will carry it over the deepest snow and thru swampy muskeg. It is semi-amphibious with a watertight body, the light construction of which permits it to travel thru wet swamps where its tracks can barely grip the bottom.

The Weasel charges over nearly straight up and down hills and smashes thru underbrush and woods without any trouble.

Purpose of the Weasel, according to Maj. Sawyer, is a personnel or cargo carrier. It can haul over snow a train of heavy cargo sleds, hundreds of which have just been repaired by the combined maintenance shops, he said. Usual equipment includes a radio set, which helps the Weasel to be in effect a reconnaissance vehicle.

HUNT BURGLARS WHO TOOK $14,000 LOOT IN 3 STORES

Police yesterday were searching for three or four men in a black sedan as the burglars who early in the day smashed windows and doors in three stores to obtain nearly $14,000 in furs, clothing, jewelry, and luggage.

Smashing a plate glass window in the Saks-Fifth Avenue store, 669 N. Michigan av., the men escaped with two dummies attired in mink coats worth $4,000 each, jewelry and accessories worth $800, and clothing. Four platina fox skins valued at $2,200 also were taken. An iron grill on the window was removed and used to smash the glass.

At the Leo Share, Inc., fur store at 4302 Madison st., three men pried open the front door and fled with six fur coats valued at $2,500. Later four men smashed a show window and stole nine suitcases from the Majestic Luggage company, 1418 Milwaukee av., after threatening to shoot a bystander.

TRUCKS TOURING CITY TO BOOST WAR BOND SALES

Furthering 5th war loan bond sales to individuals, sound trucks selling E bonds for cash will tour the city until 2 p. m. Monday, when the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago closes and the drive ends, Phillip R. Clarke, city-county director, announced yesterday.

Clarke said Cook county sales of E bonds thru Thursday night reached $106,732,651, or 85.05 per cent of the quota of $125,493,000. Clarke accompanied a sound truck Thursday night to 63d and Halsted streets, where he and his staff made cash sales of $18,975 in E bonds.

Individual sales, including E bonds, totaled $229,273,000, or 82.64 per cent of quota, and total sales thru Thursday rose to $1,113,740,000, or 121.58 per cent of the city-county quota.

The northwest side exceeded its $45,000,000 quota in original orders by $10,000,000, Roy I. Levinson, divisional director, announced. Six communities which led in the campaign, their sales and per cent of quota, were: Sauganash, $155,234, or 218 per cent; Forest Glenn, $66,152, or 159 per cent; Edgebrook, $118,149, or 155 per cent; North Park, $406,000, or 138 per cent; Belmont-Cragin, $1,263,268, or 113 per cent, and Albany Park, $749,551, or 100 per cent.

'BACK OF YARDS' TO BE GUEST OF CLUB TOMORROW

All "back o' the yards" will turn out tomorrow for the annual picnic of the Old Morgan Athletic club, most famous of the district's organizations. The club was founded in the late '90s and sponsored champion football and baseball teams and athletes, including the late Packy McFarland, Tommy Mowatt, and Hugo Bezdek, football coach.

The picnic will be held in Royal Oak grove, 67th st. and Keane av. Among those present will be many who attended the club's annual celebrations years ago when they were children and learned that the soda pop is always free in unstinted quantities for the youngsters.

Injured Woman Explains She Was Pushed from Car

Vivian Lawton, 23, of 6145 Kenwood av., a waitress who was found unconscious early Sunday by police in front of 6110 Evans av., was able to tell yesterday in Woodlawn hospital a coherent story of what happened to her. She told police she accepted a ride home from a man, but was pushed from the car when she resisted his advances. She was found five blocks from where the incident occurred. She suffered cuts and bruises in the fall.

MEXICO U. STUDENTS SET UP NEW REGIME AFTER FATAL RIOTS

MEXICO CITY, July 28 (AP).—A provisional directorate elected by a student-faculty assembly took charge of the National University of Mexico today, after the resignation of the rector, Rodulfo Brito Foucher, as an aftermath of bloody student rioting. It will elect a rector.

The new governing body, headed by the former rector, Fernando Ocaranza, attended funeral services for Jose Garcia Castillo, 20, veterinary student, killed in clashes Wednesday.

Brito Foucher, who earlier had submitted his tenure to a student plebiscite called for today, resigned at an assembly late last night. He said he had nothing to do with the student clashes and blamed the disturbances on "those who rejected plebiscites—the bad students and those who armed them."

UNION RIVALRY MOTIVE EYED IN SHOTGUN BLAST

Police were following two theories yesterday after two men fired a shotgun blast at Joseph Desmyter, 34, organizer for local 705, International Brotherhood of Teamsters [AFL], in front of his home, 3930 Lexington av.

Sgts. Harold Enger and Kenneth Gorman of the police labor detail said the shooting may have resulted from internal troubles in local 705 or might have been committed to gain sympathy for 705, I. B. T., in its rivalry with local 705 of the Chicago Truck Drivers' union, once dominated by Mike Galvin. Enger and Gorman said they doubted the attack signaled the start of open warfare between the two groups.

Desmyter threw himself to the ground when he saw the gunmen's car approach. The shotgun slugs shattered the rear window of his car. In August, 1940, sluggers broke Desmyter's left leg with baseball bats after his return from an I. B. T. convention. The attack was the result of mistaken identity, police said at the time.

OPA Suspends 2 Firms on Bogus Coupon Charge

John R. Allen, hearing commissioner for the regional office of price administration, yesterday suspended the Stadium Auto Service, Inc., 1801 Washington blvd., and Al Karozewski, operator of a service station at 8887 South Chicago av., from dealing in gasoline for two weeks. They were charged with obtaining gasoline with counterfeit coupons. The Stadium company's suspension will be effective Aug. 10, with probation from Aug. 24 to Dec. 31, and Karozewski's will be effective Aug. 6, with probation from Aug. 20 to Dec. 31.

'MICKEY' DODGE CASHES SEVERED MARITAL BONDS

Report Settlement of Close to Million.

Reno, Nev., July 28 [Special].—Martha [Mickey] Devine Dodge, blonde ex-Vanities beauty, today obtained a divorce from Horace E. Dodge, wealthy sportsman, and vowed she never would get married again.

Immediately after the hearing, she displayed her decree at a local bank and was handed a lump sum settlement, described as close to 1 million dollars.

In exchange for the payment, Dodge was handed a carton by the bank.

Miss Devine, who regained her maiden name, said, "That's a secret," when asked about the contents of the carton. It was reported to contain evidence in her New York divorce action, which she dropped today just before the trial here.

Ready to Invest Money.

The former show girl said she planned to return to New York and move out of her apartment, then "return here and invest my money in property." She added: "I'm not going to get married again, that's definite."

She said she was nervous at the trial, which was held behind closed doors and lasted an hour, an unusually long time for divorces here. It did not take long to dispose of residence requirements and her charges of cruelty. The time was consumed with testimony concerning the settlement.

A pre-marital agreement was said to have provided for the payment to her of 1 million dollars "upon the happening of certain events," which was presumed to mean legal separation.

Named Seven Girls.

Dodge, heir to an automobile fortune, married the stage beauty in Baltimore on May 17, 1940. She charged that before the month was out he had forgotten his vows. Her New York divorce complaint alleged he was guilty of misconduct from May 15, 1940, to Aug. 14, 1943.

She named seven girls, mostly members of New York society, with whom he allegedly was intimate, but during the New York hearing her charges pictured Dodge as a husband whose acts of unfaithfulness "may well run into hundreds."

Included in her evidence was an affidavit by the captain of Dodge's yacht, who told of a close call when Mrs. Dodge almost caught his master entertaining a girl friend, both of them nude. The captain said he got the girl away from the yacht in a small boat off the port side only a moment before Mrs. Dodge boarded the yacht on the starboard side.

2 Seize A. W. O. L. Soldier Who Once Escaped Them

Detectives Charles Fuller and Gene Conway of the Fillmore police yesterday caught the A. W. O. L. soldier who escaped them June 12 and dodged their bullets "like a cat." The soldier, Sam Trombetta, 24, of 3009 Arthington st., was arrested two days later in Toledo, O., by federal agents and returned to Camp De Ridder, Ia. On July 4 he left again. Yesterday Fuller and Conway observed their quarry walking at Spaulding av. and Madison st. Trombetta surrendered peacefully and was handed over to military authorities.

German Prisoner Shot in Attempted Escape

New York, July 28 [Special].—Herman Mattschutt, a German prisoner of war who tried to escape today from a railroad passenger coach near Monmouth Junction, N. J., was shot twice by a guard after he had ignored a command to halt. The prisoner was treated for wounds in the stomach and leg.

Doesn't Want Him

MRS. LORRAINE SOKOLSKI.

Mrs. Lorraine Sokolski, 19, of 2105 N. 74th av., Elmwood Park, told Judge Joseph Sabath in Superior court yesterday that she does not want to be reconciled with her husband, Marion, 20, of 2312 McLean av., a war worker.

"I feel like a deflated punching bag, and I can't take it any more," she said. "He has been punching me around ever since we were married."

Mrs. Sokolski, represented by Atty. S. Edward Bloom, is suing her husband for divorce on the ground of cruelty. Judge Sabath yesterday allowed her $10 a week temporary support for her daughter, Shirley, 1. Sokolski said he still loved her. They were married Sept. 1, 1942, and separated July 7, 1944.

ACCUSED LOVE THIEF TO TEST ALIENATION BAN

Atty. Herbert M. Wetzel will petition Judge John F. Bolton in Circuit court today to dismiss an alienation of affections suit filed against a client in defiance of a 1935 Illinois statute prohibiting such suits, and to punish the complainant and two attorneys who filed the suit two weeks ago.

Wetzel represents Anthony Skurdialis, 43, of 4520 S. Francisco av., a real estate dealer, defendant in a suit for $50,000 damages filed by Charles Zaremba, 50, of 4559 S. Washtenaw av., a tavern owner, who charged that Skurdialis stole the affections of his wife, Paulina, 46.

Earl J. Walker and Sol R. Friedman are the attorneys who filed the suit for Zaremba, the first since the 1935 statute was passed. The statute provides a fine of $1,000 and a sentence of one to five years in prison, or any part of either fine or sentence, for filing alienation suits.

U. S. PAY ROLL IN WISCONSIN IS 2½ TIMES STATE'S

Madison, Wis., July 28 [Special].—Wisconsin's 7,904 regular civil service workers March 31, 1944, were outnumbered almost 2½ to one by the 19,281 civilian employes in the executive branch of the federal government working in the state, a Wisconsin citizens public expenditure survey revealed tonight.

In addition to its 7,904 regular civil service workers, Wisconsin had 748 part time employes and 3,141 unclassified workers, including those at the University of Wisconsin and at state teachers colleges.

The five heaviest classifications of federal employes in Wisconsin were: 6,265 in the postoffice department; 4,631 in the war department; 2,156 in the department of agriculture; 1,370 veterans' administration workers, and 1,069 in the office of price administration.

FLYING COCKER HOME, BUT HERO MASTER IS DEAD

Pistol Head Grieves for Airman.

New York, July 28 [Special].—Listless and dull eyed, Pistol Head, the combat flying cocker spaniel of the Solomons, came home to Brooklyn today to try to carry on for his master and pal, the late Lt. Col. S. Theodore Willis, killed in action in the Pacific.

Caged in a special crate built by pilots of the 7th bomber command, the red coated dog arrived at New York airport aboard an airplane and was taken by taxicab to the Brooklyn home of his master's widow, Mrs. Eileen Willis.

Recognizes Widow.

For a moment, as he recognized the mistress he had seen last in October, 1943, Pistol Head seemed to come to life. He ran to the slim young widow and leaped against her knees. Then he dropped back to the floor and lay down in a corner.

In a little room nearby, Michael Lee Willis, baby son of the late colonel, was sleeping. Today was his first birthday. Pistol Head is two years old. Taking care of Mike was a job Pistol Head was to do for the colonel.

Legendary Story.

The story of Pistol Head is legend in the South Pacific. Every bomber pilot has heard how the spaniel flew on 48 combat missions with Willis and how the colonel never took his plane into the air without Pistol Head. Never, that is, until a couple of months ago. Then Willis flew three missions without the dog. He didn't return from the third.

So his fellow flyers built the crate and a sergeant brought Pistol Head to San Francisco where he put him on the passenger plane. On the crate was a message that read:

"This little fellow was a pal of the late Lt. Col. Willis, killed in action. He has flown 48 combat missions and is being returned to Mrs. Willis. Any consideration shown Pistol Head will be greatly appreciated by the 7th bomber command."

SUSPECT SHOT BY POLICEMAN WHEN HE FLEES

Policeman George Thiese of the Central station last night shot a 28 year old man who tried to escape questioning about thefts from automobiles on the lower level of Wacker dr. The shooting climaxed a brief chase on the lower level near Clark street and occurred as the suspect tried to flee thru the revolving doors of the Pure Oil building at Wabash avenue. The bullet struck him in the right arm. He was taken to the Bridewell hospital. He refused to disclose his name.

WOMAN'S STORY OF BURYING BABY LEADS TO PROBE

Jasper county [Ind.] authorities were asked yesterday by Acting Capt. Thomas Alcock of Fillmore st. police to investigate a story told here by Mrs. Victoria Womack, 32, of 15 S. Hoyne av., that she was forced, at the point of a revolver, to bury a baby born prematurely to her sister-in-law, Mrs. Effie Mulloy, 34, of 1803 S. Hoyne av.

The burial took place, Mrs. Womack told police, in the yard of the Mulloys' summer home at Wheatfield, Ind., on June 3, 1940, the day after delivery of the baby. Permission to bury the child was given by a doctor, Mrs. Womack said.

Mrs. Womack, whose husband, Benjamin, is with the army in Italy, said she had been threatened and ordered to keep the event a secret. Mrs. Mulloy, wife of Walter Mulloy, a railroad worker, told police the child was born prematurely after she had been kicked by a heifer. Sheriff Vern Michal of Jasper county said an investigation would be made immediately.

WITNESS GIVEN LIE TEST AFTER QUIZ IN DEATH

Andrew Alexander, a pipefitter of 8000 Calumet av., was given a lie detector test by police last night after he testified at an inquest that he did not know how Joseph Reidy, 38, of 1002 W. 63d st. suffered a fatal skull fracture July 5 outside a tavern at 737 W. 64th st.

Reidy's sister, Mrs. Mary Hart of 5952 S. Wolcott av., who heard Alexander's denial, told Deputy Coroner Louis J. Nadherny that Alexander had told there was a fight in which Edmund O'Dea, 30, of 6443 S. Peoria st., and William R. Hogan, 38, of 7706 Emerald av., were involved. O'Dea was charged by the police with murder after Reidy's death July 9 in the Bridewell hospital, but Acting Capt. Daniel Ahern of Englewood station said there was no evidence against Hogan.

At the Democratic Convention last week many of the speakers expressed with great deepness the meaning of Americanism. They spoke of George Washington, Benjamin Franklin, and many other leaders and builders of our country down to the present day. The American tree has blossomed to a great kindly liberalism. The U. S. A. doesn't need advice from any other ism. Phalangism, Fascism, Nazism and Togoism are only dust on the leaves of the tree of Americanism—dust which we are going to clean off. They must be made to comprehend our Liberty. It's time we advised them—impressed upon them that America and her Allies understand only two words—"unconditional surrender." Buy more bonds. Help our boys to accomplish this "unconditional surrender." Henri Charpentier, Cafe de Paris.

The Inquiring Camera Girl

BY MARYON ZYLSTRA

[The Tribune will pay $5 for each interesting question submitted by a reader and used by The Tribune. Today's question was submitted by Harry Rummel, 3134 S. Vermont av., Milwaukee, Wis.]

THE QUESTION.

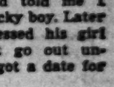
THE ANSWERS.

Bob Range, U. S. N. R., Omaha, Neb.—A friend's girl arranged my first blind date for me. She wouldn't tell me who the girl was, what she looked like, or anything about her. It was a surprise to all of us when the girl turned out to be my second cousin. I was really disappointed.

Mrs. R. J. Christiansen, clerk, 3626 N. Kostner av.—I went on a blind date as a favor to a friend. She was dating a sailor and they were going on a picnic. He brought along two other sailors, so she asked me to go with one. I have never regretted it, because I met the nicest husband that afternoon.



Fern Savage, typist, 4313 Flournoy st.—One Christmas eve I had dinner at a friend's house. Her boy friend was coming over to meet her folks for the first time. He thought if he brought a date for me he wouldn't get so much attention. The blind date he brought was my boy friend.

Richard Gant, U. S. N. R., Hawarden, Ia.—Well, my blind date was all right—what there was of her. She was a little girl, about 4 ft. 8 inches tall, and only weighed about 80 pounds. She was so tiny beside me that I felt I could pick her up and put her in my pocket. We must have been a good-looking couple.

Sue Plengey, clerk, 181 E. Lake Shore dr.—A blind date I had was a great success. I was at a girls' school and the dean got all of us dates for the school dance. I didn't know how to dance very well, but my date was a good dancer. He taught me how to jitterbug. We became good friends.

Bob Kucera, U. S. N. R., Wahoo, Neb.—My first blind date was my last. My friend [?] fixed me up with a girl whom he described as a hard to get date and told me I was a lucky boy. Later he confessed his girl wouldn't go out unless he got a date for her girl friend.

Maj. Wood's Marriage in Sweden Told

BY JUDITH CASS.

SEVERAL weddings are taking place today in Chicago, while one of special interest here was solemnized yesterday in faraway Stockholm, Sweden — the marriage of Miss Martha Cook to Maj. Robert Whitney Wood II. The cable that Gen. and Mrs. Robert E. Wood received in Highland Park telling of their son's wedding was necessarily brief, so his Chicago friends will be eagerly awaiting further details of the ceremony. Maj. Wood's bride, whose home originally was in Charleston, W. Va., is attached to the United States legation in Stockholm. They met in that city, where Maj. Wood has been serving as assistant military attaché, and it was there that their marriage took place in the Church of England.

Other Weddings.

St. Chrysostom's church will be the scene of the marriage at 4:30 p. m. today of Miss Dorothy Evelyn Robbins, daughter of Prof. and Mrs. Edwin C. Robbins of Cambridge, Mass., to Pvt. Richard Davis McKinsey, son of Mrs. James O. McKinsey of Lake Shore dr. The bride's mother has come from the east for the ceremony and reception to follow in the Lake Shore Drive hotel. Miss Robbins will be attended by Mrs. Robert McKinsey, whose husband, Pvt. McKinsey, will be best man for his twin brother. Pvt. McKinsey and his bride will live in Joplin, Mo.

The marriage of Miss Martha Woolf to Flight Officer John Fordham Boyle, son of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Boyle of Summit, N. J., will take place at 4:30 p. m. today in the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James D. Woolf of Winnetka. Miss Margaret Woolf will be her twin sister's maid of honor, and their brother, James, has come from Cincinnati, O., to serve as best man.

At 5 p. m. today in SS. Faith, Hope, and Charity church, Winnetka, Miss Eleanor Hoesli, daughter of the John P. Hoeslis of Winnetka, will be married to George F. Crikelair, son of Dr. and Mrs. Frank L. Crikelair of Green Bay, Wis. The attendants will include the bride's sister, 2d class Petty Officer Elizabeth Hoesli of the SPARS.

Here and There.

The college classmates who have come from the east to visit Miss Marion Carry and Miss Anne Porter won't have a free minute over the week-end, with the gay schedule which has been planned for them by friends of their hostesses. Tonight Miss Carry is entertaining at cocktails in the home of her parents, the Champ Carrys, before taking her guests and Miss Porter's to a dinner-dance at the Onwentsia club. Sharing in the fun will be Miss Carry's Sarah Lawrence classmates, Miss Margaret Haskell of Red Bank, N. J., Miss Mickie Virden of Cleveland, O., and Miss Jean McIntire of Englewood, N. J., and two of Miss Porter's friends from Vassar college, Miss Nancy Peterson and Miss Isabelle Harvey of Baltimore, Md.

Tomorrow Miss Porter is giving a luncheon at the Onwentsia, and in the evening Miss Jean Scharin and Miss Lucia Winston will be hostesses at a large barbecue supper. Miss Carry's visitors will be the special guests at a luncheon which Mrs. Thomas A. Connors is giving Monday. The young group will gather at the Onwentsia again Tuesday for a round-robin tennis tournament and luncheon which Mrs. Francis Peabody Butler is planning for her niece, Miss Andrea Hunter, who is here from St. Paul, Minn.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald B. Douglas will entertain at tonight's dinner dance at the Onwentsia for their week-end house guests, Col. and Mrs. Harold Talbot of Dayton, O. Tomorrow Mr. and Mrs. Thomas A. Connors are giving a luncheon in Lake Forest for the visitors.

Since Ensign John Robert Eshbach will not arrive on the north shore until Tuesday, the day of his marriage to Miss Barbara Whitehouse, their bridal dinner is being postponed until that night following the 5 p. m. ceremony in Christ church, Winnetka. Today the daughter of the Horace Whitehouses of Evanston is being entertained at a luncheon at the Homestead in Evanston by Miss Lindley Parker, fiancée of Ensign Whitehouse Jr., who is on duty with the navy in the Pacific. Tomorrow Mrs. Arthur Weston is giving a dinner party in the home of her parents, the Cyril Thompsons of Evanston. Already this week the bride has been entertained by Miss Jane Affleck and by Mrs. Grant Anderson and her mother, Mrs. Hal Wheeler.

News of Births.

Dr. and Mrs. Arthur Reed Hogue [Elizabeth Steinbrecher] of Hanover, Ind., are being congratulated on the birth of a son, David Barclay, July 20. The baby is the grandson of Mrs. Paul Steinbrecher and the late Mr. Steinbrecher of Chicago. Dr. Hogue is head of the history and political science department at Hanover college.

Also receiving congratulations on the birth of their first child are Mr. and Mrs. David Sharpless Fox [Mary Josephine Kelly] who became the parents of a daughter, Stephanie, Tuesday at Lying-in hospital. The baby is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Sharpless Fox of Dorchester av. Young Mr. Fox is studying medicine at the University of Chicago in a naval reserve training program.

Lt. [j. g.] and Mrs. John Graham Patterson [Elizabeth Archer] became the parents of their second son, James D'Wolf, named for his maternal grandfather, James D'Wolf Archer, July 23 in the Evanston hospital. Mrs. Patterson is living in Evanston with Mr. and Mrs. Archer while Lt. Patterson, son of the Graham C. Pattersons of Ardmore, Pa., formerly of Evanston, is at sea. The Pattersons have a daughter, Prudence.

Scientist Tells New Volcano's Fiery Progress

How a stream of red hot lava buried parts of a once populous town to a depth of 15 feet was described yesterday by Paul O. McGrew, Chicago Natural History [formerly Field] museum paleontologist and geologist. He has just returned from an expedition to El Paricutin, volcano in the southern Mexican state of Michoacan, which was born suddenly in the midst of a cornfield Feb. 20, 1943, and has now reached a height of more than 1,200 feet.

He said that the lava flowed only a few feet an hour, but that its progress was so relentless and its heat so great [as much as 1945 degrees Fahrenheit] that everything in its path was destroyed. The village which he saw in progress of obliteration once held 2,500 persons.

The noise of the erupting volcano was like thunder, he recalled, but even more terrifying. There were spectacular displays both by night and by day as the mountain spewed up fire, and gases, and rock which had been melted in the incredible heat of the interior.

Asked whether the new volcano would grow to the size of Vesuvius or other well known volcanic peaks, Dr. McGrew said that he thought not. There are hundreds of extinct volcanoes of approximately the present size of Paricutin, he explained, and there is no reason to believe that the life cycle of the new cone would be greatly different.

Dr. McGrew's expedition, the first that the museum has sponsored since Pearl Harbor, was made necessary by the fact that certain scientific data on the early stages of volcanoes, and specimens of their eruptions, had to be collected now or never.

Thru the Looking Glass

We hate to see so many of the very young girls who are suddenly out of school and in industry—and therefore suddenly conscious of beauty and its acquisition — going along on the theory that beauty is divorced completely from health. To them, the new life is a pleasant orgy of lipsticks and perfumes and hairdos; they simply don't know that health is the basis of good looks and cosmetics and coiffure merely the externals.

We wish their mothers would caution them about bad eating habits. The cup-of-coffee-and-a-cigaret breakfast, in which so many of them indulge, will bring about a disrepair of beauty that no cosmetics can correct. Three good meals a day, and balanced meals at that, remain terribly important to health and therefore to beauty. Eating between meals, drinking oceans of soft drinks instead of eating regularly, skipping vegetables and fruits—these are not the habits on which beauty can be built or maintained.

This goes for sleep, too. It's easy for youths to "get by" on less sleep than they should have, and these youngsters are too young to know that "getting by" just isn't enough. Late hours take a toll of good looks, and they take it fast. What's more, the cumulative effect of insufficient rest and insufficient nourishment is damage that can't be undone. Health is injured basically by such neglect and in time — which youth thinks moves much more slowly than it actually does—skin, hair, eyes, and figure reflect this injury inevitably.

Today's young girl, earning her first salary, is buying beauty aids madly; what she doesn't understand is that health is the first prop, the aids the second in importance. Cosmetics are grand, but sleep, good food, and exercise are the real guardians of good looks.

Girdles Lack Rubber, Yet Have Comfort

BY REA SEEGER.

Summer girdles, like winter models, lack desired rubber content. The panels are much narrower, and there's less elasticity, tho the present assortment of cotton and rayon washables is streamlined for comfort plus neatness. You still can find black, flesh, and white, blending shades for summer dresses, suits, and costumes of solid color or prints.

Every dress, no matter what the silhouette, needs a good control and that means a well fitted girdle. Gathered skirts have form fitted wide belts, but gored skirts and princess line dresses look bunchy, bulky, and far from sleek if the underlayer doesn't fit.

Summer models are washable and equal to the routine of a weekly dunking. The colors stay fresh and true, the original lines stay because of the processing that makes the materials nonshrinkable. And what's used in place of the prewar elasticized panels survives both tubbing and daily wear with surprising resistance.

Anne Brown's Voice Pleases at Grant Park

BY CLAUDIA CASSIDY.

Legend has it that when George Gershwin set the play "Porgy" to music he amplified the title to "Porgy and Bess" in honor of Anne Brown's performance. Yet when the vividly attractive Negro soprano made her début at Grant park last night she chose to sing, not Bess' music, but the poignant songs of Serena, created by the late Ruby Elzy—the lazily lovely "Summertime" and that anguished cry of desolation, "My Man's Gone Now."

Her voice is rich and full, with an emotional undertow that darkens its timbre to a somberly individual color you won't easily forget once you have heard it. It was a voice that understood the spirit tho not always the style of "Pleurez, pleurez, mes yeux," from Massenet's "Le Cid," which opened her performance with George Dasch and the Grant Park Symphony orchestra, and that had the sparkle tho it lacked the finesse for Manon's gavotte.

In the older days of Gershwin's folk opera, it was a superb voice for Bess, the Carmen of Catfish Row, but it was difficult to tell last night just how well it suited that hymn to a summer's day or that spine chilling keening at time of death. Miss Brown was singing in a high wind on a cold night, and to an accompaniment that was diligence itself, but miles from the heart of Gershwin. She did a good job, under the circumstances, but I doubt that it satisfied her own standard. She stuck to Gershwin for an encore, tho, singing "The Man I Love," the song that went to fame despite being dropped from two musical shows because audiences didn't respond to it.

Mr. Dasch opened his own part of the concert with Wolf-Ferrari's overture to "The Secret of Suzanne," which projected enough of its scampering gaiety to be good open air listening, then turned to Kalinnikoff's First symphony, which was a bit fragmentary in the high wind, but had moments of full throated melody that found their way over the amplifiers. After intermission, he revived an innocuous "Woodland" suite by MacDowell.

Methodists Confer on 25 Million Fund for Post-War Aid

The Methodist church plans to raise 25 million dollars before March 4, 1945, for world-wide post-war relief and reconstruction thru "the Crusade for Christ," as ordered by the general conference earlier this year. The crusade committee met yesterday in the Chicago temple to coördinate this effort.

Addressing 200 bishops, ministers, and laymen of the continuing committee, Bishop Paul B. Kern, resident bishop of the Nashville, Tenn., area, said Methodists would find themselves "discredited and discarded" if they stood by seemingly indifferent while the secular world made post-war plans.

The principal objectives of the Crusade for Christ are to arouse the Christian conscience of America to express its convictions while peace is yet in the making, take steps toward reëstablishing war devastated areas, stimulate evangelism, emphasize Christian stewardship, and increase enrollments in church schools.

Women in War Work

By Dorothy Johnson

Eight Chicago WAVES assigned to the naval air primary training command headquarters, newly established at the United States naval air station, Glenview, will be among the women reservists saluted tomorrow, the 2nd anniversary of the women's branch of naval service.

Yeoman 3d Class Jeanne M. Schmehil, 2418 Linden av.; Beverly J. Kellett, 6842 Calumet av.; Helen Miller, 1522 Rosemont av., and Adeline P. Schuster, 5424 Ellis av.; Seaman 1st Class June M. Graham, 5656 Bishop st.; Seaman 2d Class Lucille Williams, 2600 N. Hoyne av.; Yeoman 3d Class Emily Ann Lata, 317 S. 28th av., Bellwood, and Yeoman 3d Class Jean H. Ward, 533 Park blvd., Glen Ellyn, have participated in the navy's fifth war loan campaign to purchase two motor torpedo [PT] boats as an observance of the WAVES' anniversay.

Twelve other WAVES attached to the activity also will be honored at the celebration because they were among the first enlisted women assigned to the primary air training command late in 1942 and have served continuously within it since that time. Until recently, the command had national headquarters in Kansas City, Kas.

Lt. Miriam Shelden, women's reserve representative for the command and a private pilot in her own right, heads the WAVES stationed with the activity. She is director of the women's reserve on the staff of Rear Adm. O. B. Hardison, chief of naval air primary training. Since April 3, 1943, when she took over the duty, she has seen the number of WAVES multiply ten-fold within the command.

A total of 129 training units situated thruout the United States, at which navy, marine corps, and Coast Guard personnel receive instruction, comprises the command, which originally consisted of only a score of naval air stations and pre-flight schools.

Lt. Shelden's duties require that she travel extensively to various units to see that proper facilities are provided for WAVES and that suitable opportunities exist for their recreation and welfare. She works thru a senior WAVE officer at each unit, the latter, in turn, keeping in touch with the women themselves.

"In our command," Lt. Sheiden said, "the young women have taken over highly specialized jobs, thus permitting the release of men specialists for duty with air units of the fleet." Women assigned to the command now tear down, overhaul, and assemble navy training craft along with men doing the same jobs.

Mrs. Henrietta Schmoeger of La Salle, who has five sons in the navy, yesterday was awarded the state war man power commission's certificate of merit. It was conferred by State WMC Director Charles P. Casey. Mrs. Schmoeger assembles condensers for the Electrical Utilities company of La Salle, which makes parts for B-29 bombers.

Girls Should Select Career They Will Like

[Copyright: 1944: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Many girls and women feel that their life work is wifehood and motherhood, which includes the important job of homemaking. The girls who have to earn money don't think of the means as a life work. Nevertheless, the problem of what a daughter should do when school is finished is an extremely important one, and should be regulated by her individual tastes and abilities just as much as should a boy's.

In the first place, most parents feel that even if marriage is likely and is to be desired for their daughter above everything else, she should be able to support herself whether there is need for it or not. Their tendency is to influence her toward the steady and more remunerative or more conservative choice of work or profession. Which is all, I suppose, perfectly natural and practical.

For example, years ago teaching used to be the first thought of parents who wanted their girls fitted to earn their own livelihood. Respected, steady, womanly, it loomed above all other means of income. With what result? With the result that many women then and many women even now are plodding away in monotony and active distaste at work which should be undertaken only with the highest enthusiasm, skill, and devotion. Thousands of these girls and women who are teaching would receive happiness and fulfillment in other lines of work.

Happily, women's fields have now expanded tremendously. But few parents are daring enough or individual enough to allow their daughters to choose their own field of work, especially if it happens to be a field in which the financial returns are not so certain or steady.

Whether your girl is going to work just to earn money while she marks time before marriage, or is to earn it at an honored profession, or really desires a career, do encourage her to do the thing she likes best and is best fitted for. Provided she earns a living wage, as we say, the money is not the most important thing. Liking or fitness comes first. For to mark time, to watch the clock all thru a working day, and to really only live in one's leisure is a deadening thing, but an unfortunate state of affairs which exists in many more instances than does the reverse.

White Collar GIRL

Vivian's Vacation.

I decided to be an outdoor girl if it killed me. Besides it was all going to be so simple and such FUN. What difference that the closest I'd been to a horse was the space between the rail and the track at Arlington?

"This is Chubby," they said, "the horse you're going to ride."

"Hi yah, Chubby," I said with a gayety I did not feel.

"Now, just put your left foot in here and then swing your right foot over the saddle." [Or maybe it's the other way around. At this point, who cares?] Anyway, after six tries I'm sitting on Chubby's back.

Yes. Yes, of course, the reins. Where are the reins? Could I be sitting on them?

O, jolly. This is FUN. Sitting here in the blazing sun on this obstinate, unreasonable beast. It isn't as tho I were unwilling to cooperate. Just what are your plans, Chubby? What are you doing down there?"

Taken for a Ride.

He's decided to have a little snack. He's eating grass. "Haven't a ham sandwich on you, have you, chum?"

Wonder what's happened to my friends? Friends I call them! Off they gallop leaving me here to sit and brood. O joy! Here they come back. What fun they're having! I love to see people have FUN! Does that mean it's over? Can I get off now? I didn't think so. We're still standing here, Chubby and I. Wait, I'll just give him a little tap to see if he's still alive.

"Hey, take it easy, Chubby! Hey! Wait for baby! Stop! STOP! Somebody stop this animal. He's stir-crazy! Stop! STOP!"

We must have covered 10 miles in the last two minutes. They're all yelling at me.

"No need to go so fast!" NOW they tell me.

Another Little Snack.

Never mind yelling at me. We're stopping. But what for? I thought Chubby was in a hurry to get some place. O, I get the idea. He's hungry again. He was just working up an appetite.

Ah! Here are my little playmates. They were worried about me, bless 'em. "Listen, you . . ."

"Now, let me give you a few pointers . . ."

I do not wish to hear any pointers. Especially I do not wish to hear the one about "making the horse realize who's master." It's a worthless theory and I do not care to discuss it. I wish to get off this horse. I wish to go back to the city. I wish to get on a crowded bus and stand up all the way and breath nice dirty, smoky, city air!

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., July 28.—Bob Benchley is the only one set for "Week-end at the Waldorf," altho it's pretty certain Lana Turner will be in it. Don't be surprised if it also takes on Greta Garbo. Her part would be that of a picture star sent to New York to attend her first première, so you can see the comedy possibility. To me her best screen performance was in "Ninotchka." The Spewaks finish the script in two weeks, then Sam returns to the OWI in Washington, D. C. . . . In spite of everything, Niven Busch still wants Veronica Lake for "Duel in the Sun." . . . Barbara Stanwyck is off to New Orleans to join her favorite lieutenant, Bob Taylor. . . . Linda Darnell will follow husband, Pev Marley, to Warners for "San Antonio."

The Old S. A. Never Fails.

Girls around M-G-M are wearing a glint in their eye over Ezio Pinza. They've named him the Gable of the Metropolitan, and Arthur Freed is trying to make a place for him on the screen. . . . I wonder why Twentieth Century tried to make Carmen Miranda, who is so distinctive as Miranda, look like Betty Grable in "Greenwich Village." . . . Florence George, under name of Karen Guthrie, sings with Jimmy Melton on Sunday—Guthrie having been her name before she changed it to Crosby. . . . Ruth Lewis, who's one of the Ziegfeld girls in "Ziegfeld Follies," goes directly from Metro to Twentieth to play in "Diamond Horseshoe." Keep your eye on Ruth. . . . Tommy Gomez, the plump one, plays the richest man in California in Deanna Durbin's "Can't Help Singing." . . . Katharine Hepburn's tennis form is perfect at Beverly Hills hotel these early mornings. . . . Oh, la, la! Would you ever expect Pola Negri to be hiding at Rudolph Valentino's former home, the Falcon's Lair?

Signed for Life—Or So It Seems.

Jack Chertok, producing "The Corn Is Green" with Bette Davis, will also do her next, "Stolen Life," and would like her for Ellen Berlin's story, "Land I Have Chosen." Incidentally, he's doing a rave about little Joan Lorring who was discovered on Showcase. Valentina, who dresses Gladys Swarthout, Grace Moore, Gloria Swanson, and Valentina, will be given the works by Clifton Webb and Mable Sunday. . . . A pat on the back to George Sydney, who took an ad showing a picture and naming his whole crew who worked with him on "Bathing Beauty." . . . Producer Sid Skolsky declares that Producer Al Jolson will not act in "Jolson." Then why do it? . . . 'Twas announced that one of the Wilde Twins was about to become a mother, but they gave the name of the wrong twin. The one who's having the baby has been secretly married for 10 months. . . . It's John Hodiak and Anne Baxter. He switched from Lana Turner so fast you'd think he had a motorcycle.

A Step in the Right Direction.

Al Pearce believes talented amateurs who're entertaining our troops in the camp shows will be stars of tomorrow. They're sent out with seasoned performers to round out the shows. Sometimes they're better than the stars. So Pearce has made arrangements with his boss, Herb Yates of Republic, to give six of them an opportunity in "Strictly for Laughs" which gets under way in September. . . . Howard Da Silva, of New York's "Oklahoma!" is so good in "Two Years Before the Mast," Paramount's given him a long term contract. . . . Louis Armstrong joins Ida Lupino's "Pillar to Post" picture, with Dorothy Dandridge also set. Dorothy's a definite threat to Lena Horne.

Instruction in Health for Civilians Is Post-War Need, Altrusans Told

Intelligent instruction of civilians in health was stressed as an important factor in war and post-war planning at a symposium held yesterday by the executive committee of Altrusa International. Leaders of the professional and business women's organization are meeting in the Edgewater Beach hotel in a three day conference.

Dr. Carroll Birch, associate professor of the University of Illinois college of medicine, recommended that Altrusans undertake to assist in stamping out growing hysteria, which she said is prevalent among the uninformed, concerning the spread of rare tropical diseases in this country by returning service men and women. She explained the "menace" to be negligible, due to immunizations and modern methods of combating the diseases feared.

In a discussion of the work of welfare agencies and war time youth problems, Miss Jessie F. Binford, executive director of the Juvenile Protective association, urged insistence upon school attendance as a practical and effective means of combating juvenile delinquency. Walter B. Schleiter, regional manager of the 7th federal reserve district of the committee on economic development, discussed means of retaining a high level of employment after the war.

Recommendations looking toward Altrusa's role in furthering international understanding were approved by the officers. The organization's 200 member clubs will be asked to consider the establishment of loan funds for setting up projects similar to an international house and bi-lingual institute which the San Juan chapter in Puerto Rico is planning, and to be prepared to lend assistance to travel bureaus after the war.

Servant Search Theme for Gay Movie Comedy

"MAKE YOUR OWN BED."

A Warner Brothers picture, directed by Peter Godfrey, starring Jack Carson, and presented at the Garrick.

Good Morning!

This is another "servant, servant, who has a servant?" number and a comedy greatly enjoyed by all patrons of the theater at the time I was there. Everybody loves Jack Carson, anyhow, anywhere, any time, and in this one he has chances to be both laughable and lovable.

He's Jerry Curtis, engaged to pretty Susan Courtney, so the story runs, and just about to become a benedict when he meets Walter Whirtle [Alan Hale], gunpowder manufacturer, whose wife [Irene Manning] has dared him to go out and find servants for their servantless household. . . . Mistaking Jerry and Susan as husband and wife, Whirtle hires them for "couple" service, using as snare a yarn in which he is a poor victim about to be sacrificed on an altar of murder, espionage, and outraged love.

He doesn't wot that the espionage angle is the truth. Unwittingly Jerry gets hep and proves himself a hero. A great deal of dissa and datta occurs before the happy ending, which has a gayly ironical twist.

Acting is all strictly tops and the director made the most — and that was considerable — of his material.

See you tomorrow.

Dr. Harold Ehrensperger, editor of the Methodist student magazine, Motive, will be principal speaker, and the Rev. A. W. Painter of the University of Chicago will conduct the vesper services.

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 heart	Pass	1 spade	Pass
1 no trump	Pass	2 clubs	Pass
3 spades	Pass	Pass	Pass

South made five odd without being forced even to finesse, which made the contract for only two odd look pretty silly!

"Why didn't you raise my clubs or give me a jump preference in spades?" South complained bitterly across the table. "I showed you a strong hand."

"How?" North asked laconically.

"Well, first I bid a spade, and then I said two clubs. I had to have something for two bids."

"Sure," North snapped. "Spades and clubs! What would you have bid with five spades to the queen-jack and five clubs to the 10? Exactly what you did bid!"

North had something there. The fact that South had not left in the one no trump call meant virtually nothing except that he didn't like no trump—as he wouldn't have with two weak suits. His actual holding was anything but weak, so when North gave a mere preference for the major suit [the strongest bid his hand warranted], South unquestionably should have urged a game by going on to three spades. North, of course, would have accepted an unmistakable invitation of that sort.

STUDENT NURSES END COURSE ON MIND AILMENTS

Certificates Awarded 20 from Six Hospitals.

Twenty student nurses from six hospitals in the Chicago area, who completed a three months special course in mental and nervous diseases at the Illinois Neuropsychiatric institute, 912 S. Wood st., were awarded certificates yesterday by Dr. Harry R. Hoffman, executive officer of the institution. The student nurses will return to their own hospitals to continue their training.

Members of the class were described as "modern nurses" by Dr. Eric Oldberg, head of the department of neurology of the University of Illinois. He explained that special training in mental and nervous diseases was a new development and yet comparatively limited.

Warns It Will Be Big Field.

He stressed the fact that under the strain which modern war sometimes imposes, any man, even the strongest, may suffer mental or nervous injury. "This will be the big field for modern nurses," he warned.

Lt. Col. C. Park Richardson, chief of neuropsychiatry at Gardiner General hospital, expressed the belief that with adequate care most men given neuropsychiatric discharges would be able to take up occupations the same as or similar to those followed in civilian life.

"In view of the great number of psychiatric casualties from the war and the fact there are not enough nurses with this type of experience to meet the need, your time at the Illinois Neuropsychiatric institute has been well spent," Lt. Col. Richardson told the class.

Students receiving certificates and their respective schools were: Ruth Elizabeth Burrows, Mrs. Marian Lindsay Cropsey, Amy Engel, Mrs. Marian S. Nyboer, Mrs. Mildred Lollar Sponsel, and Sarah G. Zimmerman of Presbyterian hospital.

Evelyn Baxter, Ethel M. Campbell, Lorraine A. Sikora, and Ann Margaret Turkal of Henrotin hospital; Ella Elizabeth Saari and Mary Alice Watring, Victory-Memorial hospital, Waukegan; Beatrice M. Haugsby, Thelma Juanita Mauney, Mary Thorpe Mitchell, and Marion L. Zehner, Franklin Boulevard hospital; Marie Elizabeth Daniels and Marvelle Louise Daniels, Oak Park hospital, and Rachael Johnson and Jeannette Zuehlke, Swedish-American hospital, Rockford.

Army Student in Chinese Wins U. of C. Scholarship

Terry B. Gordon, 24, born in England, yesterday received a $300 postwar scholarship at the University of Chicago as top ranking student in Chinese after a 48 week course in the army specialized training program. The award was made by Maj. Herman E. Smith, commandant, at a special graduating convocation in Rockefeller Memorial chapel for 20 students in Chinese and 52 pre-professional students in medicine and dentistry.

"Darling, we should have been here earlier for my train. It leaves only an hour and a half from now!"

RAILROAD TAKES JAP-AMERICANS OFF TRACK JOBS

J. L. Beven, president of the railroad, said the action was taken at the request of the army, which asked that the men be taken out of service until their records can be investigated by the war department.

"As soon as the check is completed," Beven said, "the Illinois Central doubtless will be requested by the appropriate government agency to put back to work those men whose records are found to be satisfactory. If so, they are entitled to such employment."

Beven said that the war relocation authority requested the railroad to use the Japanese-Americans because of a shortage of track and other workers at the company's Chicago terminal.

Frank L. Noakes, general chairman of the Illinois Central units of the AFL Brotherhood of Maintenance of Way employes, asserted that the union will continue its fight against employment of Japanese-Americans or war prisoners on the railroad for the duration of the war.

CIO Steel Workers Stage Brief WLB Protest Strike

Six hundred workers went on strike yesterday morning for several hours at the American Steel Foundries company's plant at Hammond, Ind., to protest the war labor board's delay in making a decision on their request for a wage increase. The strikers are members of the United Steelworkers' union [CIO]. They were persuaded to return to work by Lester Thornton, sub-regional director of the CIO union.

FOUNDRY BALKS AT WLB RULING FOR CHECK-OFF

The Western Foundry company, 3634 S. Kedzie av., where 20 work stoppages have occurred in the last two years, does not intend to comply with a war labor board decision granting maintenance of membership and dues check-off to 400 striking members of the CIO United Steel Workers union.

James Sprowl, counsel for the company, informed the WLB of the company's decision yesterday at a hearing in Washington, where union representatives said a strike which began at the plant Monday was being called off.

The Chicago regional board had issued the maintenance membership order last September and the national board had denied a review in March. The latest strike occurred Monday when 400 men walked out in an attempt to obtain an increased wage incentive for two of their group.

When Dexter Keezler, public member of the board, asked whether the company intended to defy the order, Sprowl said: "I don't like the word defy. We don't intend to comply."

YEAR SENTENCE FOR MOTHER WHO STARVED GIRL, 8

San Francisco, Cal., July 28 (AP).—Mrs. Louise Flack, 28, convicted of manslaughter with a recommendation of mercy in the starvation death of her paralytic daughter, 8, was sentenced today to one year in the county jail and five years' probation. The child's body was found in its crib March 29 and was presumed to have died shortly after Christmas. Mrs. Flack was arrested a few days later in Iola, Kas., where she had gone to visit relatives.

RESCUED BY BART.

At 3:40 Jed eased the throttles back and the boat slowed down, barely idling across the water. He stepped out of the bridge, knocked the straps from the torpedoes, set them for a depth of 10 feet, and made them ready for firing. When he stepped back into the bridge, he and St. John peered toward the land they could not see. Ahead, and slightly to port, was a triangle of three tiny lights. Jed opened the throttles a fraction and the boat moved forward at quarter speed. They were about four miles from land.

The three lights flickered and then they seemed to go out. Jed strained his eyes and at last made out a dark shape dead ahead, between themselves and the shore lights.

St. John asked nervously, "The submarine?"

Jed replied, "I don't know. Listen."

They leaned forward over the small bridge and then their ears picked up the sound of a large shape moving slowly thru the water and the low thrum of powerful engines turning at slow speed. Jed's frown gave way to a wild stare and his hand shot to the throttles.

"That's the destroyer! They must have spotted the lights at the cove and come down to investigate."

Jed rammed open the throttles just as a small orange glow appeared ahead and then became a blinding light squarely in their faces. A heavy machine gun aboard the destroyer burst into life, like the tearing of sail-cloth. The bullets ricocheted across the water and ripped into the small wooden hull with sledge hammer blows.

Jed and St. John glanced at each other, the bullets spraying into the hull and flying slivers cutting their faces and arms. Jed nodded and the two men dove out of the bridge to the torpedoes. The releases were pulled simultaneously, there was a sharp hiss of compressed air and the deadly fish plopped into the water. The internal engines started to work, the propellers spun furiously in the water and then the torpedoes were gone in bubbling, parallel streaks of phosphorus.

Jed was twice knocked from his feet, but managed to crawl back to the open bridge. The Englishman, tho, turned to shout his defiance at the destroyer and was caught squarely in a stream of pom-pom bullets. He fell across the narrow deck and slid into the water.

The bow of the destroyer was almost turned toward him, when there was a great, blinding flash on the starboard side of the racing hull and the whole boat seemed to lift out of the water. When it settled, there was another great flash and roar as the second torpedo hit home. The sharp beam of white light faded to an orange glow and disappeared altogether. The engines of the destroyer were silent, but the night was filled with the cries and shouts of the Japanese.

Jed stood there watching the sinking destroyer, his mind too numb to grasp what had happened. He stared at it until the superstructure had disappeared and then turned away.

The black shape of the submarine slid out of the night and scraped against the port side of the smashed patrol boat. Jed looked around and stared into the small flashlight beam directed at him from the top of the conning tower. He made no move.

A black shape detached itself from the base of the conning tower and stepped aboard the patrol boat. Bart's soft voice was almost like a caress. "Come with me, sir. I'll help you."

Jed stumbled across the boat and then his knees began to buckle. Bart picked him up in his arms like a child and jumped across to the hull of the submarine. Jed made Bart put him back on his feet and they started toward a round, steel hatch. Jed paused a moment to look north. The flames of the burning base lighted the sky. "A fair show," he mumbled. "Very fair."

The steel hatch closed over their heads and was secured by two seamen. The submarine's engines immediately began to purr with life and the craft moved over the black waters of the gulf. Jed stepped from the steel ladder to face the assemblage gathered in the control room. Tom Riddell was anxiously watching Jed. Jed smiled. He had said he would not return. Now he was back and Riddell was already worried about Ellen.

She was standing near Riddell, but looking toward the commander of the submarine, a speculative light in her eyes. Jed glanced at him, a young man as straight as a ramrod, with steel blue eyes, a square and purposeful chin. He was appraising Ellen's startling beauty from the corners of his eyes. Jed's smile deepened.

He faced Mae Nolan. She was standing apart from the others, her hands tightly clenched at her sides. Her green eyes were wide, frightened with the sight of his torn and ripped clothes and the blood that covered him. She moved toward him, then paused indecisively and turned away.

Jed said, "Well, Banning, I guess it's your show from now on. This crew is Vichy-French?"

Banning nodded pleasantly, enjoying the situation to the full. He said, "They're in my pay, if that's what you mean. I'm giving the orders from now on, captain. No objections?"

"I may have—later."

Banning chuckled. "Very brave of you, and equally foolish. There won't be a later for you, Capt. Reed." He jerked his head toward the young Frenchman at his side and said, "Comdr. Loring is taking us to a safe little island in the lower Pacific, of no interest to either side in this war. I don't say I would not enjoy your company on that island, captain, but I am afraid you would be a troublemaker."

"So?"

Banning's chuckle died and his thin lips tightened. "So you will be put off in a little rubber boat before we reach there." He added, as an afterthought, "It is possible you may find some more Japs to fight."

Jed nodded, but it took all of his strength. He felt himself sinking, fast. Bart held him by one arm and suddenly the commander stepped to his side and took the other. He barked an order in French and four members of the crew gently raised Jed in their arms and started carrying him thru a narrow steel doorway. The last thing Jed saw was Banning's mocking smile.

He remembered little after that, except the sharp probing of cold steel, the white heat of antiseptics, cooling salves and disconnected snatches of conversation buzzing about his head.

Three days before he regained full consciousness, he felt a wild excitement running thru the boat. There was a radio blaring loudly, footsteps running up and down the steel corridors. Words hung in the air about him and his mind struggled to pick them out: "Casablanca," "Morocco," "Darlan says . . ." ". . . at Toulon . . ." "Gen. Eisenhower," and "invasion." They meant nothing to Jed and he sank back into a coma.

MOTHER TELLS PLEDGES OF AID IN KENT INQUIRY

Washington, D. C., July 28 [Special].—Mrs. A. H. P. Kent declared today she has been assured by several members of congress, both Democrats and Republicans, that they will urge a full investigation into the imprisonment in Britain of her son, Tyler Kent, who was a clerk in the American embassy in London.

First public information concerning accusations against Kent, whom the English have detained for four years, came recently from John McGovern, Independent Laborite member of parliament.

McGovern said in the house of commons during a debate on June 17 that he had been told repeatedly that the American code clerk intercepted copies of communications between Winston Churchill and President Roosevelt which assertedly disclosed a pre-war deal to pledge American aid to Britain.

Facts Shrouded in Mystery.

Mrs. Kent, a resident of Washington, D. C., said she is convinced her son was railroaded into prison to conceal the alleged behind the scenes dickering between Roosevelt and Churchill which would not have been tolerated by either the British or American people.

She said her efforts to determine the facts of her son's case have been thwarted officially and that mail from him in prison has brought her only meager details. A state department official told her privately, she said, that her son had done nothing reprehensible, "he just went at things the wrong way."

Mrs. Kent disclosed she is preparing a memorial to members of congress asking that her son be cleared in the name of the United States so he may become eligible for enlistment in the United States army.

Included in the material she will give congressmen, she said, will be detailed evidence that her son was working solely in the interest of his own government in 1939 and 1940 when he allegedly divulged the contents of secret diplomatic messages. Declaring that her son was "fearlessly patriotic," she said she is convinced that no more than "some simple irregularity" was involved.

Congressmen Interested.

It is known that Senators Wheeler [D., Mont.] and Shipstead [R., Minn.] and Representatives Hoffman [R., Mich.] and McGehee [D., Miss.] are interested in the Kent case.

Kent, now 33, was tried in a British secret court and sentenced to a prison term of seven years on a charge of disclosing embassy secrets. Altho he was an American citizen of diplomatic status, the state department waived diplomatic immunity for him.

In the house of commons debate, McGovern said he was informed the diplomatic bag, from which Kent allegedly took copies of letters, was being used by Churchill and Roosevelt to solicit and make promises concerning America's entry into the war. Churchill, at the time, was first lord of the admiralty, and was "going behind the back of his prime minister," Neville Chamberlain, in carrying out the pre-Pearl Harbor deal, McGovern said he was told.

Keen-Eyed Girl Lookouts Watch Wyoming Forests

Laramie, Wyo., July 28 (AP).—Five girls are watching over the timber of southern Wyoming's Medicine Bow national forest, and Supervisor C. G. Averill reports they are doing a good job. Girl lookouts proved so sharp eyed last year that this season the entire lookout staff is women.

WILDCAT STRIKE BY CIO AT GARY WAR PLANT ENDS

Striking employes of the Standard Steel Spring company, 2600 E. 5th av., Gary, Ind., returned to work yesterday after appeals by Joseph Goin, subdistrict director of the CIO United Steel Workers union, and Lt. Carl E. Bowers, head of the 6th service command labor branch.

More than 300 employes of the company, which manufactures war materials, went on a "wildcat" strike Thursday in protest over delays in a grievance committee appeal in behalf of Charles Whitlow, a clip press operator and former president of local 2143 of the CIO union, who was dismissed on July 9.

ALABAMA CASE TESTS WLB AND STATE POWERS

Birmingham, Ala., July 28 (AP).—Authority of the national war labor board to supersede state law was challenged in an Alabama court today with the prosecution of a plant superintendent who suspended a worker for nonpayment of union dues.

State Labor Director Emmett Brooks said Clem S. Walters Jr., superintendent of the Ingalls Iron Works company, was charged with violating the state's Bradford act guaranteeing "complete freedom" in joining, or not joining, a labor union.

Worker Complains.

The complaint was filed by Clifford Jenkins, an iron worker, who contended he was suspended for nonpayment of union dues under a maintenance of membership agreement validated by the 4th regional war labor board.

As the case is regarded as a test of WLB and state powers, an eventual appeal to the United States Supreme court appeared certain.

An Ingalls company spokesman said the firm faced the dilemma of violating either the WLB order or the Alabama law, since approximately 200 other workers—about one-third the plant force—were due for similar suspension.

"Mandate of WLB."

A spokesman for the International Association of Bridge, Structural, and Ornamental Iron Workers [AFL] insisted that suspensions were "merely carrying out the mandate of the WLB." He denied they violated the state's law.

SHORTAGE OF TIRES WON'T END IN 1944, DEALERS ARE TOLD

Tires will remain scarce for private automobiles and trucks until the middle of next year, principally because of the shortage of labor and machinery required to make new ones, Jack Hennessy of Washington, D. C., sales manager for the National Association of Independent Tire Dealers, said last night at a meeting of Illinois members of the association in Hotel Sherman.

"Car owners and truck operators are fooling themselves if they think they will get plenty of new tires in the fall," he said. "They should take good care of the tires they have and keep them recapped. The next six months will be the most critical period. This is indicated by the fact that the August quota already has been announced as 50 per cent less than the July quota for civilian use."

Hennessy said there is enough raw natural rubber and synthetic rubber in this country to make more tires than factories, which lack men and machines, are prepared to produce. About 100 dealers heard him. Norvel Trimborn, secretary of the Chicago Tire Dealers association, was chairman.

HAMMOND VOWS TO HELP CHICAGO FIGHT POLLUTION

The city of Hammond, Ind., which, like Chicago, draws its drinking water from Lake Michigan, yesterday pledged full coöperation with Chicago authorities in tracing the source of pollution in the south end of the lake.

The promise was given at a conference in Hammond attended by City Engineer W. W. DeBerard and City Water Purification Engineer John R. Baylis, from Chicago, and Joseph Haney, Leo Besozzi, and Albert Millard, members of the Hammond sanitary district board.

No sanitary sewage from Hammond is discharged into the lake and the city has taken every precaution to guard against lake pollution, it was said at the meeting. It was pointed out, however, that some problems have arisen from wastes from industrial plants dumped into the lake. East Chicago and Whiting, both on the Indiana shores of the lake, were suggested as possible sources of impurities in the lake water.

Cafe Man Too Busy to Lock Up $8,500; Bandits Get It

Theodore Karavidas, owner of a restaurant at 1163 Harrison st., was too busy yesterday to lock up $8,500 when it was delivered by an armored express company. Not long afterward two robbers entered, threatened Karavidas, his daughter, Helen, 15, and 11 customers. They fled with the money in an automobile driven by a third man. Karavidas intended to use the money to cash checks for customers.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The White Sox, proceeding nicely on the current upswing, beat the Washington Senators, 8 to 2, in Comiskey park yesterday, making it not only a sweep of the four game series just ended but leaving the Senators with not so much as one victory to show for their eight engagements here this summer.

The Sox got back to an even .500 in the American league standings, an eminence they had not enjoyed since early in their series of swoons on their last trip thru the east. Jim Dykes' proteges have won eight of their last 10 games and nine out of 13 since they reeled home from Detroit and points east on July 17.

Lopat Pitches, Hits Well.

Eddie Lopat pitched a stylish game as usual, and, by way of cheering change, not only was accorded errorless support afield but was given handsome batting assistance, some of which he supplied himself.

Chicago's power attack included Johnny Dickshot's decisive triple with the bases loaded, a homer and a double by Ralph Hodgin and a two run homer by Hal Trosky.

The Sox's clincher third inning came after the Senators had built up a 2 to 0 lead before the Chicagoans had a runner on base. The visitors made one run in the first inning and one in the first half of the third, their total for the day.

Mike Tresh touched off the big inning with a single over second and stopped at second on Skeeter Webb's single to center. Lopat made it three singles in a row off Wilf Lefebvre, starting and losing pitcher, but Tresh was thrown out at the plate by Stan Spence. LeRoy Schalk supplied the second out with a fly to Jake Powell, then Eddie Carnett was hit by a pitched ball, loading the bases.

Give Ed Good Margin.

It was at this juncture that Dickshot, Chicago's leading hitter, busted a 420 foot triple over Spence's head, scoring Webb, Lopat, and Carnett with just enough runs to win the ball game, as things turned out. Just to make it nice and easy for Lopat, who still has a lot of such business coming on the basis of early season betrayals, Hodgin scored Dickshot with his No. 1 homer.

Lopat, Schalk, and Carnett knocked successive singles off Alex Carrasquel for a run in the fourth inning and Hodgin's double and Trosky's homer sent Alex away with one down in the fifth. The lads didn't score off Milo Candini who took over after Trosky's smash.

The Sox reported themselves as nicely keyed for their seven game series with the cellar Philadelphia Athletics, which opens with a single game this afternoon. The series will include a double header tomorrow, a night game Monday, a single game Tuesday, and a double header Wednesday.

GUESS WHOSE DECISION STUCK!

Chipman Guides Cubs to 3d Straight Over Dodgers, 4-1

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Brooklyn, N. Y., July 28.—Charley Grimm's fifth place Cubs stepped out this afternoon with another of their anti-Dodger demonstrations, putting on their act so well that Leo Durocher's boys hardly had a chance to get up off the seats of their respective well worn pants. Guided by Bob Chipman, himself a recent Dodger graduate, who yielded only seven hits today, the Chicagoans breezily swept the three game series, 4 to 1, for their 10th success against three losses in their season's commerce with the league's current cellar loungers.

An additional alumni touch was added to the Dodgers' 24th trimming in 27 games by the presence of Curt Davis, a stray from the Cub fold. The old timer didn't do badly, at least not for six innings, during which he surrendered only four hits. But happily for Grimm, three of these four were clustered behind a pass for three runs in the fourth. The other run was an extra touch provided by Stan Hack in the ninth. He knocked the ball over the right field screen for his second 1944 homer.

Chipman's 7th Cub Victory.

Chipman, who now possess 10 victories, seven since escaping to the Cubs, poured it on his former mates in shutout style until the ninth. His task, however, would have been more complicated if Hack hadn't been riding herd around third base. Stan leaped to spear a couple of line drives and once boldly robbed Bobby Bragan of a hit with a stop on the line well behind the bag. Even with Hack's youthful activity and some help from the others, Chipman was forced to surrender his shutout because of a leak in the defense. Bill Nicholson let a fly ball escape for a two base hit after a scratch single in the ninth and the enemy scored.

There was one out in the fourth when Phil Cavarretta walked to set off the decisive three run splurge. Nicholson fanned, but Dom Dallessandro, back from a short siege with a charley horse, doubled and Cavarretta hiked home. Ival Goodman, who totaled three hits against Davis, doubled to send Dom across the plate and Goodman followed when Don Johnson singled.

Agree to Double Header.

The Dodgers' desire to make the Cubs play a night game here next Thursday to make up for last night's cancellation was officially interred today. Vice President Jim Gallagher won his point because the Cubs must travel to Pittsburgh that night. Having been whipped on that scheme, the Dodgers agreed to a double header next Thursday afternoon when the Cubs make a special jump back here from Philadelphia. One of the games represents last night's washout and the other a postponement from the first trip of the season here.

Study A.M.A.'s Plan to Build Health of U. S.

Washington, D. C., July 28 (AP).—Government officials and representatives of the medical profession today received from a group of 90 organizations the outline of a program to build the nation's physical fitness.

Sponsored by a joint committee of the American Medical association and the federal security agency's national council on physical fitness, the plan calls for a voluntary nationwide effort to improve health standards.

Organizations called on to develop the program with the committee at meetings here the last two days represent athletic clubs, labor, management, and other groups.

Dr. Morris Fishbein, editor of the A. M. A. journal, said the aims of the program were to provide a national "inventory of health," correct physical defects so far as possible, develop a program of education on hygiene and health, and provide "training and conditioning for improvement of the physical state of men, women and children."

"This is a serious effort on the part of the medical profession to improve physical fitness thruout the country," Dr. Fishbein said.

ALABAMA, UTAH CONTRIBUTE TO ALL-STAR LIST

Former Bloom High Guard Will Play.

All-Star Roster

THE list of college football players who have accepted invitations to join the All-Stars for the game Aug. 30 in Dyche stadium against the Chicago Bears follows:

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Two young giants, who attended the University of Utah and the University of Alabama, this morning add their strength to the forward line of the All-Star football squad which will face the Chicago Bears in Dyche stadium Aug. 30. They are Lt. George Hecht, who bulwarked the Alabama Crimson Tide for three years, and Jack Okland of Salt Lake City.

Lt. Hecht, who now is stationed at Fort Benning, Ga., weighs 240 pounds. Okland, a star tackle at Utah, balances the scale at 212 pounds. Here is power to match the best the 1943 National Football league champions can parade in Dyche stadium in the 11th annual All-Star game sponsored by The Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.

He's Bloom Township Graduate.

Hecht invaded the south after graduation from Bloom Township High school, Chicago Heights. He played varsity football for three years at guard but altho baseball is his favorite amusement, he did not participate in this sport in college. Hecht is 23 and is 6 feet 1 inch tall. He received a degree in commerce and business administration and immediately was called to active duty because of his training in the R. O. T. C. at the university.

When Hecht accepted an invitation to play against the Bears, the All-Stars acquired a place kicker of exceptional merit. In the 1943 Orange bowl game in Miami, Fla., between Alabama and Boston college, George kicked a field goal which sent the Tide ahead, 22 to 21, at the end of the half. Boston college did not score thereafter and Alabama won, 37 to 21.

Wins Five Letters at Utah.

In general, a lineman's greatest thrill in football is getting the ball rather than demonstration of his ability as a blocker and tackler which gained him varsity honors. Okland is no exception for he says when he intercepted a forward pass and ran 60 yards to score, it was tops in his career. Okland won three letters in football at Utah and he also was awarded two in track.

Okland's home is in Salt Lake City where he attended South High school before matriculating at the state university. He's 21 and is just short of 6 feet 2 inches in height.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 28.—Washington, the majors' champion night-conscious baseball city, is agreed that the real test for lamplit games will come when the seventh place Senators return home from their western adventures. . . . Earlier in the season when the team was in the race and playing intelligent baseball, crowds at night contests ranged from 10,000 to 15,000. . . . Many smart baseball men believe a team must play interesting baseball to get customers either by day or by night. . . . Tom Warren of the Brooklyn Dodgers' pitching staff is a navy veteran who participated in the landing at Casablanca. . . . It's said that Alejandro Carrasquel, Washington pitcher, turned down an offer of $8,000 per annum and all expenses to pitch in Mexico's baseball league. . . . Lt. [j. g.] Ken Heineman, member of the College All-Star 1940 squad and later half back with Brooklyn, is taking a navy indoctrination course at Princeton. . . . Turk Edwards, the Washington Redskins' mammoth line coach, takes partial credit for the restrictions recently lifted on purchase of shoes in Mexico by American citizens. . . . When one of Washington's government men visited his home, Turk asked, "Why do we have to use a shoe stamp to buy shoes in Mexico? Seems to me, that with a shortage of leather here, they'd let us buy all the shoes in Mexico we wanted to without stamps." His guest agreed he held the same opinion. . . . You can bet that Turk and the Redskins now assembled at San Diego, only a short distance from Tia Juana, will be examples of what the well dressed man wears in footgear.

We'd like to be in Chicago for tomorrow's Arlington Handicap at Washington Park. . . . It has the makings of a thrilling show because the talents of the two leading contenders, Georgie Drum and Equifox, balance off in a way that holds possibilities for a rousing finish. . . . Georgie Drum is quick enough to get up with the early pacesetters—and on many occasions he's shown resolute staying power in the stretch. . . . Equifox hangs off the pace. . . . Chicago racing crowds have seen him turn on terrific charging power on the last turn. . . . They've watched him set his nose down in front in the closing strides after getting to the leaders yard by yard during nerve wrenching stretch drives. . . . Equifox' distinguished sire, Equipoise, won the Arlington Handicap of 1933. . . . Equifox won it in 1941. . . . Since running second to Georgie Drum in the Stars and Stripes, Equifox has continued to improve. . . . It would be a fine climax to the career of Equifox, now 7 years old, if he could win a stake of this importance in what may be his final season of racing.

Hunger—or Romance?

While my roommate and I, along with a dozen other women, were waiting in the lounge of one of Evanston's most popular tearooms, the hostess came rushing out and asked, "Is there a party of two who would share a table with a single man?" MURRAY WINS CLOSE DECISION OVER THOMPSON

New York, July 28 (AP).—Lee Q. Murray, New York heavyweight, won a close decision tonight from Elbert [Turkey] Thompson of Los Angeles, Cal., in a 10 round bout before a small crowd in Madison Square Garden. Murray weighed 206¾ pounds, and Thompson 207¼.

What's in a Name?

I've just been reading about a street in Venice called "Calle delle Belle Donna" [street of beautiful women], and of another there named "Street of Murderers."

Now, why can't we over on this side use our flight of fancy in labeling our thorofares? Instead of the drab and repetitious Main streets, Center streets, State streets, and Jones streets, wouldn't it lend a lot of piquant picturesqueness to the local scene suddenly to come upon corner signposts reading, "Liar's lane," "Street of the Wagging Tongues," "Boulevard des Busybodies," "Avenue of the Dribblepusses," "Rue des Dames Who Want a Man but Can't Land One," "Champs des Chronic Crabbers," etc?

Maybe I'm wrong, but it seems this would add zip and color to any community. O, yes—there's one I almost forgot: "Boulevard of the Bores," this for those who say "O, yeah," "You said it," and "What's new?" Wouldn't it be marvelous to have them all lined up on a single thorofare? Then all you'd have to do to duck 'em would be just drive 'round the block!

Chemistry and Man.

Chemistry has given man
Many things with which to live,
But in spite of all its miracles

It has given us various vitamins
To improve our daily nutrition,
But has never offered a substitute
That would replace age old ambition.

Plastic bases on the phone,
Tho a chemist has never offered
Anything to replace backbone.

In spite of chemistry's marvels
The soul must have animation,
If you are to make any progress,

Tom Robinson, N. U. Coach, to Retire Aug. 31

Tom Robinson, Northwestern university's first and only swimming coach, will retire Aug. 31 after 35 years of service, it was announced yesterday by Athletic Director K. L. Wilson. Illness resulting from an automobile accident two years ago has forced the 62 year old dean of American swimming coaches to give up the career which began with his appointment in 1909.

Tom Robinson.

Won 10 Big Ten Titles.

Robinson's retirement brings to a close one of the outstanding coaching careers in the history of swimming. His Northwestern teams won 10 Big Ten titles, six national collegiate championships, and 12 Big Ten water polo titles.

The list of swimmers who attained stardom under Robinson's teaching includes some of the greatest names in swimming. Ten of his swimmers were members of United States Olympic teams. They were Ken Huszagh, 1912; Dick Howell, Ralph Breyer, Bob Skelton, and Sybil Bauer, 1924; Wally Colbath, 1928; Al Schwartz, 1932, and Art Highland, Volney Wilson, and Dan Zehr, 1936.

Saved Boy's Life.

Robinson owed his arrival in Evanston and ultimate position at Northwestern to unusual circumstances. While working as a boatman at Oconomowoc, Wis., he dived into the water and saved a small boy who was pinned beneath an automobile. He came, partially, as a reward from the boy's grateful parents, to Evanston academy. He stayed to coach at the Evanston Y. M. C. A. and when Patten gymnasium was built in 1909 he was appointed swimming coach at the university.

111 Compete Tomorrow in Tribune Swim

Arrangements have been completed and all finalists have been notified to report at 1:30 tomorrow afternoon at California park for the 15th Chicagoland 100 yard swimming meet sponsored by Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc. The first semi-final in the 10 age classes will start at 2 o'clock.

Medinah club girls and the Great Lakes Naval Training center are defending team champions. Individual winners in tomorrow's finals will receive gold medals. Those finishing second and third, respectively, will be awarded silver and bronze medals.

Four Bluejackets Entered.

One hundred and eleven boys and girls qualified at four sectional meets last week-end for the finals. Great Lakes' bid for a silver cup, emblematic of team supremacy, depends on four Bluejackets, three of whom will compete in Class E for boys 19 years of age and over. They are Achilles Pulakos, class D, and Charles Snowden, Everett Turley Jr., and Clyde Kemnitz in the senior age division.

The Kenosha, Wis., Youth Foundation team, headed by Rusty Garst in class C, is Great Lakes' particular rival. Garst previously has won titles in class A and class B. Scoring is on the basis of 5, 3, and 1 point for first, second, and third places, respectively, in each class.

Lake Shore Is Favorite.

Other boys on the Kenosha team are Gail Procaronia, Fred Merg Jr., and Allan Roedel, class A; Ronnie Berg, class B, and Paul Richards and Bob Smith, class C. Washington park and the South Side Boys' club also will be heavily represented in the classes for boys 16 years and under.

Lake Shore girls and the Mt. Hawley Country club, Peoria, Ill., have the largest number of finalists in the girls classes. Because of their experience, however, the Lake Shore swimmers are prohibitive favorites to win the team title. Jeanne Wilson is outstanding in class D, while Marilynn Billquist, Adeline Potter, and Veryl Wellington are entered in class E. Medinah will be represented in this last class by Edith Miller and Dolly Westman.

Eight others, including the Calumet farm's leading money winner, the 3 year old Pensive, beaten in his last five starts since winning the Kentucky Derby and the Preakness, are listed as probable starters. One of the largest crowds of the season is expected.

Calumet May Set New Mark.

Pensive, decisively beaten three times recently by his sensational stablemate, Twilight Tear, and fourth to Georgie Drum in the Stars and Stripes, has a chance to put the Warren Wright stable within $5,000 of breaking its all-time money winning mark set at $475,091 in 1941. Up to yesterday the Calumet farm had won $129,475 at the Arlington meeting to bring its season's earnings to $429,160. The winner's share of the handicap today will be $40,100 if all nine start.

Georgie Drum will carry 121 pounds and will be ridden by George [The Iceman] Woolf, who was aboard him in the Stars and Stripes. Pensive's impost of 114 pounds includes Buddy Haas. Carrying the same actual weight as Pensive are Howard Wells' 7 year old Equifox and John Marsch's 4 year old Valdina Foe, recent winner of the Grassland handicap in track record time.

15 to 1 Shot Wins Feature.

The other entrants include Ethel Hill's War Knight, which carries 106 pounds and came to Washington Park with the reputation of being just about the best horse on the Pacific coast.

Gold Princess, a 5 year old mare owned by D. V. McClure and ridden by Willie Bailey, won yesterday's feature race, the $5,000 Fifth War Loan Drive handicap for mares and fillies, 3 year olds and upward, at six furlongs. The winner went to the post the outsider at odds of 15 to 1, and beat Calumet farm's Mar-Kell by a neck in a driving finish. Miller and Burger's Traffic Court finished third, and Hal Price Headley's Tellmenow, the 3 to 2 choice, sixth. Gold Princess paid $33.80.

The daily double was worth $288.60 when C. E. Lund's Brown Mack won the first race and paid $11.60, and J. F. Beck's 23 to 1 shot, Tyro Lad, won the second and refunded $49.20 for $2. The attendance was estimated at 14,000 and the mutuel handle was $837,172.

FORD TURNING 81 PREDICTS BOOM IN POST-WAR ERA

Tremendous Demand for Autos Seen.

Detroit, Mich., July 28 (AP).—Henry Ford, who built a billion dollar industrial empire with an initial investment of $28,000, will observe his 81st birthday Sunday confident, he said today, that "prosperity and a higher standard of living can be attained after the war."

He predicted in an interview that the end of the war would bring a tremendous demand for motor cars and mechanized farm equipment and suggested that the Ford-operated Willow Run bomber plant may be used to manufacture tractors.

"The time is coming," Ford said, "When man will be able to determine the length of his life span by controling his diet. I think he will find everything he needs in wheat; wheat is the divine food."

Ford departed today with Mrs. Ford for a vacation in the Huron mountains of northern Michigan. He said he never felt better. Lean, alert, and agile, his appearance bore out his statement.

People to Learn.

"Yet," he went on, "At terrific cost we shall learn something out of this war. The younger people will gain experience; science is making great strides that will hasten the post-war rehabilitation and raise the standard of living, and perhaps both the younger and older people will learn how to set up a society in which greed can be abolished and with it the causes of war."

Discussing Willow Run where a finished B-24 four engine Liberator bomber is being turned out every working hour, he said:

"The fuselage of an airplane should be well enough built that it will float in the water and it might even be possible to devise a means of dropping the engine off a plane in distress which had happened to come down on the water. This would save lives and planes."

FIND 4 OF 8,181 RELIEF CLIENTS USE TAXICABS

Only four out of 8,181 clients who received relief at the station at 520 S. Wells st. used taxicab transportation during the period from July 13 to 19, George J. Klupar, director of the Chicago welfare administration, reported yesterday. Klupar said investigators learned that two clients could not use street cars because of physical handicaps. Investigation has not been completed in the other two cases, he added.

Klupar ordered an inquiry after complaints that taxis from the south side began arriving in droves around the relief office after the south side relief office was closed and the clients were transferred June 1 to the central office.

During the July 13-19 period, Klupar said, the investigation disclosed 111 clients arrived by private cars, but in no instance was a relief client found to be the owner of a car. He pointed out that surplus commodities up to a limit of 75 pounds were issued during this period and that in many instances transportation was furnished by neighbors or relatives who owned automobiles.

Edmund Hartwell, Oldest City Treasury Aid, Feted

Fellow workers yesterday gave a party for Edmund Hartwell, auditor and oldest employe in the city treasurer's office both in age and years of service, who will be 75 tomorrow. Mr. Hartwell, who lives at 1324 Elmdale av., has been a city employe since Aug. 1, 1885, when he started as a police telephone operator. He later became a civil service employe and entered the treasurer's office, where he rose to the post of auditor.

One Killed, 4 Injured in Crash of Two Autos

Walter Snyder, 43, of 2033 N. Racine av., a steamfitter, was killed and four other persons were injured yesterday when two automobiles collided at Ogden and Clybourn avs. Charles Peine, 47, of 626 Surf st., driver of the car in which Snyder was riding, suffered a possible skull fracture. Occupants of the other car, driven by Frank Cudia, 37, of 2311 Grand av., suffered cuts and bruises.

ILLNESS BLAMED FOR SUICIDE OF PHONE ENGINEER

Coroner's records in Du Page county yesterday showed a verdict of suicide while despondent over illness in the death of R. Denton Karle, 41, an electrical engineer, who shot himself in front of his wife, Elsie, in his home at 181 Kenmore av., Elmhurst, early Thursday.

Karle, who was employed by the American Telephone and Telegraph company, returned from a walk, sat down in the living room of his home at his wife's side, and pulled out a gun, she testified at the inquest. "Are you going to shoot me?" she asked. "No, I'm going to shoot myself," Karle replied, and shot himself three times in the head. He had been ill for some time, Mrs. Karle said.

Shortly after the attack on Pearl Harbor, Karle obtained a year's leave of absence and as a civilian employe of the war department was instrumental in modernizing and redesigning the army communications in Alaska. The couple have three children, 6, 9, and 18. Burial will be in Marshall, Mich.

MYSTERY VEILS GARY SHOOTING OF EX-CONVICT

Tony Bianco, alias Penzatto, 30, of 206 E. 43d st., Gary, Ind., a poolroom operator, was reported recovering in Methodist hospital there last night from what Gary police described as a "mystery shooting" late Thursday.

Bianco, who was released from Leavenworth [Kas.] federal penetentiary 10 months ago after serving 38 months of a 4 year sentence for counterfeiting, was crossing the street from his poolroom at 3851 Broadway when "four or five men" in a maroon sedan, bearing Illinois license plates, sped past him. One of the occupants fired four shots from a .32 caliber gun, witnesses told police. Two of the bullets hit Bianco in the back and a third his left arm.

In the hospital, Bianco told Chief Millard Matovina that "I don't know who shot me." Matovina said Bianco had been arrested for rape, assault and battery with intent to kill, and armed robbery at various times in Gary, but never had been convicted.

SUIT TO HOLD UP FARM ADVISERS' PAY DISMISSED

Springfield, Ill., July 28 (AP).—Circuit Judge L. E. Stone today dismissed an injunction suit seeking to prevent the use of $357,000 in state funds for salaries of county farm and home advisers.

The dismissal was asked by the plaintiffs, who included three officers of the United Farmers of Illinois, a United Mine Workers district 50 affiliate. They had contended that payment of the salaries by the state auditor was an unconstitutional use of public money and that the advisers were not state employes but part of the Illinois Agricultural association's activities.

The plaintiffs offered the court no reason for their dismissal move.

Slash Auto Quota

Washington, D. C., July 28 [Special].—The OPA announced today it would ration only 5,000 new automobiles during August. The July quota was 7,000. An additional 1,000 have been set aside as reserves to meet August emergency requirements. Inventories of new cars will have dwindled to about 24,000 or about 2½ days' supply in normal times, by the end of this month, officials estimated.

Altho unofficial estimates of Chicago's share of the national August quota of 60,000 truck and bus tires allotted for civilian use vary, all interests agree that the most generous allotment possible will fall far short of actual needs.

Predictions of persons associated with the motor truck industry fixed the Chicago quota at 1,000 to 2,700. These spokesmen said such an apportionment would be of little help because at least 10,000 heavy duty tires are needed in the Chicago area. The Chicago headquarters of the office of price administration has not announced its official August quota.

Report Much Tire Trouble.

The recent hot weather has caused much tire trouble, which has inspired vigorous protests from truck operators, particularly those who are compelled to run their equipment without spares. At meetings this week the Central Motor Freight association and the Illinois Motor Truck Operators' association warned government officials that the trucking industry faced an early breakdown.

Drafting of new priority classifications and establishment of special truck tire rationing panels, undertaken by the OPA as temporary relief measures, will have little effect, an OPA official said. The Chicago OPA office has had a special truck tire board for 15 months and it has distributed tires and tubes with strict attention to priority uses, the official said.

Much Equipment Idle.

Truck operators reported 7 to 30 per cent of their equipment idle thru lack of tires. One of them, who hauls only steel for manufacturing plants, said he needs 45 tires to continue operating.

Where the necessary equipment could be obtained was a question which drew only a few guesses. One spokesman said the only hope for relief is a temporary allocation from military tire supplies.

Business Changes in the First 6 Months

Close 4 Realty Deals Totaling Over $800,000

BY AL CHASE.

Sales of two Evanston and two Chicago properties totaling more than $800,000 were announced yesterday. For one of the Evanston parcels plans were announced for a $100,000 shopping center to be built as soon as materials are available.

Price Reported at $40,000.

The property, which fronts 132 feet on Chicago av. and is 170 feet deep, was purchased thru Smart & Golee, from the Public Service Company of Northern Illinois by the First National Bank and Trust company of Evanston, trustee, for a reported $40,000. Allan W. Cook was attorney for the buyer.

The 43 flat building at the southwest corner of Sheridan rd. and South blvd., Evanston, was sold by George F. Getz Jr., president of Globe corporation, to American National Bank and Trust company, trustee, for $400,000, with Earl E. Shipley as broker. Of the price $327,000 was cash and the balance a $73,000 mortgage assumed by the buyer. The property is 304 by 150 feet.

Chateau Hotel Corner Sold.

The southwest corner of Broadway and Sheridan rd., Chicago, was sold by Thomas C. Henning, James L. Westlake, and Samuel A. Mitchell, trustees of the Chicago Broadway Properties Trust of St. Louis, Mo., to Bernice Weisberg, representing a syndicate, for $231,800 of which $60,000 was cash and the balance a $171,800 purchase money mortgage. Milton H. Gray was attorney for the buyer. The property is improved with a store, an apartment building and the five story Chateau hotel, 3838 Broadway, containing 145 rooms and several shops.

The American National Bank and Trust company, trustee, bought from Arthur J. Diez the two story store building at 4029-31 Milwaukee av. for a reported $150,000, or at the rate of $3,000 a front foot, thru J. E. Ehrenhalt & Co. The site is 50 by 125 feet. Post-war plans call for replacement of the present structure with a modern, air conditioned one story business building for chain store occupancy.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

New labor disputes yesterday increased the number of idle workers in the country to nearly 13,000. A strike branched out into five plants of the Chevrolet gear and axle division of General Motors corporation, manufacturer of war plane engine parts in Detroit, and put approximately 3,100 men off their jobs. The trouble developed after five employes were suspended for failure to maintain new production rates.

The General Steel Castings company's Commonwealth plant in Granite City, Ill., producer of tank sections and naval equipment, was closed and 4,300 workers went home in the wake of a work stoppage by 300 chippers. The CIO United Steelworkers' union called the stoppage unauthorized, while the chippers maintained they were mistreated by a foreman.

Dismissal Starts Walkout.

A management spokesman said the dismissal of nine employes resulted in a walkout of about 3,000 persons at the John A. Roebling & Sons company in Roebling, N. J. The plant is engaged in war production.

All traffic on the Missouri and Arkansas railroad stopped when enginemen and trainmen decided to remain away from work. The local Brotherhood of Enginemen and Firemen said the operating employes walked out "on vacation" because they were displeased over continued unsuccessful efforts to settle their demands for wage increases authorized by the war labor board.

Wire Plant Closed.

In Marion, Ind., the plant of the Anaconda Wire and Cable company was closed when employes walked out in protest against the war labor board's failure to notify them of action taken on a petition for a wage increase filed on Oct. 16, 1943.

Production of motor bearings at the Federal Mogul corporation plant in San Francisco came to a standstill as nearly 100 machinists remained off the job as a result of an intraunion dispute.

GRAINS BEARISH ON ALLIED GAINS; CCC BUYS WHEAT

Peace talk and the rapid advance of the allied armies in Europe was construed as bearish yesterday by traders on the Chicago Board of Trade, but government support of wheat prevented a large decline and prices held within a range of ½ cent. The close was unchanged to ⅛ cent a bushel lower.

Reports that more than 100,000 bushels of cash oats had been sold for shipment and that outside markets were outbidding Chicago for cash grain in Illinois gave oats trade a firm undertone. Futures closed ¼ cent higher. Rye moved in a range of 1½ cents, breaking early with July selling at $1.05, a new low since last June. It rallied later on short covering and closed ¼ to ⅜ cent higher. Barley was ½ to ¾ cent lower.

UTILITY'S STOCK PLAN HEARING SET FOR AUG. 3

Philadelphia, Pa., July 28 (AP).—The securities and exchange commission will consider Northern Indiana Public Service company's proposed agreement with the First Boston corporation, New York, for the handling of its exchange offer of new 5 per cent cumulative preferred stock at a hearing Aug. 3.

Northern Indiana is issuing 22,078 shares of 5 per cent stock to retire a like number of 7, 6, and 5½ per cent cumulative preferred shares on a share for share basis, plus a cash adjustment.

First Boston would receive a manager's fee of $39,500, plus 10 cents a share for each share exchanged. Northern Indiana would pay a dealer's commission of $1 if less than half the shares are exchanged, $1.125 if more than half but less than 60 per cent; $1.25 if between 60 and 70 per cent, and $1.375 if more than 70 per cent.

1,500 HARVESTER EMPLOYES GET WAGE INCREASES

Nearly 1,500 employes of three Chicago plants of the International Harvester company were granted wage increases of 5 and 10 cents an hour, retroactive to June 18, 1943, Edgar L. Warren, chairman of the regional war labor board, announced yesterday.

Recipients are tool, die maintenance, and experimental workers in the McCormick twine mills, tractor works, and West Pullman works, members of the United Farm Equipment and Metal Workers, CIO. Warren said the WLB disputes panel has not made recommendations in the cases of 20,500 Harvester employes in five other plants, including the McCormick works in Chicago.

T.W.A. PROFITS CLIMB DESPITE REDUCED RATES

Expenses in Second Quarter Decrease.

Transcontinental and Western Air, Inc., had increased earnings in the second quarter this year despite the reduced passenger and express rates which were effected in the last half of 1943, Jack Frye, president, reported yesterday. Net income totaled $660,995, equal to 68 cents a share, compared with $419,341, or 43 cents a share, a year earlier.

Jack Frye.

Operating revenues amounted to $6,041,663, or 21.6 per cent higher than a year earlier, and were equivalent to $1.18 per revenue plane mile flown, Frye said. Operating expenses totaled $4,656,373, equal to 91 cents per revenue plane mile compared with 99 cents a year ago.

More Plane Miles Operated.

T. W. A. was able to operate 30 per cent more revenue plane miles in the June quarter than a year ago as a result of improved equipment and scheduling, along with recent additions to its commercial fleet, Frye said. Revenue ton miles per plane in the second quarter averaged 381,657, or 11 per cent higher than a year ago.

Frye said recent equipment acquisitions by the company have permitted it to increase the total of transcontinental flights to 11. T. W. A. has 36 DC-3 planes in its fleet, two of which are in the process of conversion from military to commercial use, he said.

Also, the T. W. A. Stratoliners, which have been in overseas service for the army air transport command since Pearl Harbor, are being rebuilt with the latest Flying Fortress wing and tail assemblies and with more powerful engines, which will permit a large increase in pay loads, he said. They will be returned to commercial service late this year, he said.

Food Pinch in 1945 Forecast; Scarcity Theories Assailed

Incentive Lacking

American farmers will produce plenty of food this year, but a real pinch is on the way and in some lines it will appear next year, the Corn Belt Farm Dailies said yesterday in a survey of the agricultural situation.

Supplies for bread and meat are vast but the situation regarding meat in the future is less promising, the publication said. The meat outlook results from the uncertainty as to what will happen when the western range country starts unloading its supplies this fall without provision for stocking feeder lots and from lower hog production.

Incentive Lacking, It Says.

The publication explained that prices being paid for feeder cattle and hogs take away the incentive for future production. It said a survey made of 159 Illinois farms where feeder cattle were purchased showed that $100 invested in feed brought only $105 in the animal, not counting labor and other costs.

The same survey disclosed that hogs paid out $136 for each $100 invested in feed, hardly enough to pay for the feed, labor, and other costs. Dairy cattle on 359 farms returned $160 for each $100 of feed, which also was inadequate, the publication said.

"Farmers have been accumulating means, not because they are making so much net profit but because they haven't been able to buy many things they need," it asserted. "They are playing their hand conservatively. There is little speculation. Debts are being reduced, and money is being put away against the time when things needed become available.

Predicts Purchasing Power.

"Farmer purchasing power will thus continue even after a price lag comes, as no doubt it will in time, tho no one knows now when that will be."

The publication criticized the government's handling of the beef situation in view of the large supplies of thin or unfinished cattle coming onto the market. It is impossible to put this meat into the hands of the public thru legitimate channels on a basis of 12 ration points for steaks, it asserted. A big black market exists because neither the public nor producers will coöperate, it said.

Cool Toward Curbs

Farmers strive for full production and participate reluctantly in government crop reduction programs, Rep. Clifford R. Hope [R., Kas.] told members of the International Baby Chick association at their annual conference in the Stevens hotel yesterday.

"Farmers are satisfied only when producing," he said. "In recent years many farmers have coöperated in government programs for adjusting and reducing production, but they have done so without enthusiasm, and because it seemed the only way out of an otherwise hopeless situation."

Scarcity Plans Unusable.

Hope said that altho some branches of industry and labor had resorted to scarcity programs thru monopolistic practices on the part of industry, and closed shops and slowdowns by labor, the farmer could not invoke such measures.

"Even if farmers wanted to, there is no way they could follow these practices except thru the government," he said. "That means bureaucracy, conferences, consultants, statisticians, and coördinators, none of which is particularly popular with farmers, no matter how necessary it may be.

Prosperity Doesn't Follow.

"They do not mean fair prices or prosperity. We learned that from 1933 to 1939. During that time we tried about everything in the way of agricultural programs. We spent billions of dollars on agricultural payments alone. The number of employes in the department of agriculture increased fourfold. Yet we wound up with prices at only 74 per cent of parity in September, 1939, when the war began."

Hope said that after the war the government should dispose of surplus foodstuffs with the least possible disturbance of prices, draft an up to date farm parity price formula, further study crop insurance, improve marketing systems, and set up machinery whereby farmers themselves may take temporary or seasonal surpluses off the market.

Food production in the United States increased 24 per cent between 1939 and 1943, despite shortages of agricultural labor and machinery, Hope said.

STANDARD OIL (IND.) ORDERS PAYMENT OF 25C EXTRA DIVIDEND

Directors of Standard Oil company [Ind.] yesterday declared an extra dividend of 25 cents a share on the capital stock along with the regular quarterly dividend of 25 cents. Tide Water Associated Oil company again declared an extra dividend of 5 cents a share as well as the regular quarterly disbursement of 15 cents.

North American company declared a dividend on common stock payable in Pacific Gas and Electric company stock at the rate of one share of Pacific Gas for every 100 shares of North American common held. Dividends reported yesterday:

SCHOOL BOARD TO PAY BONDS ISSUED IN 1934

The board of education Tuesday will redeem $12,300,000 of bonds issued during the 1934 payless payday era in the schools and will refinance another 10 million dollars at a saving of 3¼ per cent interest.

The 10 million dollars of 1¼ per cent bonds, issued in place of 4½ per cent bonds of 1934 issue, were sold to the Illinois company, low bidder.

The $22,300,000 issue of 1934 was of 20 year bonds callable in 10 years. The board mortgaged loop and other property valued at 25 million dollars to redeem the bonds. The new bonds are 10 year bonds, callable serially each year.

URGE WATERWAY GRID TO REDUCE TRANSPORT COST

New Orleans, La., July 28 (AP).—The national rivers and harbors congress today drafted a program designed to give the United States lower cost transportation by checkerboarding the country with connecting water ways and breaking what was termed "railroad domination" of the interstate commerce commission.

The group asked reconstitution of the ICC "to secure a wholesome balance between the several forms of transportation, on the one hand, and the general public interest on the other," and enactment of laws defining and implementing a definite national policy for the creation of "a true network of inland water way transportation."

The congress proposed a new ICC made up of five members, "none of whom shall have served on the commission before such reconstitution." The five members were to represent, respectively, inland water way transport, railway transport, air transport, highway transport, and domestic ocean transport.

SEARLE OBTAINS LAND TO EXPAND PRESENT PLANT

Post-war expansion plans for G. D. Searle & Co., pharmaceutical producer, were announced yesterday by John G. Searle, president, who said a 5½ acre tract just north of the Skokie plant had been purchased. The property fronts on Searle pkwy., extending from Elm st. east to the North Western railroad. When conditions permit a large addition to the present million dollar plant will be built, Searle said. Herbert Banse will be the architect.

The St. Clair Building corporation bought the five story building at the northeast corner of St. Clair and Illinois sts., containing 60,000 square feet of floor space, from Washington National Insurance company, for $200,000 thru Arthur Rubloff & Co., and Ross, Browne & Fleming. The new owner then leased the building for five years to Associated Distributors, Inc., cosmetic dealer.

WHISKY TAKEN OUT OF STOCKS LOWER IN JUNE

Total tax-paid withdrawals of domestic liquor last month, including rum, gin, brandy, and other spirits, totaled 6,901,420 gallons.

STOCKS RECEDE ON PERSISTENT TALK OF PEACE

Trade Falls Under 600,000 Mark.

New York, July 28 (AP).—The stock market retreated today in dealings that were the slowest in almost 2½ months. Altho a few resistant spots were in evidence from the start, most leaders gave ground without being subjected to any real pressure and closing declines of fractions to around a point were in the majority.

The reason for the reaction, first this week, was that traders wished to keep commitments at a minimum because of the persistent belief sudden ending of the war in Europe may find industry unprepared for reconversion. Brightening war news supported this argument.

Earnings Reports Minor Factors.

Scattered bids were based on the opinion the technical correction of the extended upswing may have run its course. Earnings statements, both good and bad, had little effect on stocks concerned.

The Associated Press 60 stock average was off 0.2 at 54.6. Only 821 issues appeared and 395 were down, 192 up. Transfers of 562,690 shares, compared with 693,370 yesterday, were the smallest for a full session since May 16.

Bethlehem Steel lost ½ despite yesterday's favorable second quarter statement. Standard Oil [N. J.] dipped ¾.

On the Curb Brill preferred added 6 points to its wide gain of this week on the merger with American Car and Foundry Motors.

BONDS SLOW AND MIXED.

New York, July 28 (AP).—In the slowest session in nearly three months, bond market prices today held close to yesterday's levels. Altho rails and foreign loans edged a little higher, industrials and low yields held steady and utilities dipped slightly. Sales of $5,942,600, compared with $6,675,700 yesterday, were the smallest for a full session since May 15.

Strengthening the list was the continued search by institutional investors for suitable higher priced industrials and utilities. A few new highs for the year or longer were posted. United States government securities ended unchanged to 4/32 higher.

CHICAGO SHARES DIP.

Prices declined yesterday on the Chicago Stock exchange in reduced volume of 23,000 shares. Active issues included Standard Dredging, Chicago corporation, and Miller & Hart, all unchanged; New York Central, down ½, and Butler Brothers, down ⅜. Among new 1944 highs was Eversharp, closing at 36, up 7¼.

CHARGES IN SALE OF STANDARD OIL FIRM DISMISSED

Lincoln, Neb., July 28 (AP).—The Nebraska Supreme court today dismissed charges that a conspiracy existed in the sale several years ago of the old Standard Oil company of Nebraska to Standard Oil company [Ind.]

The court held that "the officers and directors of the old company made no effort to gain any financial advantage thru the sale of the assets," that "they acquired no interest in the new company either by gift or purchase," and that "they acted for the best interests of the stockholders."

The decision reversed a District court order directing Henry W. Pierpoint and Morse C. Palmer, officers of Standard Oil of Nebraska, and the company to pay to stockholders $1,465,180 with 6 per cent interest from August, 1939, plus $4,500 for services and costs.

Big Decorating Demand After War Is Predicted

After the repressions of the war, the public will be all out for color, and the painting and decorating industry is preparing to meet the demand, George S. Stuart, executive director of the Painting and Decorating Contractors of America, said yesterday at a meeting in the Palmer House. A major topic is the problem of resuming apprentice training for returned veterans.

JOINT BANK ACCOUNTS.

I shall appreciate information on joint bank accounts. In the event of the death of one of the two parties to an account, does the money automaticaly become the sole property of the survivor without probate? If a judgment is obtained against one of the parties, is the joint account liable for any portion of it? S. L.

Answer: The practice may vary in different states or with banks, but the rule is that the joint account becomes the sole property of the surviving joint depositor or depositors without probate, but subject to federal and state claims for estate inheritance taxes if the estate exceeds the exemptions. The federal claim, if any, would be based upon the percentage of the amount on deposit contributed by the decedent. The burden of proof as to origin and percentage would be on the government.

In some cases, state claims for such taxes are based on the arbitrary assumption that half of the deposits belong to the decedent, regardless of who contributed the money. After releases are given by tax authorities, the bank recognizes the survivor or survivors as the owners.

It rarely happens that judgments are executed against joint accounts, bankers said. When such attempts are made, the claimant is required to prove proportionate ownership—usually a difficult proceeding.

TOBACCO SALES ARE EXPECTED TO REOPEN SOON

Washington, D. C., July 28 (AP).—Southern flue-cured tobacco men were reported tonight to have agreed to abandon an indefinite market holiday intended to protest OPA price ceiling.

The Georgia and Florida markets—closed for a week beyond scheduled openings while warehousemen and growers battled with federal officials over ceilings—are expected to open Monday or Tuesday.

OPA ANNOUNCES NEW WHOLESALE CEILINGS ON EGGS

New ceilings for wholesale grade eggs effective Aug. 1 thru Sept. 30, with extra No. 1 and No. 2 fixed in Chicago at 42½ to 48½ cents a dozen as the period advances, were announced last night by the OPA.

Chicago prices on extra grades are 2 cents a dozen under ceilings fixed for other basing points, New York, Seattle, Los Angeles, San Diego, Phoenix, and Tucson. On standard grades and "current receipts" unclassified, the Chicago price is 1.6 cents lower.

OPA said the action was taken pending a complete revision of the shell egg regulation, issuance of which has been delayed. The prices conform to ceilings set for consumer grades in the corresponding period of last year.

WPB, WFA Warn of Lack of Egg Case Materials

A shortage of container board for egg cases may make it necessary to base 1944-'45 manufacture on actual requirements reported by producers, packers, and shipp

NAVY ADMITS FEW BOBTAIL VOTE ERRORS

Army Denies Its Men Are Involved.

The navy thru an unnamed spokesman in Washington, D. C., yesterday admitted that some of its men overseas and on ships—all "outside the continental limits of the United States"—illegally marked and sent home federal war ballots which were not supposed to have been issued to them until Oct. 1.

At the same time the war department also issued a formal statement in which it said: "Charges that federal war ballots have been illegally voted in several states do not involve any army personnel."

Admits a Few Cases.

A navy man was quoted in a Washington dispatch as saying: "There have been a few cases where ballots have been received from the naval service. But there have been no ballots executed by navy voters within the continental limits of the United States. All have come from overseas or from ships at sea.

"The ballots were plainly marked not to be given to the men until Oct. 2, at the earliest. However, in a few cases they were opened and some got them.

"These ballots cannot be accepted by the secretaries of state who received them.

Votes Won't Count.

"The judge advocate of the navy has ruled that these illegal votes are not to be counted and that the voters may have another ballot if they apply under the law at the proper time."

Secretaries of state of New York, California, Rhode Island, Iowa, Illinois, Connecticut, and Pennsylvania have reported illegal federal ballots coming into their offices. Frank M. Jordan, California secretary of state, reported receiving "several hundred" of the ballots, some of them, he added, dated almost two weeks before the Democratic national convention.

The war department's official statement listed the states in which the ballots have been prematurely received, said they are "invalid," and added: "Careful investigation has revealed that none of these ballots was executed by army personnel and that the war department was in no respect responsible for their having been voted."

30 Million Prepared.

Col. Robert Cutler, executive director of the Roosevelt administration's war ballot commission, and ballot officer for soldiers, was quoted, however, as saying he had his fingers crossed. The government prepared 30 million of the federal war ballots, altho they are illegal in 28 states, all of which are preparing to send their own full ballots—just as they will be voted at home—to their voters fighting in the army or navy.

The federal ballot contains no name, but merely provides spaces into which the soldier or sailor voter may mark his choice for President, United States senator, and the representatives from his congressional district.

25 Received in State.

In Illinois some 25 of the war ballots have been received, Secretary of State Rowe said yesterday, all of them, according to the postmarks, from men in the navy or marines. He said these have been forwarded to the county clerks in whose jurisdictions the ballots belong but that from now on the senders of any received will be notified they are illegal and will be sent an application for a state ballot.

County Clerk Flynn, who had received a dozen of them from Rowe's office, said he had written Rowe asking that no more be forwarded. He said he also is sending the fighters word that their ballots are not legal and can't be counted, and mailing them applications for state ballots.

Thompson of Baltimore, Md., was elected president of the National Chiropractic association at the concluding session yesterday of the association's five day war council conference in the La Salle hotel. 73 MEN REPAID DUES REMOVED BY CHECK-OFF

CIO Is Required to Reimburse Firm.

Money which was deducted as CIO union dues from the pay checks of 73 employes of the Bethlehem Steel company who said they never were members of the union was returned to them yesterday in Circuit court.

The men, welders in the company's works at 8301 Stewart av., charged that CIO agents fraudulently included their names in a list of union members submitted to the company paymaster for the check-off of monthly dues. They did not know the CIO considered them members, they said, until they found their checks were smaller the first month.

First Recovery on Record.

The action before Judge Stanley Klarkowski yesterday was the first case on record anywhere of men recovering wages taken from them thru CIO check-off systems. Eleven other men at the Stewart av. plant, who sued with the successful 73, have appealed to the war labor board. Their court suit was continued 60 days.

CIO union officers contended the 11 men originally signed as members and did not give sufficient notice of withdrawal. They were allowed 15 days to withdraw.

Edward L. S. Arkema and Carl Howig, attorneys, filed the Circuit court suit. They said dues of $1 a month were deducted for two months from the men's checks. Arkema said he was prepared to prove George Chunis, an agent for the CIO, signed blanks as union lists, and that these later were filled in with names over his signature and presented to the Bethlehem paymaster.

Deductions Returned.

In court yesterday the company presented checks to the attorneys in the amounts of the deductions from the wages of the men they represented. Judge Klarkowski then dismissed the suit.

Arkema said the company's contract with the CIO union provides the union must reimburse the company for the refunds.

FINE BARKEEP FOR SALES TO MINOR SAILOR

Gus Kozina, 52, of 907 McAlister av., Waukegan, a bartender, was fined $75 yesterday by Police Magistrate J. B. Neahaus after members of the navy shore patrol testified he had served beer to a sailor under 21. Kozina, who works at Vincent Pinky's tavern, 1118 Sheridan rd., North Chicago, said the sailor had told him he was over 21 and refused to show identification. The navy said the tavern had been warned earlier about serving liquor to sailors under proper age.

Highland Park Holds 3 on Burglary Charge

Robert Savage, 20, of El Paso, Tex., alleged to be absent without leave from the army, and two juveniles, Robert Devins, 14, of 2341 Ainslie st., and Charles Richard Bowen, 15, of 4833 N. Hoyne av., were lodged in Highland Park jail last night to await a preliminary hearing next week on charges of burglarizing the home of Harry Kunin, 1201 S. Sheridan rd., Tuesday night. Warrants for the three were issued by Magistrate Henry A. Hansen of Highland Park yesterday.
